OPPOSITION IS DEFEATED

Chamber of Commerce Approves Duquesne Way Railroad.

VOTE WAS DECISIVE

Business Men Indorse Pennsylvania Ordinance Passed by Common Council.

BILL WON IN TWO CONTESTS

The chamber of commerce, by the decisive vote of 40 to 29, went on record yesterday in favor of granting the Pennsylvania Railroad Company the Duquesne way franchise upon the terms imposed by common council. The victory of the franchise advocates was made the more emphatic by the action of the board of directors, which met just prior to the general meeting of the chamber, and rejected the joint report of the river and harbors committee and the committee on municipal affairs.

The directors adopted substitute resolutions, presented by James H. Willock, which recommend the passage of the Duquesne way ordinance by select council and its approval by the mayor, with the declaration that the compensation be not more than $5,000 a year instead of $50,000 as demanded by the opponents of the franchise.

The attendance at the meeting of the chamber was unusually large, showing a large representation of the various business interests of the city. The Liberty avenue merchants were conspicuous, and almost a unit in favor of the franchise. Mr. Willock, representing the Liberty avenue business men, took the most prominent part in behalf of the franchise, making a strong speech in favor of the grant and replying to the objections of the opposition. The river men were the most prominent in the opposition, trying to introduce the bridge-raising question in the proceedings.

Several Spicy Incidents.

There were a number of spicy incidents, one of which was a lively clash between Capt. W. B. Rodgers and Robert Pitcairn, and a retort by Capt. John E. Dravo to William A. Renshaw, a Liberty avenue merchant.

During the debate before the board of directors Capt. Rodgers was speaking on the subject of bridge-raising, contending that the proposed elevation of the railroad would interfere with the approach to the Allegheny bridges if the government ordered them raised.

"The time has come," declared Capt. Rodgers, "when the rivermen of this city propose to know how the chamber of commerce stands on the question of bridge raising, and whether the chamber will stand by the interests of the people or by the Pennsylvania railroad."

Chairman John Eaton reminded Capt. Rodgers that the chamber had already voted against bridge-raising, and he suggested that the matter should be eliminated from the discussion; that the bridge question should go to a special committee.

"While this chamber decided against bridge-raising, I am satisfied that if it had to be done over again the chamber would take a different view," replied Capt. Rodgers. "There are but four interests here against these resolutions," he added, looking toward Robert Pitcairn of the Pennsylvania company.

"What are the four interests?" demanded Mr. Pitcairn.

"You represent one of them," answered Capt. Rodgers.

"I deny that," said Mr. Pitcairn.

"Then why are you here?" asked Capt. Rodgers.

"I am here as a member of the chamber of commerce," replied Mr. Pitcairn.

Rivermen Demand Action.

Acting President Eaton again suggested that the bridge-raising matter should go to a special committee. Capt. Rodgers vehemently opposed such a course.

"We want this chamber to go on record. We want the bridges raised and we don't care who pays the cost, whether it is the government, the railroad or the bridges. The proposed elevation of the railroad will interfere with the raising of the bridges and that is why we are opposed to the railroad down Duquesne way."

The rivermen called upon Engineer H. L. Layton, representing their side, to explain the plans of the proposed structure along Duquesne way. He said the plans as now before councils would seriously affect the approaches to the bridges in case they were raised and the rivermen ask for a clearance of 17 feet at the approaches. He said this would require the company to raise the grade of the railroad at Sixth street 4 feet 3 inches; 3 feet 3 inches at the Seventh street bridge, and 3 feet 9 inches at the Ninth street bridge. He said that if the company would do this it would give it a better grade down Duquesne Way than the present plans indicate.

Pitcairn Asked Questions.

Mr. Pitcairn wanted to know if Mr. Layton got his plans from the United States engineer's office. He replied that he got them at the city hall, and that he also had the data which the company submitted to the government engineer.

The incident in which Capt. Dravo and Mr. Renshaw took part occurred when Capt. Dravo was making a speech in reply to Mr. Willock. When Mr. Willock had finished Mr. Renshaw arose and thanked him for having enlightened him on the ordinance, stating that previously he had been in the dark.

When Capt. Dravo was speaking Mr. Renshaw interrupted him with: "Captain, I would like to ask you one question."

Capt. Dravo turned and said: "I don't care to answer your question. I am afraid I might convert you again. A person so soon converted is not likely to be

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Louisville, Ky., July 16.—Col. Morris B. Belknap of Louisville, a wholesale merchant widely known throughout the country, received the nomination for governor on the first ballot. His delegates, contrary to predictions, stood with him. Belknap was nominated after former Gov. W. O. Bradley had been placed in nomination and the followers of Augustus E. Willson, the man supposed to be Mr. Belknap's nearest competitor, had decided not to present his name. The threatened stampede to Bradley was quelled by an emphatic declaration that he would not be a candidate, but for some unknown reason the convention officers called his name during the ballot and he received a greater number of votes than Clifton J. Pratt, who had made an active canvass.

The convention did practically nothing during the morning session, and the long wait was profitably employed by the Bel-

M'KINLEY'S BROTHER IS VERY SICK

Fear That He Has Suffered Paralytic Stroke at Somerset.

FRIENDS SUMMONED

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Somerset, Pa., July 16.—Abner McKinley, brother of the late President McKinley, is dangerously ill here at his summer residence. The physicians attending him are very much alarmed and reports are flying through the street that the distinguished citizen of New York is not far from death's door.

It appears that Mr. McKinley's illness did not assume a serious form until yesterday. Today, however, a dangerous symptom developed, when pain in the back of the head rendered him helpless. That it was a paralytic stroke is the grave fear.

Tonight Mr. McKinley is in a precarious condition and physicians are constantly attending him. His relatives have been sent for. Attorney H. S. Endsley of Johnstown arrived this afternoon. He is Mr. McKinley's brother-in-law.

SHOT DOWN IN A FIGHT WITH POSSE

Indiana County Man Is Taken to Jail and Lynching Threatened.

GIRL MAKES CHARGE

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Indiana, Pa., July 16.—Arrested after a running fight with deputy constables in which he was seriously wounded, Clarence Wilt of Ebensburg, Pa., is in jail here, charged with assaulting 11-year-old Margaret Barclay. The promptness of the officers saved him from lynching. Although the danger of his being subjected to mob violence is probably past, the country round is still wrought up by the event, and the jail is strongly guarded.

Wilt is a lumberman, 35 years old, who has spent almost all his life in the woods. He is without education, being able to write only his own name. Yesterday the gang of lumbermen with which Wilt was working were employed along the township road in Buffington township. Last evening all the men but Wilt started in for supper to Strongstown. Wilt went the other direction, and after walking a few yards down the road stopped at the Barclay school house, at the edge of the farm of John M. Barclay, one of the well-to-do men of the township.

Margaret Barclay, the farmer's 11-year-old daughter, came down the road just then, on her way to the village postoffice. Wilt dragged her into the woods back of the school house and assaulted her. When he left her she had strength enough left to make her way across the fields to her father's house, where she made known the story.

Barclay and a dozen armed men captured Wilt after first shooting him down, hitting him in the right shoulder.

The posse seized him and dragged him to the township road. Several teams were passing at the moment, and when their occupants heard the story the crowd became more difficult to handle than the prisoner. But Wilt was placed on a horse and the men made their way back to the Barclay homestead, where Wilt was taken before his victim and positively identified. Then the posse started for the jail at Indiana. The long drive of 20 miles was finished this morning. Wilt's wound had been roughly dressed.

News of the crime had reached Indiana in the night. Several hundred men and boys were gathered near the jail when the posse rode up with their prisoner. They surrounded the weary officers and demanded that Wilt be given over to them for summary justice. Cooler heads in the crowd obtained a hearing, however, telling the excited groups that the lumberman's victim was in a fair way to recover, and that lynching might result in arrest and injury to all present. While they talked the officers got Wilt inside the jail. The crowd grew larger, stood around the jail and shouted for an hour or more, but finally dispersed. Wilt laughed at the whole affair, and in an air of braggadocio said that he could not be convicted. His trial comes up in September.

Coated With Tar and Feathers.

ITHACA, N. Y., July 16.—The citizens of Peruville, a village 10 miles from here, administered a coat of tar and feathers today to Theodore Underwood who a year ago was tried in Ithaca for the murder of J. F. Teeter. It is reported that Underwood drove his wife and three children from home three days ago and they have since lived with neighbors.

ALL MONEY RAISED

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Grove City, Pa., July 16.—In the laying of the cornerstone for the new Wayside inn, established for the care of the aged and infirm Odd Fellows of Pennsylvania, 15,000 members of the order this afternoon joined in freeing the institution from debt. When the structure is dedicated a year hence every cent of the $35,000 to be spent in the work will be paid. More than $3,000 was received today and every obligation against the building fund was promptly met.

Over 15,000 Odd Fellows and their families participated in this big annual jubilee. Threatening weather did not materially hinder the attendance and all the delights of the traditional reunion of the brothers of the order were enjoyed.

GREAT STOGIE MERGER MADE

C. M. Logue of Pittsburgh Leads the Company Which Controls.

ALL INTERESTS UNITE

Output of Close to 700,000,000 Smokes a Year Will Be Increased.

U. S. CIGAR CO. ABSORBED

Under the control of one company, which will have its headquarters in Pittsburgh and New York, practically the entire stogie industry of the United States is merged by a combination which has just been completed. The Pittsburgh interest to pass to this new company is the United States Cigar Company, formed last August. C. M. Logue, its president, becomes president of the new concern, the American Stogie Company.

In addition to the local company, the American Stogie Company takes over the interests of other large tobacco companies manufacturing the cheaper grade goods, stogies, cheroots, etc. The American Cigar Company, the American Tobacco Company, the Continental Tobacco Company and the Consolidated Tobacco Company, the four large tobacco companies of America, pass to the new company their entire interests in this line.

The new concern will start with a production of close to 700,000,000 stogies and other cheap smokes of various kinds per annum. This capacity is to be still further increased, largely by additions to local plants.

Stock Sells Above Par.

The capital stock of the new company is $976,000 guaranteed 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock, and $11,000,000 common stock. The preferred stock is issued to retire the 25-year 6 per cent bonds to the same amount of the United States Cigar Company. The first sale of this preferred stock was made yesterday afternoon on the Pittsburgh stock exchange. Two blocks of 50 shares each changed hands at $102, and it is expected that the stock will go still further above par.

Only this preferred stock of $976,000, issued to the underwriters and holders of the United States Cigar Company's bonds, is ahead of the common stock of the new company. It is expected that the common stock will pay dividends from the first.

The officers of the new company are: President, C. M. Logue; first vice president, H. W. Cobb; second vice president, C. C. Dula; treasurer, Edward M. Brash; assistant treasurer, H. D. Kingsbury; secretary, W. D. Sharpe.

Prominent Men Are Directors.

The board of directors consists of C. M. Logue, W. D. Sharp and Edward M. Brash, all of the United States Cigar Company, Pittsburgh; S. Bailey, Pittsburgh; Edward A. Kitzmiller, Pittsburgh; H. W. Cobb, vice president American Cigar Company and Havana Commercial Company, New York; George B. Hanford, president of the Federal company, the American Vulcanized Fibre Company and the Time Recording Company, New York; H. D. Kingsbury, treasurer Continental Tobacco Company, New York; A. S. Morehead, vice president American Cigar Company and Havana Commercial Company, New York; C. C. Dula, vice president Continental Havana and British-American Tobacco companies, New York; A. Schneider, American Cigar Company, New York; R. E. Christie, American Cigar Company and Havana Commercial Company, New York; J. B. Cobb, president American Cigar Company and British-American Tobacco Company, New York; R. M. C. Glenn, British-American Tobacco Company, New York. Officers of the United States Cigar Company will be made directors in the interests of the American and Continental Tobacco companies.

The new company is especially remarkable by reason of the noted men of finance who are interested in it. These include John D. Rockefeller, J. B. Duke, Grant B. Schley, Anthony M. Brady, Thomas F. Ryan, B. M. Duke, George B. Hanford, Charles A. Wimpfheimer, the Hon. Chas. W. Fairchild, R. L. Fox and John Bogart, all of New York; P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia, and W. C. Whitney of New York.

Pittsburghers Largely Interested.

Among the Pittsburgh people interested in the company are: John W. Herron, Major W. G. McCandless, S. Bailey, Jr., S. W. Vandersaal, Joseph R. Paull, John McClurg, Peter Hermes, D. J. Richardson, E. The deal was consummated through George B. Hanford of George B. Hanford & Co., New York, and Moore & Schley, New York, who looked after the New York end of the transaction and the interests of the American Cigar Company, Continental Tobacco Company, American Tobacco Company and Consolidated Tobacco Company. The Pittsburgh interests were handled by C. M. Logue. The Commonwealth Real Estate & Trust Company represented by John W. Herron, president, and S. B[illegible], president, and the Gu[illegible]

THEOSOPHICAL LOVERS PERFORM THEIR OWN MARRIAGE CEREMONY.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 16.—With blue sky for a chapel, an arbor of trees for altar and the waters of Lake Ontario for a background, Fritz Darrow and May Goodall married themselves this morning on the beach at White City, Windsor Beach. The ceremony was witnessed by 200 friends. Darrow announced that he took the woman to be his wife and slipped a ring on her finger. She made a similar statement, then together they repeated:

"Trusting under the guidance of our higher selves to travel life's paths in perfect comradeship, before you who know and love us we pledge each other troth, so help us, our higher selves.

"Oh, my divinity, thou dost blend with the earth and fashion for thyself temples of mighty power.

"Oh, my divinity, thou livest in the heart-life of all things and dost radiate a golden light that shineth forever and doth illumine even the darkest corners of the earth.

"Oh, my divinity, blend thou with me that from the corruptible I may become incorruptible; that from imperfection I may become perfection, that from darkness I may go forth in light."

A witnessed marriage contract was signed later. Darrow and bride are ardent Theosophists.

TWO FARMERS POISONED AND $2,000 IS STOLEN

One Man is Dead, Another Dying and Tramp Escapes With Money.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

FINDLAY, O., July 16.—John Carr, a wealthy farmer whose home was near Stony Ridge, is dead, and his hired man, George Umsele, is dying of poison placed in their food, it is alleged, by a tramp named George Schofield, whose motive was robbery, and who got safely away. A few days ago the tramp applied at Carr's farm for work, and yesterday at noon he cooked dinner for the three men, who were the only occupants of the farm. Only Carr and Umsele ate of the dinner, the tramp saying he was not hungry.

Shortly after dinner the tramp disappeared, and then Carr and Umsele were taken violently ill. Late in the afternoon the stricken men were discovered in a critical condition by neighbors. A physician was summoned, who left medicine and said the trouble was not serious. When the doctor left the tramp came forth from the barn, where he had been hiding, and holding the neighbors at bay with a shotgun, went into the house and got $2,000 in gold that Carr had hidden in his bedroom.

He left soon after, but all night the neighbors were afraid to enter the house, not knowing the tramp was gone. This morning they ventured in, finding that Carr was dead and Umsele dying. Some of the coffee which the men drank was thrown into the hog pen and an hour later all the hogs were dead. Arsenic was the drug used.

PROTESTANT PRAYERS FOR POPE CAUSE OF GRATITUDE IN ROME

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 16.—A telegram from the Associated Press having been forwarded to Cardinal Rampolla informing him that on Sunday, July 12, prayers were offered in Protestant churches in the United States for the recovery of Pope Leo, the cardinal has replied through the following letter from the ex-secretaryship of state of his holiness:

"Dear Sir.—The communication forwarded by you has been most gratifying to the cardinal secretary of state, my master. His eminence hopes that the holy father's health will allow him, when the opportune moment comes, to inform his holiness of the contents of the telegram.

"The very great desire always felt by his holiness for the reunion of the dissident churches will certainly render this demonstration of the interest of the American Protestant churches most acceptable.

"With true sentiments of esteem, I remain your devoted servant,

"Giacomo Della Chiesa,
"Substitute Secretary of State.

"Rome, July 16."

It is believed that Cardinal Rampolla submitted the Associated Press telegram to the pope at today's audience, when speaking to his holiness of the universal manifestation of sympathy, even from non-Catholics.

WILL NOT EVEN CONSIDER THE JEWISH PETITION

Russia Makes Curt Reply to Polite Inquiries Made at St. Petersburg.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 16.—It was learned tonight that the state department has received a reply from Russia stating that it neither would receive nor consider the matter of the Jewish petition on the subject of the Kischineff incident. This information came in the form of a cablegram from Mr. Riddle, the American charge at St. Petersburg, to whom was committed the delicate task of inquiring of the Russian government as to its attitued with respect to the presentation of the petition. It is believed that this will end the matter and that no further steps will be taken by this government to bring the views of the petitioners to the attention of Russia, although as yet no consideration has been given by the president to the course to be pursued in the light of Russia's response to our inquiry.

The reply that Russia would make to all suggestions on the subject of the Kischineff massacre was forecasted some weeks ago, when the public was informed that Russia regarded the affair as an internal matter as to which she must refuse to receive suggestions from any other government or outside source.

TRAGIC AND SUDDEN DEATH OF P. M. ARTHUR

WINNIPEG, MAN., July 16.—P. M. Arthur, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, dropped dead late tonight while addressing a banquet at the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers convention. His last words were, "It may be my parting words to many of you." Mr. Arthur's home was in Cleveland, where the members of his family now are.

Company, by Joseph R. Paull, president, looked after the finances of the undertaking in this city.

Stogie Business Is Increasing.

To the new company, the United States Cigar Company contributes four plants in Allegheny, two large plants in Pittsburgh, one in Altoona, one in Huntington, W. Va., one in Ironton, O.; one in Columbus, O., and one in Cleveland, O., as well as several other locations that have just been arranged for by the United States company management.

The output of the United States Cigar Company for the first year of its business, which is just ended, will be something over 250,000,000 smokes, and the addition of the output of the same class of goods manufactured by the other company will raise this to close 700,000,000.

It is stated that the policy of the American Stogie Company will be to reach out in all sections of the country and establish large factories in all sections, to increase their output. The stogie business has increased so rapidly of late years that it has become a question not of selling the output but of manufacturing near enough to supply the demand. A foreign demand will also be developed.

Pittsburg has been recognized as the home of the stogie for 25 years and it is practically certain that among the first plans of the new company to be carried out will be to enlarge the local factories. The old Collins Cigar Company plant, at Twenty-eighth and Smallman streets, will be made three times as large as at present. The Brilles' factory, in Fremont street, Allegheny, will be at least doubled. The Union-American plant in Woods Run, Allegheny, will have its capacity greatly increased by the erection of a new modern building, the output being doubled. The W. W. Stewart Company plant, at Main and Cherry streets, Allegheny, and the Zeigenschmidt Bros. plant, at Wilson and Townsend streets, Pittsburgh, will also be increased largely.

President Logue's Career.

Several Pittsburghers occupy the most important offices of the new company. C. M. Logue, the president, is one of these, and is likewise another illustration of the country boy's rise in the large city. He came to Pittsburgh in 1886, from Clarion county, with little more than a great deal of grit. His first venture was in the insurance business, first in Allegheny, then in Pittsburgh. In 1893, he became interested with Edward A. Kitzmiller in the Collins Cigar Company and remained with that company, as its manager, until the formation of the United States Cigar Company, with which it was merged, in August, 1902. The organization of the merger was managed by Mr. Logue and George B. Hanford. He has recently become largely interested in banking in Pittsburgh, being one of the most prominent members of the syndicate that has obtained control of the Iron City National bank, the Guarantee Title & Trust Company, the Moreland Trust Company, the Standard Security Trust Company, and the Homewood Peoples bank. He is a director of the Homewood, the Iron City and the Guarantee.

W. D. Sharpe, the secretary, was formerly identified with the Union-American Cigar Company, as secretary and treasurer. He has been secretary also of the United States Cigar Company. He is a director of the Federal National bank, Pittsburgh, and the Ohio Valley bank, Lower Allegheny. He is a native of Pittsburgh.

Edward M. Brash, treasurer of the American Stogie Company, was formerly connected with M. Brilles & Co., or the Imperial Cigar Company of Allegheny. He has been a vice president of the United States Cigar Company and one of the active managers. He ranks high as a tobacco man.

PITTSBURGH REGIMENT LEADS SECOND BRIGADE

Regimental Average of the Fourteenth is Highest Under General Wylie.

For the first time in many years a Pittsburgh regiment has taken the highest regimental average in the Second brigade. The Fourteenth regiment has this honor, according to the official report of the spring inspection of the National Guard of Pennsylvania. The full report was received here yesterday and the general averages of the companies were tabulated to find the regimental average.

The figures show the following percentages for the infantry commands of the Second brigade: Fourteenth regiment, 96.78; Nineteenth, 92.41; Tenth, 91.69; Fifth, 89.15; Eighteenth, 87.06.

The Fourteenth regiment by this same showing is also well up among the regiments of the entire division, it ranks sixth in general average, there being now 14 regiments of infantry in the guard. The order of the first six are as follows: Eighth, 95.14; Thirteenth, 94.60; Ninth, 94.02; Twelfth, 94.36; Fourth, 94.09; Fourteenth, 96.78.

The three Allegheny county companies that passed with the highest standing are Company D, Fourteenth, Capt. Franklin Blackstone; Company I, Fourteenth, Capt. Howard B. Onrsler, and Company K, Eighteenth, Capt. John B. Guthrie.

The news that have reached Pittsburgh of intentions on the part of the military department of the state to muster out the Fourteenth regiment are not believed by the officers of the regiment to have had any basis in fact. They point to the showing of the command in this inspection as sufficient reason for its continuance.

WEDDING WITNESSED BY 10,000 PERSONS

The largest crowds of the week yesterday thronged the grounds of the Business Men's carnival at McKeesport. In the afternoon nearly 10,000 people attended the show, which in the biggest thing of the kind ever seen in the Tube City. Payday at the mills added to the funds of the crowd and all the shows were well patronized.

The event of the afternoon was a wedding in the "Streets of India." James W. Matthews and Myrtle Stephenson were the principals and were married by Mayor J. W. Falkenstein. A crowd of fully 3,000 people saw the ceremony and cheered when the mayor kissed the bride. The couple was attended by Daniel Waltman and wife and Mrs. M. L. Waltman. The bride wore a dress of white muslin trimmed with lace, and white slippers. The groom is a member of the firm of Matthews & Waltman, painters and contractors of McKeesport.

Headrick has been on the force for 19 years and has occupied his present position for 14 years. The resignation is to take effect August 1. The reason given for his action is old age and ill health. SCHWAB TAKING NEEDED REST

Story of His Disappearance Denied by a New York Business Associate.

WAS HEARD FROM YESTERDAY

Visiting Friends in Pennsylvania to Escape Annoyance Over Trivial Matters. Will Likely Return to New York Next Week—Private Car Not in Use.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, July 16.

A story sent out from Johnstown, Pa., of the alleged disappearance of Charles M. Schwab from his summer home in Loretto received instant and emphatic denial here. An old and intimate friend of Mr. Schwab, who is also a business associate, discussed the story tonight, but declined to allow his name to be used.

"Mr. Schwab is in daily and almost hourly communication with his offices in this city," he said. "He was heard from twice today. Therefore it is evident that he is not 'lost.' Mr. Schwab has not been in Loretto since last trip to New York. When he left there he accepted the invitation of some friends to visit them, where he would have a chance to get absolute rest without being annoyed by the thousand and one communications from people with whom he has no direct business. He has been entirely too kind in giving his time and attention to people who wish to ask him all sorts of business questions and advice, and this has added greatly to the burden he was carrying. He felt that if he did not get absolute rest at this time he would soon be back in the same condition as he found himself just prior to his last trip to Europe. It is to escape this that he went to his friends in Pennsylvania. He is feeling much improved and will be back in New York again within a very short time, I think next week.

"Mr. Schwab's private car is in Jersey City, as reported. It has been there in the Pennsylvania yards for 10 days.

"Mr. Schwab's friends in Pittsburgh know where he is spending his time at present and cannot be worried, as they hear from him almost daily. I cannot understand how such rumors could start, unless it is the mere fact that Mr. Schwab was reported to be in Loretto and is not there now. It is to escape the annoyance of denying all sorts of rumors and thereby get some needed rest that Mr. Schwab is now stopping with his Pennsylvania friends."

The Herald correspondent at Philadelphia telegraphs his paper that Mr. Schwab is stopping at the St. James hotel, Philadelphia, and is registered as Charles Lee. He further states that the steel king had the appearance of a robust healthy man. His eyes are bright, his face tinged with color, and his step springy and firm.

NO CAUSE FOR SCARE ABOUT C. M. SCHWAB

Steel Corporation's President Resting, and Family Knows His Whereabouts.

Wild reports that Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, had disappeared and that officers of the steel company were seeking him, reached here from New York last night. It was even said that Mr. Schwab's own family did not know where he was.

At the house of Mrs. Mary E. Kinsey, Mr. Schwab's mother-in-law, in Braddock, much amusement was expressed that New York had just learned of Mr. Schwab's "disappearance," when as a fact he had left there on July 3. Mrs. Schwab, it was said, for some time prior to July 3 had been insisting that her husband should go where he could not be bothered and take a rest. His trip to Europe for his health had benefited him, but as soon as he returned he had started to work again, and worked too hard. Mr. Schwab obeyed his wife and they started for Loretto. His private car arrived in Pittsburgh with nobody aboard. On July 4 Mr. Schwab's annual fireworks exhibition was given in Loretto, Mrs. Schwab and the children were there, but Mr. Schwab was not. When the people at the Kinsey house were asked where Mr. Schwab got off the car, they laughed and said that for obvious reasons they would not tell, as it might disclose his whereabouts and defeat his object in seeking retirement.

It was just before Mr. Schwab left New York that W. E. Corey, president of the Carnegie company, went to New York as Mr. Schwab's assistant, and this coincidence is interpreted to mean that it was with Mr. Schwab's consent, and probably at his request, that Mr. Corey, who has been known in Homestead and Braddock as Schwab's right hand man, left Pittsburgh for New York.

It is expected in Braddock that Mr. Schwab will emerge from his retirement in less than a week.

Dr. M. R. Ward, Mr. Schwab's brother-in-law, is out of town and is not expected back until the end of the week. He is with Mr. Schwab, it is supposed. At Dr. Ward's house, No. 4781 Wallingford street, it was said last night that no alarm need be felt regarding Mr. Schwab; that he was in good health; that his object in seeking retirement was to rest and to avoid publicity; that his immediate family knew his whereabouts and was not in the least alarmed. Because Mr. Schwab desires to be away from publicity is the reason, it was said at Dr. Ward's house, that no information could be given concerning his whereabouts.

BRYAN COMPLAINS.

Writes to Postmaster General Payne Asking Him to Suppress St. Louis Concern.

LINCOLN, NEB., July 16.—(Special.)—W. J. Bryan has written a letter to Postmaster General Payne complaining of a St. Louis company running a guessing contest on the number of admissions to the coming exposition. Mr. Bryan in his letter says:

"It is apparent from the advertisement that it is even more demoralizing than the ordinary lottery, because the price of the ticket and the large capital prizes promised are more alluring to those who are susceptible to the temptations offered by a lottery. It is also less fair than the ordinary lottery, because the contestant has no way of knowing how many competitors he has. In the public lottery the prizes usually bear a fixed and known proportion to the amount received for tickets, but in this case the company may take in ten or a hundred times the amount paid in prizes."

CAPACITY DOUBLED.

Union Steel Casting Company Spends $300,000 to Advantage.

Extensive additions are being made to the works of the Union Steel Casting Company at Sixty-first street and the Allegheny Valley railroad by which the capacity of the plant will be doubled.

These additions are both in the real estate and the equipment, and the cost of the improvements is placed at more than $300,000. The company's plant is considered a model one in many respects.

The officers of the Union are: President, C. C. Smith; vice president, S. H. Church; secretary and treasurer, G. W. Eisenbeis.

DAVIDSON HOLDS JOB FOR A WHILE

Allegheny Council Failed to Pass Ordinance Abolishing Delinquent Tax Collector.

PARTY PLEDGES VIOLATED

Ross and Hilldorfer Remained Away From the Meeting After Pledging Their Support to the Proposed Reform Measure—Rowdy Scenes in Council.

The ordinance providing for the abolition of the delinquent tax office in Allegheny got a setback in common council last night because of the absence of Charles A. Ross of the Third ward and Joseph P. Hilldorfer of the Tenth. Disregarding the pledge signed on July 10, when they subscribed their names to a promise that they would vote for the ordinance, both remained away from the meeting, and for the lack of one vote to make a legal majority the ordinance goes over until the next meeting of council.

The vote stood 20 for and 17 against the ordinance. Those who voted for the ordinance were Messrs. Bernhard, Boyd, Cochrane, Frances, P. H. Frederick, William G. Frederick, Geltz, Thomas W. Harvey, William H. Harvey, Henderson, Hilldorfer, Hollar, Kappeler, Keane, Kelly, Mohney, McBride, McHenry, Ross, Schleich and Spicer.

Meeting Was an Exciting One.

The meeting was the most exciting that has been held in Allegheny for several years. Tax Collector Davidson had the chamber packed with a gang of "workers" from the First ward, and the meeting was interrupted several times by the yells of this mob. Their cries and hurrahs for Davidson stopped proceedings several times. Mayor Wyman was sitting beside President McElroy when the vote was taken on the measure and displayed evident nervousness until the result was announced. He shook hands with Davidson and congratulated him when the meeting was over. He could not be induced to say what had taken place between him and Councilman Hilldorfer at the conference in the afternoon.

After the meeting crowds of taxpayers who packed the lobby and stood in the halls, gave expression to their indignation at the action of the two men who had failed to attend the meeting and oppose the ordinance.

The meeting last night, although resulting in a temporary victory for Davidson, demonstrated one fact—that Wyman has lost control of the common branch of councils. Of the 37 members present, 20 voted for a measure that Wyman is battling against in every manner possible. Should the three members who were absent remain with Wyman, the best he will have is a tie in the common branch. As the large majority in the select branch is Republican and not in sympathy with Wyman, his influence in both branches is lost.

Special Meeting to Be Called.

Although the action of council last night delays action on the delinquent tax ordinance until the next meeting of council, it is scarcely likely that the object of the Davidson crowd—to have it held over until the next regular meeting—will be realized. It is almost certain that a special meeting will be called before another week is past. Already 20 signatures are pledged to a petition asking for the call of a special meeting, and it is likely that the fight will be kept up until the office of delinquent tax collector is abolished.

Councilmen Peter Imhof and Justus Schroedel each presented ordinances last night providing for the amending of the present ordinance governing the delinquent tax office. Imhof in his ordinance asks that an amendment to be made to section 4 providing that the collector get 2½ per cent instead of 5 per cent of his collections, and that the remaining 2½ per cent go into the city treasury.

Schroedel's ordinance differs from this only in that it simply provides that the collector shall get 2½ per cent of collections and that nothing go to the city. Both ordinances were referred to the finance committee.

The fact that these ordinances were introduced is regarded as an evidence of weakening on the part of Davidson and his friends. It is said they realize the small chance they have of winning in this fight and are endeavoring by any means to have the office kept in existence, even should they have to make concessions in the matter of compensation.

CHANGING THE GRADE OF TERMON AVENUE

Allegheny common council last night passed finally the ordinance changing the grade of Termon avenue, in the Eleventh ward. Other measures passed finally are: Ordinances vacating the sidewalks through West park, opening Herman street, widening Shady avenue to 50 feet, changing the grade of McIntyre avenue, in the Tenth ward, and licensing merry-go-rounds.

All the measures passed by the select branch on Wednesday, with the exception of the ordinance abolishing the delinquent tax office, were passed.

OFFERS TO GIVE NAME OF WOMAN WHO POISONED J. O. BROWN

Superintendent of Police John P. McTighe received a letter yesterday that may aid Coroner Jesse M. McGeary to clear up the mystery regarding the late Recorder J. O. Brown's death. It is as follows:

"Dear Sir:—I know who killed Recorder J. O. Brown. It was a former nurse of his. She gave him arsenic, which she bought at a drug store in Fourth avenue near Ferry street. If the coroner wants her name I will furnish it.

WAYSIDE INN CEREMONIES

They came from all parts of Western Pennsylvania and for the day virtually owned the little college town of Grove City.

The exercises were held on the Wayside Inn property which was opened by the Odd Fellows a year ago. The farm is located a mile east of the town and overlooks the romantic valley of Wolf creek. The solemn ritual of the fraternity was observed in the placing of the great stone in position and the cheers of thousands followed the ceremony. Grand Master Samuel A. Steel, of Wilkinsburg, officiated, and addresses were made by Deputy Grand Master Robert Graham, of Philadelphia, and Grand Warden Melville E. Chubbick, of Towanda.

Trainloads of Visitors.

The day that brings the Odd Fellows' reunion at the Wayside Inn is a cardinal date in Grove City's calendar. From every county in the western half of the state the pilgrims came. Twelve special trains on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and the Bessemer & Lake Erie railroads brought strings of crowded coaches filled with recruits for the great outing party. From the country side the turnout was equally as large, 2,500 rigs being corraled in the fields of the farm.

In remote districts in Mercer, Lawrence, Butler and Venango counties the farmers today left their harvesters and rose at dawn in order to participate in Grove City's gala festivities. With well-filled lunch baskets in the bottom of the buggy and some other fellow's sister on the seat, farm lads drove 10, 15 or 20 miles to enjoy the picnic. Down the dusty roads they drove behind their most spirited nags, each swain trying his utmost to outstrip the crack roadster of his neighbor on the rural speedways.

The whole Wayside Inn farm was converted into a vast midway bordered with attractions that haunt the county fair or street carnival. In a score of booths pretty Mercer county girls waited upon the refreshment tables and shed winning smiles upon the hungry, thirsty multitude.

The merry-go-round, the wheel of fortune and the man with the prize rings furnished diversion for thousands. There was dancing in the woods for young Odd Fellows, old fogy romantic bears and nimble feet; there were seats in the cool shade and band concerts for older Odd Fellows who wanted quiet rest with their recreation; there was the wild man in the pit eating live rattlesnakes and pythons for Odd Fellows who were looking for thrills and the strange sensations of the side show.

Pittsburgh Well Represented.

But everybody enjoyed themselves to the utmost and spent their money freely for the good cause. No serious accidents marred the day and before nightfall all had departed, leaving behind enough money to defray all the expenses for the institution. Every lodge in the Western Pennsylvania district was represented, and some took over 90 per cent of their membership to the celebration. Pittsburgh and Allegheny and the suburbs were especially well represented.

The boys and girls from the Odd Fellows' orphan home at Meadville took a prominent part in the exercises and the boys' fife and drum corps won much praise. When the children had stepped down from the platform, Louis K. White, president of the inn, was presented with a donation of $500 by the heirs of Henry Suttmeyer, of Ben Avon, for whom the property was named. George Orth, of Bellevue, donated a lot in Thomas avenue, Bellevue, valued at $650 to be raffled off at $1 a chance, the money also to revert to the inn treasury. Every Odd Fellow who paid 25 cents was given the privilege of writing his name on a scroll which was sealed up in the cornerstone. In addition to this copper plates engraved with the names of the officers, copies of Pittsburgh newspapers and country weeklies and old coins were placed in the stone.

The new home will accommodate 100 members. During the last year the crops raised on this farm have netted $600.04, this sum being $400 above the expenses of the farm, exclusive of salaries. In the old farm house there are 11 inmates, as follows:

John Bader, aged 72, from Robert Blum lodge No. 414; Edward Parry, aged 69, Gomer lodge No. 64; Benjamin Ross, aged 72, Sheakleyville lodge No. 592; Ebenezer Hathaway, aged 85, Cambridge lodge No. 901; Charles Schneider, aged 73, Valley Echo lodge No. 622; Thornton Smith, aged 65, Stokes lodge No. 796; Magdaline Smith, aged 60, Stokes lodge; William M. Kirkpatrick, aged 68, Sandy Lake lodge No. 573; Lyman H. McCoy, aged 66, Zeigler lodge No. 1030; William Humes, aged 72, Shenango lodge No. 195; Evan J. Davis aged 68, Sharpsville lodge No. 732.

CITIZENS OF CLARION MAKE CONTRIBUTIONS TOWARD RAILROAD

Fifty Thousand Dollars Given to Build a Line Connecting With Pennsy at Summerville.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Clarion, Pa., July 16.—A new railroad into Clarion is assured. It will be known as the Clarion, Summerville & Pittsburgh railroad, and will connect with the Low Grade division of the Allegheny Valley railway at Summerville, Jefferson county. Today the closing contributions were received toward a fund of $50,000, which is being raised by the citizens of Clarion county as a good will offering to the enterprise. Charles F. Heidrick, a Brookville lumberman, is promoting the scheme. W. S. Guffey and Emmett Queen, of Pittsburgh, are largely interested in the road.

Traffic agreements have been made with the Pennsylvania and it is stipulated that the new line shall be built and equipped before September 1, 1904. The $50,000 donated by the Clarion people will not be paid over until the road is ready for operation. Engineers will begin the preliminary surveys next week and an application for a charter will be made immediately. The road will be operated entirely independent of the Pennsylvania and the company will purchase its own rolling stock.

The Clarion, Summerville & Pittsburgh road will be 17 miles in length and will open a tract of coal land containing over 15,000 acres. This lies almost adjacent to the coal fields which have already been secured by the Guffeys and will present boundless opportunities for quick development of virgin mineral territory. The proposed company will take the right of way which was secured about two years ago for the Clarion & Summerville Railroad Company.

COL. BELKNAP FOR GOVERNOR

knap leaders in holding their men in line. Twice during the convention it looked as though an indication of willingness on the part of Bradley would have given him the nomination. The resolutions adopted are, in part, as follows:

We congratulate the people of the United States and its new possessions on the unparalleled prosperity achieved under national Republican policies that have stimulated the public honor, fostered industry, stimulated enterprise, extended American commerce, strengthened American influence and ennobled citizenship by giving security of labor and capital alike, and insuring to every man who works a standard of living and an expectation worthy of American civilization and civic concealment. We stand for the continuance of existing Republican financial and tariff policies.

We express highest appreciation of the record that President Roosevelt has made in continuing the great work begun by William McKinley and in himself dealing with the new problems that he had to solve; in his handling of the Philippine question; in his firm management of the Venezuelan crisis; in his wise and courageous course with reference to the intolerable coal strike, in his honest efforts to secure justice to Cuba.

We denounce assassination and lawlessness, whether in Servia or Kentucky, as destructive of civilization, and call with the enlightened intelligence of the state, through its legislative, executive and judicial agencies, to employ remedies to re-establish order and punish crimes within our borders. We especially arraign the present state chief executive for so exercising the pardoning power as to subserve political and partisan purposes, with the certain effect of encouraging crime by virtually rendering criminals of Democratic political faith immune from punishment.

No reference to the money question was made in the platform. Nominations for governor were reached late in the afternoon when the names of Clifton J. Pratt and Morris B. Belknap were offered. The old custom of nominating speeches was followed. Judge W. E. Breathitt placed Pratt in nomination and George Durelle offered the name of Belknap. Wilson's backers did not respond when his congressional district was called and this was equivalent to a withdrawal.

COL. MORRIS B. BELKNAP,
Republican Candidate for Governor of Kentucky.

The surprise came when the Eleventh district was called and State Senator Kash nominated former Gov. William O. Bradley in a speech of the fervid Kentucky style, and the delegates made a tumultuous demonstration, which Mr. Bradley finally quelled by shouting:

"I have declared for 12 months that I would not accept this nomination. I am an honest man and while I thank my friends, I adhere to my original resolution. I cannnot be a candidate for governor."

A negro delegate provoked much enthusiasm by a word in praise of former Gov. W. S. Taylor.

As the ballot progressed it showed that Bradley drew the Wilson strength and part of Pratt's forces, but failed to materially affect Belknap's vote, and by the time three-fourths of the counties had been called Belknap had received 1,147 votes, or 12 more than enough to nominate. Many counties which had voted for Bradley and Pratt then began changing their votes to Belknap. Just before the roll-call was completed Judge Pratt withdrew his name. Bradley reiterated his previous statement that he was not a candidate, only to be interrupted by a delegate who tauntingly cried: "You're beat now."

As soon as the hisses which greeted the interruption had died away Mr. Bradley turned to the point whence the taunt had come and shouted: "I don't know who you are and I don't care; but you are a liar." The interruption subsided. The nomination of Belknap was then made unanimous. After his speech of acceptance an adjournment was taken and the rest of the ticket completed at the night session.

RELEASED BY A DREAM.

Vision Reveals Hiding Place of Gold and Establishes a Prisoner's Innocence.

A dream, resulting in the finding of a family treasure—$250 in gold—secured for Cato Fercine, an Italian, his release from jail yesterday. Fercine was accused by Charles Brissock of No. 119 McClure avenue, Allegheny, of stealing the money, and had been in jail since July 5. He was to have had a hearing last night, but the revelation of Brissock's dream made the unnecessary. Brissock, after telling his story to Alderman David Thomas, paid the costs and took Fercine home rejoicing.

On July 5 Brissock and his wife, who keep a boarding house, missed a pile of gold buried in the cellar, and Fercine was arrested and charged with the theft. Until yesterday morning he was regarded as the guilty one by Brissock and his wife.

Brissock had consulted several clairvoyants regarding the lost treasure, but got no satisfaction. Yesterday morning he thought he was awakened by the splashing of water and found himself in his cellar, where a mermaid was disporting herself in a pool of crystal water surrounded by tropical foliage. Brissock's first thought was that his hoard was in danger, and removing it from its original hiding place, buried it in another part of the cellar. Here, in the place revealed in the dream, he and his wife found the money yesterday.

NEW FINANCIAL LAW IS NECESSARY

President Agrees With Senator Lodge That Something Should Be Done.

THEY CONFER AT OYSTER BAY

It Is Feared That Constant Turmoil in Wall Street May Affect General Business Conditions—Congress Will Take Matter Up.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 16.—Legislation to remedy existing financial conditions will be the paramount business of the extra session of congress to be called for Monday, November 9. President Roosevelt is much concerned over the present era of reckless stock liquidation. He thinks it constitutes a grave menace to sound business morals throughout the United States. Therefore, although the extra session is to be called for another purpose, the ratification of the Cuban treaty, the administration's influence will be thrown to obtain the passage of financial legislation. Preferably the bill now being drawn by the senate committee on finance.

Senator Lodge arrived here this morning about 10 o'clock and passed the day with the president at Sagamore Hill. He is a member of the Alaskan boundary commission which is to begin its sessions in London early in September. Before sailing for England tomorrow on the steamer Cedric he came to Oyster Bay to consider with the president, among other things the work of the commission. He left at 6 o'clock this evening for New York.

Senator Lodge as he was leaving for New York said: "General business conditions through the country are strong and sound, but there is no telling what effect this constant stock liquidation will have upon these conditions. In New England business is most excellent, and generally speaking, the future is bright. But here also it cannot be stated what effect reckless stock liquidation will have upon business. The high price of cotton has detrimentally affected the mills. That is largely the result of speculation. I am not in the stock market myself, so I will not venture to say whether or not there is any danger of a speculative crisis. Certainly there is no danger of an industrial crisis."

"Did President Roosevelt discuss with you the extra session?"

"Yes," replied Senator Lodge. "We discussed it at some length. There is to be an extra session called to meet on Monday, November 9. The president hopes that we shall take up financial legislation."

A committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive firemen extended to President Roosevelt this afternoon an invitation to attend the district convention of the order to be held at Reading, Pa., on August 20. The president, who was made an honorary member of the brotherhood last fall in Chattanooga, expressed regret at his inability to accept the invitation on account of previous engagements.

POPE LEO GASPS FOR BREATH NOW

presented itself yesterday when the doctors were confronted on the one hand with the apparently imperative necessity of another operation and on the other hand with the danger that such an operation in the patient's present enfeebled mind might prove fatal. This dilemma was canvassed by Dr. Lapponi and Dr. Mazzoni throughout the day. At their earlier conference there was some prospect that the operation might not take place and the doctors left the sick room without arriving at a definite determination as to when it would take place. They expressed the belief, however, that a delay until today would serve a useful purpose in permitting a larger extraction of serum in case the operation was undertaken.

Condition Greatly Depressed.

Meantime the pope continued in a state of great depression. Thanks to a fairly good afternoon's sleep, the physicians were able to issue a bulletin at 7:25 p. m. showing that there had been no vital change in the normal progress of the disease, though the same serious rapidity of respiration as noticed in the morning had again to be recorded. So painful has the latter become that one of these present in the sick room described the pontiff as literally panting for his life's breath.

Later the pope was sufficiently at ease to receive Cardinal Rampolla and his holiness conferred upon him the enlarged authority made necessary by the present illness for the executive transaction of papal affairs. It is understood that one result of this action will probably be the speedy appointment of a successor to Monsignor Volpini as secretary of the congregation.

The tenacity of Pope Leo is most admirable, not only in his organism, but even in his feeling. The best example thereof is perhaps the continual proofs of confidence that his holiness bestows on Cardinal Rampolla, who, after faithfully serving the pope for 16 years, is now being made the object of most bitter attacks especially during the last period because of the Francophile attitude of the papacy.

Trusts His Secretary.

The pontiff seems to have had an intuition that while he lies with one foot in the grave Cardinal Rampolla's adversaries are beginning to take advantage of his tottering power to pull down the idol which until yesterday they worshipped, so his holiness leaves nothing unattempted to show the world up to the last moment how much he trusts his secretary of state.

No one was admitted to the sick room today except the cardinal secretary of state, who was only allowed in on the repeated request of Pope Leo, who said to him that he desired to confirm and extend the power his eminence already exercises by his position and authorized him to take measures which in ordinary times would necessitate the direct intervention of the pontiff "in recognition of his personal devotion to the pontiff and the services he had rendered to the church."

PARIS, July 17.—The Dix Neuvieme Siecles correspondent at Rome says that Dr. Lapponi's son who spread reports favorable to Cardinal Rampolla has been expelled from the vatican by orders of Cardinal Oreglia.

RANSACKED A HOUSE BUT TOOK NOTHING

Moses Atwood's residence, No. 906 Ridge avenue, Allegheny, was entered by thieves some time yesterday, but nothing of value was found. The Atwood family is living in the summer home in Sewickley Heights. Mr. Atwood returned to the Ridge avenue house yesterday and found all the rooms in disorder. He had been in the house Wednesday night. The police are of the opinion that some boys entered the place, and finding nothing that could be carried away easily, left after ransacking every room.

CONVENTION IN FULL PROGRESS

Seventeen Thousand Epworth Leaguers Invaded Detroit Yesterday.

DAY OF SONG AND SPEECHES

Many Meetings Held by the Enthusiastic Members, Who Listened to Stirring Words by Eloquent Methodist Divines.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

DETROIT, July 16.—Seventeen thousand Epworth leaguers are here to attend the sixth international convention of the organization which opened here this afternoon. Three meetings were held this afternoon at the same time, the addresses and other features of the program being identical. The main meeting was held in the tent Ontario and another in the Detroit opera house and the third in the Central Methodist Episcopal church.

Gov. A. T. Bliss, himself a Methodist, delivered the address of welcome, followed by the Rev. H. M. DuBose and the Rev. George Elliott in response. The watchwords of the convention are "Waiting," "Witnessing" and "Working," and all of the speakers made these three words the keynote of their addresses.

Tonight four great pentecostal meetings were held and it is estimated that nearly 17,000 people were in attendance. The main meeting was held at tent Ontario, where Bishop C. B. Galloway of Jackson, Miss., was the principal speaker. He spoke on the eighteenth century pentecost and his splendid eloquence swayed the 7,000 people in and about the tent until "Amens" and "Hallelujahs" broke forth from all parts of the audience.

During his discourse he spoke of the declaration of the late President McKinley that the southern as well as the northern soldiers' graves should be decorated on Memorial day, and the mention of the martyred executive's name brought forth a great burst of enthusiasm.

Owing to the illness of Bishop D. A. Goodsell, Bishop Joyce, president of the league, occupied the time alloted to his address and was received with enthusiastic applause. The Rev. E. M. Mills was the third speaker of the evening, discussing "The Object of Our Present Waiting."

The same program was carried out at the other three meetings and the enthusiasm accorded the speakers was equal to that at the tent meeting. The Rev. J. F. Berry, general secretary of the Epworth league, presided over the Detroit opera house meeting. The speakers there were as follows: "The First Pentecost," the Rev. E. H. Hughes; "The Eighteenth Century Pentecost," the Rev. J. F. Ross; "The Object of Our Present Waiting," the Rev. J. F. W. Bowen. At the meeting in the Central Methodist Episcopal church J. A. Patten was chairman and the speakers were: The Rev. Whiting of Toronto, the Rev. H. M. DuBose and the Rev. C. B. Mitchell. The Rev. J. M. King of Philadelphia, was chairman of the Fort street meeting and the speakers there were the Rev. C. O. Jones, the Rev. Levi Gilber and the Rev. Folemus H. Smith.

During the day state rallies were held by the delegates from Minnesota, Indiana and Wisconsin.

FIREMAN KILLED IN RACE.

Oscar Jones of Salem Meets Death During Tournament Contest at Toronto, O.

TORONTO, O., July 16.—(Special.)—The tournament of the volunteer firemen of Northeastern Ohio was marred today by the fatal injury of Oscar Jones of the Deluge team of Salem in the association hose races. He fell and the hose cart ran over him. He died tonight. He was 29 years old. The remains will be taken to Salem for interment tomorrow morning.

In the races the independents of Bridgeport won first prize, $125, in 31 seconds flat; the Deluge team of Salem won second money, $50, in 37 seconds flat. The accident to Jones interfered with the time of this team.

The hub-to-hub race between the same teams, 150 yards, was won by Bridgeport easily, in 16½, prize $50. The 100-yard foot race was won by Fred Carstensten in :10½. John Enerlien of Salem was second. Blanche Carson of Toronto was crowned carnival queen.

Crowds Pouring Through the Entrance to Calhoun Park to the Orphans' Picnic.

BIG CROWD AT ORPHANS' PICNIC

Pleasant Weather Drew 20,000 Merry-Makers to Pretty Calhoun Park.

LARKIN WAS A VERY BUSY MAN

City Controller Had to Secure an Assistant to Help Him Sell Tickets—Committee Hopes to Raise $20,000 for the Benefit of the Asylum.

"It was settled two years ago that it should not rain on the day of the annual picnic of the St. Paul's Orphan asylum," said the Rev. Father Thomas A. Lynch jocosely last evening.

Continuing, he said it was due to the weather being ideal that the picnic is the best ever held under the auspices of the asylum.

A fair estimate of the attendance yesterday places the number at 20,000. Many of those assisting in the picnic did not expect so many present as attended Wednesday, but in this they were mistaken. Controller Larkin was busier yesterday in selling entrance tickets than any day since he took the position in the city hall. During the afternoon he called an assistant to help him, and both were hardly able to sell tickets fast enough. Many people had purchased tickets before the day of the picnic, which relieved the work at the park entrance.

The managers of the picnic were determined to raise at least $20,000 for the orphans, and if the crowd is any criterion they have succeeded. The gate money alone will bring in nearly that amount, and the receipts from other sources will place the asylum on a solid financial foundation for at least another year.

The different schemes to draw in the nickels and dimes were many and interesting, and the regular attractions at the park pay a percentage of receipts to the picnic committee. For those who delight in taking chances there was ample opportunities to invest a few dimes, with the possibility of getting something worth having for almost nothing.

Early in the day the park resembled a county fair having people from every direction. Bishop Phelan was a prominent figure. He lives during the summer at the orphan asylum and is very fond of children.

J. O. BROWN INQUEST MAY BE FINISHED TODAY

Dr. McKelvey Expected to Be the Most Important Witness. McGeary's Position.

The inquest into the death of the late city recorder, Joseph O. Brown, will be resumed today at 1:30 o'clock. Neither Coroner Jesse M. McGeary nor his uncle, James R. P. Brown, nephew and brother of the deceased, would say whether any new testimony has been discovered. Dr. W. H. McKelvy, who attended J. O. Brown in his last illness, will probably be called to the stand for the first time to be questioned on the evidence of other witnesses who said that J. O. Brown had taken sulphonal before his death. As the chemists, who held the post-mortem examination found antimony in the body, it is also said to be likely that Dr. McKelvy will be questioned whether any drugs that his patient took may have contained that mineral.

It is possible that witnesses from New York may be here to testify concerning any woman with whom J. O. Brown may have visited New York.

"I see no reason why the inquest should not be concluded today," said Coroner McGeary, "unless something new should turn up. I do not anticipate any new developments; but one cannot tell what may eventuate. Being coroner of the county and the nephew and good friend of J. O. Brown, my position is rather delicate. You must remember that nobody told me at the time of my uncle's death any of the things that have become known. I had to go to the expense of engaging chemists, whose investigations developed some things that other people already knew and which they could have told me about. As coroner, I want to know of what J. O. Brown died. If he was poisoned, I want to know it; if he took poison himself, I want to know it; if he died a natural death, I shall be glad to learn of it."

HOMESTEAD HOST BITTEN BY A CRAB

Jacob Tressel, proprietor of the Seventh Avenue hotel, Homestead, was bitten by a huge crab last evening and his hand so badly injured that fears are entertained that blood poisoning may result. He is a specialist in shell fish and always secures the largest possible to display in his window. He was engaged in placing the shell fish in the window when one of the large claws closed on his left hand. The powerful jaws had to be pried open.

MEMBERS OF THE CHORUS WEDDED IN CUMBERLAND

Mystery of a Double Disappearance Cleared Up by a Telegram from Brooklyn.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 16, 1903.

Winston and I were married in Cumberland, Md., July 6. Our apologies to Mr. Reynolds and good wishes to all.

JEANNETTE.

The receipt of this telegram yesterday by John J. Martin, comedian of the Duquesne garden opera company, was the first intimation of what had become of two members of the chorus.

Miss Jeannette Darrell and Winston Hubbard—"Winston and I"—appeared in the chorus on July 4, but failed to show up for rehearsal on the following Monday. While it was known they admired each other, it was not considered a serious case, and their names were not coupled matrimonially.

Miss Darrell is the daughter of one of the most exclusive families of Harrisburg, a graduate of Wellesley college, and up until her engagement with the summer stock opera company was appearing in the "Prince of Pilsen" in New York. During the winter she was entertained at a dinner by former Wellesley classmates. She is a girl of considerable beauty and went on the stage against the wishes of her family. She was graduated in the class of 1901 and during her term at the college took a prominent part in the theatrical performances that were given by the students. She was president of one of the dramatic societies and became infatuated with the stage before she left the institution.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard were favorites with the members of the summer stock opera company, and last night a subscription was started and a wedding present is to be purchased and sent to the couple in New York.

PUZZLES THE POLICE.

In Doubt Whether a Homestead Prisoner Is a Somnambulist or a Burglar.

Emil Anderson, arrested in the store of R. Jacobs in Heisel street Tuesday evening, hatless and shoeless, with the front window pane shattered, is puzzling the Homestead police. He was arraigned before the burgess and later before Justice J. Clyde Miller on the charge of entering a building to commit a felony. He told the same story at both hearings.

Anderson said he drank a little on Tuesday and went to bed at 7 o'clock. His next recollection was of being arrested in the store. The window had been carefully removed, a chisel being used to pare away the putty, then placed on the inside and broken afterward.

The police believe Anderson was placed in the room by other parties, who removed the window for that purpose; but the manner in which he was extracted from his boarding house without his knowledge remains a mystery. Another story is that Anderson is playing a deep game, and he is being held for burglary pending a fuller investigation of his former relations and career.

JOSEPH HORNE CO.

Weather—Fair. Friday, July 17, 1903.

Our Great Sale of Mill-End Hosiery.

In this instance we use the word hosiery in its correct sense, applying it to stockings for women and socks for men. We have already told the meaning, as used by manufacturers, of mill-end hosiery, and it is not necessary to again tell why these goods can be sold so far below regular prices.

Our buyer of women's stockings and our buyer of men's socks happened in Chemnitz, Germany, some weeks ago, just when the manufacturers were ready to dispose of their accumulations of mill-ends. They were fortunate in being among the first on the ground. They were fortunate in their selections, for they bought goods at prices which enables us to sell them in some cases one-half, in some cases two-thirds, and in some cases three-fourths less than such fine goods retail for in a regular way. An actuality that seems almost incredible, but that is as true as anything of truth can be.

The sales yesterday in both hosiery for men and women were immense. But our lines were large. Therefore the same good choice is here today.

We never heard quite so many favorable comments over anything on special sale as we did yesterday on this imported hosiery.

The Stockings for Women.

At 25c a pair we are selling these Chemnitz Stockings that always retail for 50c, 65c and 75c. Choice is from cotton and lisle thread, all black, black with white feet, and black with split feet. There is any weight you desire, there are all gauges, and there is something like 100 grades.

For 35c a pair—if you take three pairs pay only $1—we have finer grades of this mill-end hosiery—stockings that sell regularly for 75c, 85c, $1, $1.25 and $1.50. Finest grade of cotton and lisle thread. Such pretty effects as openwork, all-over lace, lace ankles, ribs and the very plain stockings. There are both black and fancy colors.

The Socks for Men.

All manner of pretty effects that men will appreciate, more so as there are months ahead for the wearing of oxfords, and we are free to say that such another occasion for buying high grade socks for a small price will hardly be present again until this time next year.

At 15c a pair there is on sale grades of socks that sell regularly for 25c. There is black, black with unbleached boot, black with lace cotton, black with lace lisle, fancy colors and embroidered black cotton.

At 20c a pair, finer grades that usually sell for 35c.

At 25c a pair, still finer grades that usually sell for 50c.

Boys' light weight Sailor, Peter Thompson and Russian Sailor Suits—blue, brown, gray—$6, $7 and $8 Suits for $3.75.

Friday, July 17, 1903.

Congressman Acheson has sound reason on his side in opposing the county conferee system of congressional nominations. County lines are not entitled to any respect in national affairs. A congressional district is not a compartment affair, but is a political unit, and its candidates should be named through an agency representing the district as a whole. County convention action of any sort in the selection of party delegates for the purpose of selecting a congressional candidate should be prohibited by party rules.

Col. Morris Belknap, the Republican nominee for governor of Kentucky, is no stranger in Pittsburgh, especially among the iron and steel manufacturers, who number him among their best customers. He is a member of the firm of W. B. Belknap & Company of Louisville, the largest hardware jobbing house in the Ohio valley, and his extensive business experience, his genial personality, and above all, his sterling Republicanism, qualify him in an eminent degree for the high office to which he aspires. We wish him success. He will give Kentucky a thoroughly good administration.

While the projected Clarion, Somerville & Pittsburgh railroad is primarily intended to benefit the first-named place, it is of interest here. It will bring into direct and easy communication with Pittsburgh a part of its naturally tributary territory and will incite a material development in a section that is slumbering in quiet. There is much good coal in Clarion and Jefferson counties along the line of the proposed railroad, and where there is coal there is the prospect of industrial activity. Clarion itself is the center of a rich farming district that ought to be benefited by a more direct outlet to one of the best markets in the world, namely, Pittsburgh. The road should be a success.

There is hope for Allegheny common council going right yet upon the delinquent tax collectorship, for a majority of members present last night voted that way. It is true that 17 Citizens party members violated their campaign pledges and voted to maintain the unnecessary office with its fat fees, but the ordinance lacked only one vote of the constitutional majority necessary to pass it. It is to be hoped that vote can be found and a reconsideration had at the next meeting of councils. Meantime the Citizens party members on the North Side have made an instructive exhibition of themselves.

It is a striking illustration of the rapid industrial development now going on in Africa that Uganda, which not many years ago was a region visited only by a few explorers, is now covered by a system of telegraphs and telephones. The London Times states there are now 1,034 miles of telegraph lines in this district. The telephone rate even in the heart of Africa is cheaper than with us, for the charge is only 33 cents for an ordinary conversation. A curious feature of the telegraph business there is that a species of fig tree is used for poles, and such is its remarkable vitality that the poles take root and become living trees, so that they acquire a firmness and permanence far exceeding ordinary telegraph poles.

Russell Sage, the aged financier, is neither alarmed nor worried by the doings in Wall street. He doesn't believe the half of what he hears about big men making war upon each other, and he sees reasons why the street will soon recover under the influences of prosperity prevailing throughout the country. It will readily be recalled that Mr. Sage took a less hopeful view of the stock market a few months ago. In fact, he gave out an interview of warning at a time when the general public saw not a sign of trouble. The fact that he then foresaw a liquidation movement coming may account in part for his present equanimity, but, nevertheless, his opinion now is worth noting. Few men have as many years of experience in such matters to guide their judgment, and he never was a man given to talking just to hear his voice.

It is taking a narrow and mistaken view of the question to imagine that the relief that will be experienced by the removal of the railroad tracks from Liberty avenue will weaken the force of the demand for the removal of the hump, or tend to delay the growth of Fifth avenue east of the hump. While it might be argued that by maintaining a permanent check to improvement west of the starting point of Fifth avenue, the growth of the business section will be compelled to take an eastward course, yet this purely selfish calculation of advantage would be doomed to disappointment. The hump will come down sooner and Fifth avenue values east of the hump will improve more rapidly if Liberty avenue is cleared, and Penn avenue gains in importance by the removal of the obstruction which now sets it apart from the rest of the downtown district. Every part of the city will gain by the prosperity and development of the whole and will lose by obstruction to development anywhere, even if some other section is the immediate sufferer.

Whatever argument may have existed at one time in favor of the delinquent tax office as a separate department sustained by fees, it has been removed by the act of last session empowering and requiring city treasurers to enforce payment of taxes in arrears by sale of the property in June subsequent to the year in which they were levied. This reduces from two years to five months the period during which taxes can be withheld at the rate of five per cent per annum for the privilege. The delinquent tax department is not now merely superfluous, but might be a hindrance to the prompt collection of taxes. At present there must be an accounting between the delinquent tax collector and the city treasurer before the collection of arrears can be enforced by the city treasurer, and it would be much more convenient and advantageous to the city to keep the schedules in the city treasurer's office from first to last by consolidating the delinquent tax office with the city treasurer's office as allowed by the new charter and provided in the ordinance passed by Allegheny select council.

An Emphatic Opinion.

A representative meeting of the chamber of commerce yesterday indorsed the Duquesne way franchise by a decisive vote after full discussion of the question. We had anticipated no other result from such a body of Pittsburgh business men familiar with existing conditions and capable of forming a sound judgment upon the proposed change. They simply recognized the fact that the Pennsylvania railroad owns a franchise in Liberty avenue that has encumbered the progress of the city for 40 years, and that the surrender of that franchise will be an extremely valuable compensation to the city. That is an entirely sane business view of the situation.

A declaration of this from such a body of representative business men should and will have weight. They are all directly interested in the welfare of the city and very few, if any, of them are personally interested in the proposed franchise. The greater part of the opposition came from a number of rivermen who have been actively engaged in the effort to cripple urban traffic by putting a "hump" upon each of the Allegheny river bridges, in the alleged interest of a theoretical water traffic. Capt. Rodgers frankly declared their interest in the elevated railroad franchise to be the fact that it might interfere with the scheme to raise the bridges, which had long ago been condemned by the chamber. Naturally the chamber did not stultify itself by reversing its judgment formed after careful consideration of all the interests involved.

Mr. Willock's resolution included a cash compensation "not exceeding $5,000 annually," a mere nominal consideration intended rather to establish a precedent than to produce revenue. In other words, it means that the surrender of the Liberty avenue franchise is regarded by the chamber of commerce as an extremely valuable consideration, but that notice ought to be given all corporations that no new rights shall be obtained without adequate cash payment to the city. The Gazette will be well pleased if the railroad company can be induced to make this additional compensation, though it would be grieved if insistence upon its payment should lose to the city the inestimable benefit of removal of the tracks from Liberty avenue.

The issue is now clearly before select council. If that body is animated in the least by motives of public welfare it will get together presently and act. Its attitude toward the Baltimore & Ohio franchises, however, does not encourage the belief that its motives spring from the public interest.

Anglo-Colonial Questions.

In view of the agitation in Great Britain of the subject of a customs union of the British empire, in which the colonies shall have preferences in the British markets in return for preferential treatment of Great Britain in the colonial markets, it is interesting to learn from sources that are not much consulted in the United States that there are questions relating to market treatment of products of the colonies in Great Britain of more immediate importance to them and to Britons than those questions of markets which involve the glittering imperial idea. We learn, for example, in the first place, the premier of the colony of New Zealand, Sir Richard Seddon, has found it advisable to promote the establishment in London of meat shops where genuine New Zealand mutton will be sold for such instead of for mutton grown on the English downs. There is also complaint from the agents of the Canadian government in London of the sale of Canadian products under the false pretense that they are products native to England, Canadian cheese being sold for Cheddar, and Canadian hams for "best Cumberland." The circumstance that imports from the colonies are made by the British importers or the retailers who deal with them to masquerade as home grown is proof of their quality, and they hold that the practice in vogue hurts the colonies by keeping the price of colonial products depreciated to the retailer, thus enabling him to swell his profits at the cost of the producers. Premier Seddon has taken the situation by the horns, and probably Canada and Australia will do the same. They love the motherland, but they want a fair deal.

There is, of course, another side to the picture. It is plain that the practice of selling colonial products as British is one that cuts both ways, for, if the colonial sees profits getting away from him that he thinks he ought to have or share, the British producer no more than he can be expected to view with satisfaction the selling of colonial meats and dairy products as the genuine home-grown article. It is not surprising to learn therefore that "an organization has been started under the name of the 'British and Irish Cattle corporation,' to supply prime British-grown meats in place of Canadian and American imports. The system will be started at Kelvedon, Essex, and will be extended to every county where the residents are prepared to give a preference to home-fed and grown meat." This would seem to closely associate the United States with the grievances of the colonials against the British, and of the British against the colonials, and the association is apparently confirmed by the statement that at a preliminary meeting of the new organization, at which a viscount presided, "attention was called to the way in which Smithfield market had been captured by Americans in order," so one speaker declared, "to plunder the British public."

Of course, the British meat growers and makers of dairy products also consider that they are being plundered by the manner in which colonial products are being marketed, and as has been aircady demonstrated, the colonials are sure that it is they who are being robbed. With Briton and colonial in this frame of mind, and with each starting shops through the United Kingdom where the rivalry will be unconfined, there is bound to be an agitation of thought as well as of markets that may lead to something important, and whether that something will be the full fruition of Mr. Chamberlain's hope or a further widening of the breach, will appear in good time.

A Peculiar Disease.

The peculiar feature of the stock market situation is that the shares of sound corporations, whose business and earnings have been increasing, have less salable value than when their business and earnings were less. Their market value has declined while their intrinsic value has been increasing. This fact is cited as a proof that the slump is the result of a speculators' war and this is probably true, but there must be an abnormal condition of affairs when speculative manipulation is able to accomplish such results.

The underlying cause of trouble is the character of our currency system. It is peculiar to this country and our characteristic financial troubles are peculiar to this country. No other country has any trouble over the transfer of money to the interior to "move the crops," with its periodical invitation to a raid upon stock market values. No other country has any trouble about banking accommodations when assets of real value are available. No other country presents such contrasts between interest rates at interior points and interest rates at financial centers. At this very time, when values are being sacrificed in this country, there is no trouble or disturbance in neighboring Canada; sound securities there are as good and valuable assets as usual, and such a thing as difficulty over the moving of the crops is unknown.

Our currency system was not made for the needs of business and industry, but was invented as a war measure to provide a market for government bonds. The supply of the circulating medium is based not upon actual demand, but upon the amount of government bonds held by the banks. The system serves better as the tool of speculation than as the servant of industry, for such are its peculiarities that increase of business due to prosperous conditions breeds financial stringency which promotes speculative depression of market values. No matter what palliatives may be applied from time to time, the evil tendencies of our currency system will never be corrected until the government withdraws altogether from note issues and coin redemption, letting the banks do that while the government sees that they redeem their notes on demand.

Digging Up Ancient Libraries.

More discoveries of ancient papyri are reported to have been made at Oxyrhyncus in Egypt, the same place where in 1897 was discovered a collection of sayings by Jesus which caused a great sensation among Biblical scholars. The new discoveries include numerous documents of the first four centuries of the Christian era, both classical and theological, indicating that the mounds which are being excavated contain the debris of libraries once owned by the people living there. The find may produce results of great importance both as regards classical and Biblical literature.

Oxyrhyncus was a great settlement on the lower Nile, the site of which is marked by mounds which are being systematically cleared away. The ancient dwellers there must have been people of cultivated literary tastes and the means to gratify them, or they must have been favored by some Carnegie of their age, as the fragments found include not only Greek texts, but Latin also. One Latin fragment contains an epitome of some books of Livy, which have been lost and the fragment contains new material which will be received with great interest by classical and historical scholars.

The greatest general interest will be felt in the discoveries of Biblical literature. Concerning these the explorers have written to the London Times saying that another fragment has been found of a collection of the sayings of Jesus dating back to the third century, some of which are found in the present canonical scriptures and some are not. The fragments are being pieced and deciphered, and their full contents will be ultimately published, but the present supposition is that the collection of sayings were gathered from tradition and were not extracts from any written gospel. Another fragment contains a considerable portion of the Epistle to the Hebrews, being much the largest piece of the New Testament in papyrus that has yet been discovered. Another interesting Biblical fragment contains a portion of the Septuagint version of Genesis, and is probably a century older than any of the extant vellum manuscripts.

Archaeological research is increasing our material for the interpretation of ancient history and literature so rapidly that scholarship cannot keep abreast of it. It takes a long time to collate the material gathered and decipher the texts, but eventually a great increase of our knowledge may be expected.

Senator Platt, when asked "How does the 70th birthday differ from the 29th or 30th?" is said to have replied that "as a rule, a man who is wise does not get drunk on his 70th." Which would seem to indicate that while the senator is not as young as he used to be he knows a lot more. At the same time isn't it pertinent to inquire whether the truly wise person gets drunk on any birthday?

Charles Aldrich of Webster City, Ia., has presented to that state a historical collection concerning men and events in its settlement and development. Iowa has no archives, and Mr. Aldrich has spent his life in gathering the materials.

The Law's Delay.

It is not too much to say that the law's delay and the law's uncertainty and unreliability are at the bottom of all lynching. Lynching should be regarded by the ministers of justice not as a mere act of lawless violence and mob ferocity, but as an indictment for inefficiency of the machinery of the law and its failure to protect society. It is common for certain classes of every community to pour out pious indignation upon the lynchers, and to demand that they be brought to punishment for their outrages against the statutes and the peace and dignity of the state and the majesty of the law. But nobody raises a voice to demand that the law be made truly majestic through the swiftness, sternness and promptness with which criminals are punished, and the sufficiency and thoroughness with which society is protected and the peace and dignity of the state are preserved. When a criminal gets into the custody of the law he is likely to stay there for months, and even years, before punishment, if ever, is vested upon him.—New Orleans Picayune.

Pessimistic.

It is only justice to call attention to the news of Russia's action toward the Kishineff murderers. The news of the massacres has been published far and wide, with all possible prominence, and has been credited as true. We should now, says the New York Tribune, give comparable prominence and credit to the news, which comes to us apparently on as good authority as the former, concerning the official punishment of the criminals. It is stated that the Russian government is acting vigorously, that 800 arrests have been made, that 350 persons have been held for trial and that 53 indictments for manslaughter and nearly 400 other cases have been referred to the court of appeals. The trials will occur in September at Tiraspol, the change of venue having been ordered for the sake of justice.

THE WOMAN IN THE CASE.

Since the day when sinful Adam turned state's evidence on Eve,
And a flimsy web of guilt around his wifey tried to weave.
Down through all the countless ages time has left along her trail
Has the female had to suffer for the doings of the male.
"'Twas the woman! 'Twas the woman!" rang the cry through Eden's bowers,
"'Twas the woman!" yet we hear it in these modern days of ours,
As the false bewhiskered sinners desperately try to place
All the blame upon the shoulders of the woman in the case.

So 'twill be till time has ended, till the sun is stripped of light
And the earth is in the blackness of the never-ending night,
Till the sounding of the trumpet calls the dead from earthly sleep
And the heavenly inspectors separate the goats and sheep.
Even at the bar of judgment when we're called upon to show
The extenuating features of our sinning here below
There may be full many cowards who will stand with brazen face
And attribute their transgressions to the woman in the case.

The Quiet Observer.

ERASMUS WILSON.

What is home without a baby?
That depends, of course, on whose baby it is; also upon who answers the question.

If it is your baby, and your home, you will say the place would be dreary and lonely without it.

But if the baby happens to belong to someone else you may say your home would be much pleasanter without it.

However, we have to have 'em. Indeed, they are the hope of the land. Nor can we get rid of them, no matter how badly we treat them, and some of them are treated shamefully.

One good thing about it is that babies don't know they are being badly treated, nor whom to blame for jagging them with pins, or allowing them to starve.

Nor do they miss their parents if they die or desert them. The widowed mother may tell them when they grow bigger how greatly they need a father, just as this one did:

"Ah, yes, they need a father,"
The pretty widow said;
She looked down at her children,
And sadly shook her head.

She stood before the altar,
And when she turned away
Her children had a father;
Ah, happy, happy day!

Oh, he is tall and handsome,
And she still young and fair;
Her children are at grandma's,
They've gone to settle there.
—New York Herald.

There isn't anything like a baby in the house—nothing exactly like it. But like many other good things, you have to get used to it before you can appreciate it fully.

Here is a boy that thinks he doesn't like babies. He will change his mind if he lives and has luck.

Yes, I've got a little brother
Never asked to have him nuther,
But he's here.
They just went away and bought him,
And last week the doctor brought him,
Weren't that queer?
When I heard the news from Molly,
Why I thought at first 'twas jolly,
'Cause you see,
I s'posed I could go and get him,
And then, mamma, 'course, would let him
Play with me.
But when I had once looked at him,
"Why," I says, "Great snakes, is that him?
Just that mite!"
They said "Yes," and "Ain't he cunnin'?"
And I thought they must be funnin'—
He's a sight!
He's so small, it's just amazin',
And you'd thing that he was blazin',
He's so red.
And his nose is like a berry,
And he's bald as Uncle Jerry
On his head.
Why, he isn't worth a brick,
All he does is cry and kick,
He can't stop;
Won't sit up, you can't arrange him—
I don't see why pa don't change him
At the shop.
Now we've got to dress and feed him,
And we really didn't need him
More'n a frog;
Why'd they buy a baby brother
When they know I'd good deal ruther
Have a dog?
—Kansas Farmer.

You don't remember when you were a wee baby, nor can you recall the good times and bad you had. Maybe if you could, and would do so, you wouldn't have it in for babies, nor blame them for kicking and yelling as they do.

A popular poet once tried to think back to the time when he was a sure enough baby, and this is what he says about it:

Could a man but be a baby
For a little while each day,
Could he say when comes the gloaming;
"I have had enough of play—
Take me, arms of her who bore me,
Soothe the worries all away;
Tuck me in and
Croon above me
Words that prove you'll Always love me.
Hold my restless, play-worn fingers
In your own so restful, strong,
While your lips breathe forth the cadence
Of some old, sweet svensons."

Could a man discard his burden
For a while each busy day,
And be once again the little
One aweary of his play—
Starved for mother arms so tender
That would fright his cares away—
Should some soft voice
Croon above him,
Proving faithful
Hearts still love him.
Could his weary hand find resting
In another, big and strong,
All his life would then be brighter
And his lips would hear a song.

Brother, you may drop your burden
At the closing of the day;
In the Father's eyes your labors
Are but prattling babies' play;
And He longs to show His mercy
And to soothe your cares away.
Hear that soft voice
Croon above you;
"Peace, my careworn Child, I love you."
Then the arms called Everlasting
Slip beneath you—tender, strong,
And your tired heart ceases sighing
While your lips send forth a song.
—Baltimore American.

Altogether baby has a hard time trying to get along with its natural parents, even when they don't abuse it. Natural parents, you know, have a kindly feeling for their children, and would treat them al right if they knew how, but having been reared after a rough fashion themselves they feel they are doing all right if they treat their babies as they were treated.

Some parents, however, get it into their heads that children are not being properly reared, and they devote themselves to child-study, and to the construction of theories concerning the development of child nature.

The woman who has studied all this well before marriage invariably starts in to show folks how to raise children, just as this one did:

'Twas her hobby—child culture on lines scientific;
Her study of wondrous results was prolific.
The problem of bringing her children up well
Was her life work—a labor of love. She would tell
How their sweet little natures unfolded, like flowers,
Through her guidance—like buds in warm April showers;
How each pure little mind was an unwritten page,
Meet for purpose divine, in this ethical age.
She chose wisely their books; they were shielded from aught
That could rouse brutal instincts with savagery fraught;
Cruel Bluebeard and stepmother tales grim and gory
Were shunned for some mild, helpful Sunday school story
That pointed its moral. Her joy was complete,
For success crowned her efforts with recompense sweet.
They were kind and considerate even in play;
Not the rebels and fiends children are in our day.
With our make-believe victim to torture in glee.
"Let us steal to the nursery, softly, and see What the darlings are doing," she proudly proposed.
Well, we went—and heard this thro' the door, partly closed:
"Hully gee—break away—playing house is too slow;
Let's pretend paper dolls are wild Injuns, you know;
We'll go hunting—find heaps of 'em—rob everyone;
Punch holes in 'em too, with the scissors, for fun;
And we'll scalp 'em and burn 'em alive in the grate—
Then we'll yell just like thunder—be bully joke, Kate."
—Anon.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 16.—Everything is ready for the start of the New York Yacht club on its annual cruise tomorrow morning. The flag captains met on the Delaware at 4 o'clock this afternoon to arrange the details of the cruise and decide what classes shall compete for the many cups that have been offered in addition to the regular class prizes. Long Island sound is gay with craft of all sizes and descriptions. New Yorkers all are interested in yachting more or less, as is natural considering what a large body of water there is about the city. So when the fleet of yachts departs for the east tomorrow there will be large crowds to see them off. There will be at least 300 craft in the squadron and many well-known millionaires will be with it. Col. John Jacob Astor, Elbridge T. Gerry, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Adrian Iselin, Jr., and Commodore Bourne will be among them, taking a prominent part in the business of the cruise. The Reliance, Constitution and Columbia, those sturdy 90-footers with international reputations, will maneuver from time to time, and there will be other features to make the cruise a memorable one.

Hadn't His Sea Legs With Him.

It is important for passengers to get their sea legs on as soon after beginning a voyage on an ocean liner as possible. William Patterson, of Tampico, Tex., arrived at New York on the Majestic today, but did not "step lightly down the gangplank" as passengers are generally said to do by marine reporters. He slipped on the wet deck of the ship when a few days out from Liverpool and broke his leg. He is in a hospital tonight.

Report Is Not Obtainable.

Here is a new recipe for a pousse cafe: Paris green, carbolic acid and cyanide of potassium. A man from Massachusetts took a dose thus prepared in the Astor today. How he liked it has not been ascertained. He died before an ambulance surgeon could reach him.

Wife Threatens to Use a Horsewhip.

Of all the ways of receiving a lost husband that about to be adopted by Mrs. John W. Russell, according to a story printed here today, is one of the most original. She thinks a "certain man" is hiding her husband and she will go with a horsewhip to make the man give him up. Mr. Russell is secretary and treasurer of one of the largest drygoods concerns in Brooklyn and has been missing for several days. His accounts are said to be in perfect order and there is no known reason for his staying in concealment. It seems that the "certain man" declared to Mrs. Russell yesterday that he would return her husband to her as soon as the notoriety over his disappearance had ceased. Therefore, the horsewhip.

Two Opinions About Miller.

It looks now as if William F. Miller, the get-rich-quick syndicate man, will have more trouble in getting a pardon than has been supposed. It cannot be said that his prospects for speedy freedom were ever very bright, because Gov. Odell has expressed himself very decidedly on the subject. Now there is a division between district attorneys over the matter. John F. Clarke, district attorney of Kings county, who sent Miller up the river originally, opposes the pardon, and Jerome of Manhattan favors it, on account of Miller's services in the Ammon case. The governor is in Yellowstone park just now, but when he returns he will have to decide between two very earnest district attorneys.

Tried Both and Finds Honesty Better.

It is an axiom that the unaccustomed criminal can find no rest from his conscience even though he manages to evade the law. An illustration of this was afforded today in Part I. of general sessions court, when Charles Stern, who had been a fugitive from justice for seven years, faced the bench. He had come to give himself up. Before his sudden departure from New York he had been an East Side banker and had decamped with $12,000 belonging to many poor depositors. He summed up his experience as a wanderer this afternoon by saying, wearily: "There is no profit whatever in crime. The thought that I was a fugitive became unbearable. I felt I could be happier even if my return meant a long term of imprisonment." He was the picture of misery as he shuffled out of court in charge of his counsel. He had no stockings and his shoes were without soles. Before he ran away he was a bright-faced, well-dressed young man.

Blunder of Careless Employe.

Outside one of the newspaper offices in Manhattan this morning was a bulletin board bearing this information: "Sporting News—The pope is holding his own." A careless employe was responsible for the incongruous statement, of course, but the newspaper was blamed for it by the average passerby.

Shamrocks Pretty Evenly Matched.

Sir Thomas Lipton, on board his steam yacht Erin, this morning took his two Shamrocks out for a spin. There was a ten-knot westerly breeze, and the skies were cloudless. Sir Thomas remarked that it was a capital day for a sail. Shamrock III. ran away from Shamrock I. at first, but when the older boat got her club topsail aloft before her sister yacht she overhauled the challenger rapidly. It looked as if it might be anybody's race when the great international event comes off next month. Reliance is doing well, but she may not have a walkaway.

Progress Destroys Pretty View.

Greenwich village, which lies along Sixth avenue at some parts of that great aveaue of trade, is rapidly losing the romantic aspect which distinguished it in the past. There are old-fashioned houses here and there, but modern skyscrapers and what are much worse, modern advertising signs, are destroying its picturesqueness. Take your stand in Waverly place and look down Tenth street toward Sixth avenue and you can see a sad illustration of this. Five years ago the prospect was bounded by the blue sky above a small row of old-fashioned brick dwellings with ancient titles or shingles on the roofs and comfortable dormer windows nestling among them. There was a pretty vista from Waverly place down to the avenue, and the only large object was the tall tower of Jefferson Market modeled on the recently destroyed Campanile in Venice. The tower is there still, of course, but it is flanked by an ugly skyscraper and there are immense signs recommending the use of somebody's liniment in the foreground. Utility is the watchword of the hour, of course, but one cannot help regreeting the passing of the beautiful in parts of New York where it has struggled against the vandal we call progress for so many years.

Change of Occupation.

"Hank" Johnson was one of the best-known theatrical advance agents in the country ten years ago. Everyone in Pittsburgh connected in any way with theatricals knew him, and his flowery descriptions of the entertainments he was piloting have graced the columns of The Gazette and other Pittsburgh newspapers many and many a time. I saw him in Broadway this afternoon. He is delivery man for a laundry.

Political Drift.

"It is a comedy as it stands, but a tragedy if it succeeds," said Mr. Bryan, in Milwaukee, of Mr. Cleveland's boom for the presidency," says the Kansas City Journal (Rep.). "This is a better thing than Mr. Bryan often says. Up to date Mr. Cleveland's boom has given the country some amusement and no trouble. * * * But, as Mr. Bryan hints, the nation's gayety would rapidly subside if there should appear any considerable prospect of the Cleveland boom's success. Another Cleveland election would be a tragedy for the country, because, if we may judge by past experience, it would prostrate industry and set back the clock of progress nobody knows how far."

Taking note of the discussion of Hanna, Taft, Herrick and other Ohio men in connection with the Republican nomination for vice president, the Cleveland Plain Dealer (Dem.) concludes: "No, Ohio is not to step down from the presidency to the lower place. No true Buckeye with proper regard for the prestige of his state will consent to the use of his name for such a purpose."

Speaking of the somewhat cool reception of Judge Parker in the south, the Washington Star (Ind. Rep.) does not regard it as necessarily the end of the Parker aspirations. It says: "But business is business. The south wants to win, and if Judge Parker's friends can convince her that his strength is such in the east as to make Democratic success with him as the candidate promising in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, she will support him for the nomination with his temperatuer at zero."

Of Judge George Gray of Delaware the Philadelphia Inquirer (Rep.) says: "We do not think it possible at this time that any Democratic candidate will succeed, but as in politics all things are possible, it would be gratifying in case of Republican disaster to have the selection fall on so able and upright a man as Judge Gray, who, after all, is a Democrat in little more than name. In the great questions of the hour he has usually been found on the Republican side. He is a sound money man of unequivocal convictions, which will militate against his selection as a candidate. He was an able senator for many years, and was a member of the commission which made the treaty of Paris which ended the war with Spain. On the bench he has made many excellent decisions, and in the coal arbitration court he was one of the most forceful figures. His career so far has been one of such ability and integrity that in the event of the country wanting a Democrat it could hardly get a better one—that is to say, one who is less of a Democrat."

An opportunity to make Democratic party capital is spied by the Atlanta Constitution (Dem.) in the surplus revenues. It urges the Democratic statesmen to get in with a scheme for currency reform because: "The surplus receipts of the government for the year ending June 30, ultimo, were over $82,000,000. This surplus is covered into the treasury and withdrawn from circulation until congress shall be tempted into some new scheme for spending it. Meanwhile the financial interests of the country are asking for legislation that will expand the currency system so as to maintain in the currents of trade a sufficiency of money to support the enormous bulk of our internal and international commerce."

+ + + +

Here is advice for brainy Democrats who would like to attract the attention of the floundering Democracy, from the Philadelphia Record (Dem.): "But the public sentiment of the party is not focused upon any one man. The problem is to so focus it. If the right man will make a speech or write a letter reaffirming in clear and ringing terms, and without circumlocution and evasion, the historic doctrines of the party, the doctrines under which it has won victories, the Democratic rank and file will recognize him at once as their leader; he will be virtually nominated before the convention, and he will be a platform himself."

"The Republican candidate for the vice presidency is to come from Ohio. That is the disposition in quarters where the final word will be said. There are contingencies, of course, and one of them is that the Ohio Republicans shall display unanimity about the candidate and support him, before the next national convention with enthusiasm. Sentiment in that regard can be depended upon provably to develop in Buckeyedom during the coming 12 months." Such is the opinion of the Washington Post (Ind. Dem.).

Referring to the suggestion of United States Judge George Gray for the Democratic nomination for president, made by the anthracite coal miners, the Baltimore American (Rep.) says: "That Judge Gray is eminently qualified for the presidential office must be admitted. His fame as a lawyer, his distinction as a jurist, his service in the senate and as a member of the commission which negotiated the treaty of peace with Spain all stamp him as a man of force. He has an unusually ripe mind, thoroughly trained to careful thinking, and knows how to avoid irrationalism in speech and action." But the American regards him as politically unavailable.

An Educational Idea.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

From among the interesting collection of letters of complaint, excuses and the like, written by parents to teachers of the public schools of this city, printed in yesterday's Public Ledger, we select the following:

"Miss Brown: You must stop teach my Lizzie fisical torture she needs yet readin and figors mit sums more as, that, if I want her to do jumpin I kin make her jump.

"MRS. CANAVOWSKI."

Emerson said that there was something of directness, vigor and truth about the uneducated man or woman which the half-educated and the sophisticated lacked. It is true. This letter expresses the right idea of public school education, while boards of education, educational conventions, professional pedagogists even seem to have gone far astray. "Fisical torture" or physical culture is an admirable thing; nature study is good; clay modeling may serve a useful purpose in its place; instruction in the avoidance of alcohol and scores of other things, of themselves and in their places, are innocuous; but when these and many others are made a part of the public school curriculum at the expense of a sound and thorough knowledge of more important things, they become positive stumbling blocks and nuisances. Lizzie needs other things more.

Justice in Georgia.

The Georgia legislature placed itself abreast of enlightened public sentiment, and performed an act of justice toward the negro youth of the state by defeating a resolution for the distribution of the common school fund among schools for white and colored children according to the taxable property of the two races, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. The Georgia school tax is collected almost exclusively from the whites, but the negro children are to have their share of the fund. The distribution of school moneys according to population is the only method by which the desired result, the salvation of the state from the perils of illiteracy, can be accomplished. It appears from the report of the federal commissioner of education that Georgia expended for public schools only 92 cents per capita of the total population in 1901. The sum is small relatively to the per capita expenditure of many states, but the legislature is evidently inclined to deal with public educational interests in a progressive way.

POLITICIANS IN A LIVELY BATTLE

Delinquent Tax Collector Davidson of Allegheny Threatened With Prosecution.

CONFLICTING STORIES TOLD

Councilman Charles Bernhard Asserts He Was Called an Ingrate and Struck in the Mouth When He Announced His Intention of Redeeming His Pledge

Delinquent Tax Collector Harry M. Davidson of Allegheny will likely answer in court for an assault he made shortly before midnight Wednesday on Councilman Charles Bernhard of the Third ward. The latter said yesterday that the assault was unprovoked and that he would take Davidson into court to answer for his action.

Tax Collector Davidson punched Bernhard in the mouth in front of a saloon on Federal street, after a majority of the members of the common branch of the council had held a caucus at the office of Dr. C. A. Spicer. The fight grew out of an argument between Davidson and Bernhard. The latter was elected on the ticket with Wyman last February and is supporting the ordinance providing for the abolition of the delinquent tax office. According to what Bernhard says, Davidson approached him and asked him if he were going to vote for the ordinance, and when he answered "yes," Davidson, Bernhard says, called him an ingrate. One word led to another, and Davidson struck Bernhard in the mouth.

"Davidson asked me to support him in his fight," said Bernhard yesterday, "and I told him I could not go back on the pledge I had made to the people during the campaign, although Davidson had been a friend of mine. He called me an ingrate and said I was not living up to any pledge, but was influenced by more material persuasion. I denied this, as any man would, and, without giving me any warning, Davidson struck me in the face. John McAuley, who is a clerk in Director Scandrett's office, grabbed me and I was prevented from defending myself."

Davidson tells a different story. He said yesterday: "I was standing in Federal street talking to Tom Scandrett and John McAuley when Bernhard and several other councilmen came up to us. Bernhard began telling me he was my friend and that he would help me if I wanted him to. I told him I did not want his support and wanted nothing to do with him. Some one in the crowd called Bernhard an ingrate and he accused me of it. I denied it and he called me a liar. Then I punched him. He would have been worse hurt than he is if my blow had landed fairly, but as I struck at him someone struck me in the jaw, and the full force of the blow did not reach Bernhard. I do not know who struck me, as there was a scuffling among the whole crowd for a few minutes. But I will not permit any man to call me a liar without punishing him. Bernhard can sue if he wants to. I do not care what he does."

OLD SALT MAKES LOVE TO MANY PRETTY GIRLS

Although Father of 19 Children His Heart Still Retains Its Susceptibility.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 16.—Captain Edward O'Bryan, 70 years old, a former Nova Scotian, was in Yorkville court today charged by his wife with attempting to make love with all the young girls in the neighborhood. She said she knew of 17 instances where he had professed love for girls and had annoyed them. Two of the 17 were in court and told their stories.

Johanna Bagger told Magistrate Mayo that three weeks ago O'Bryan called at her home. He professed love for her at once. He called two days later and left the following note in her hand:

"My black-eyed Peggy: I was dreaming of you all night. I wish I was young for your sake. I have a little sloop. If you wish you can have a sail with my girls, so that I can kiss you under your black eyes. I should like you to call at my house at 3 o'clock and I will give you a present."

After giving her the note the girl said he grasped her and kissed her. She broke away from him and later told his wife.

The other girl was Frances Friedman, aged 13. She charged the captain with having kissed her and made love to her while she was staying at Mrs. O'Bryan's home. She said the captain had promised her a diamond ring.

"What do you think of that for the father of 18 children?" asked Mrs. O'Bryan of the court.

"Nineteen, my dear," interrupted the captain.

"I say 18, who should know better than the mother?"

"I had one before I married you. That makes 19," explained O'Bryan.

Magistrate Mayo held O'Bryan under $500 bond on a charge of assault.

FRANK A. PARKER.

OLD DEED DISCOVERED.

It Transferred Property in Robinson Township in 1842.

A deed, dated September 20, 1842, was recorded yesterday in the deed registry department of the county commissioners' office, having recently been found in an old box at the home of one of the heirs of Samuel Phillips, late of Robinson township.

The deed is brown with age and was in such a dilapidated condition that to keep it intact it was necessary for Supt. P. W. Siebert to paste strips of paper on the back of the document.

The paper shows the transfer of "a plantation" consisting of "three acres, three roods and nine perches, strict measure," in Robinson township, from the executors of the estate of Thomas Phillips to Samuel Phillips, for $25 an acre," and at that rate for any portion of an acre (the same to be justly measured). Part of the description reads from "a certain post to a pile of stones." It was acknowledged before William Gubben, a justice of the peace.

The consideration for the property described in 1842 was $95 15, and it is now assessed at $150.

Went Over the Embankment.

William Shearer and A. White are at the South Side hospital as a result of injuries received while trying to escape a crowd of men at the top of the Twenty-second street incline. White had his arm and leg broken and Shearer has a deep cut on his neck and several bad bruises. They were looking for a helper in a mill and had to pass a crowd of men who insulted them and gave chase. They ran down the steep hill and both went over the embankment.

TOMORROW MARKS THE FORMAL OPENING OF THE GREAT SALE AT

KEATING WEST-VIEW

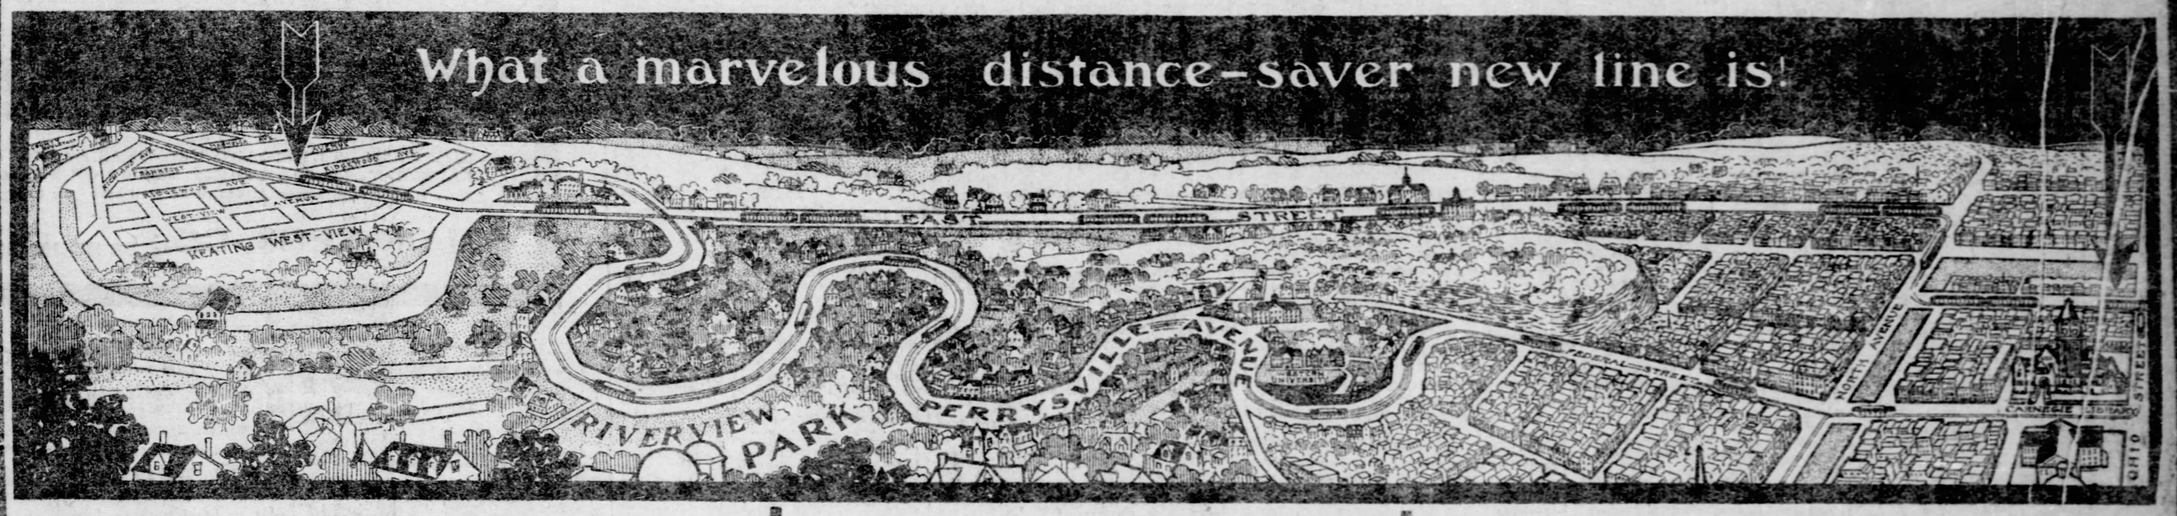
If the crowds which have been coming all week to see this remarkable new Perrysville residential district is a forecast of what may be expected, the sale tomorrow will be unquestionably the most remarkable in volume of business that will have ever occurred.

We have seen investors get enthusiastic over a lot proposition before, but such enthusiasm as Keating West-View has aroused goes so far beyond all previous records that the intense interest manifested must be seen to be believed.

Investors are impressed the minute they set foot on the property. The ground is torn up here and there in a way not calculated to make artists rave, but the disheaval shows plainly what the great capitalists who are behind this enterprise are doing.

They are building A CITY OF IMPROVEMENTS that you will be proud to live in. Not putting on a few fancy touches which will look fairly good to the inexperienced eye, but going at the work in a substantial way, planting betterments that will stand the test of time.

This being true, the buying excitement will be something unparalleled when the rush begins tomorrow. You are, therefore, urged to visit the property early.



Perrysville Will Have Every Modern City Improvement.

Home comforts and refined influences will be installed on an area of land that is as fine, level and broad as Squirrel Hill in the East End. There is no other level section in Allegheny county joined to Greater Pittsburgh in one continuous line of population that is as large as Perrysville, except the district comprised by Oakland, East Liberty and Squirrel Hill. For this reason Perrysville is the only land left which is extensive enough to be taken up and transformed into fine residential neighborhoods and permit of the establishment of elite estates.

A mighty march of metropolitan transformation will ensue immediately following the great sale of Keating West-View Plan of Lots. Perrysville's improvements will be complete. There will be finely paved streets, perfect sewerage, sidewalks, fuel gas, electric lights, illuminating gas, city water supplied by a new improved pure water works system, pleasure parks equal to Schenley Park, fire protection, police protection, public schools and churches.

An immense educational edifice will be built in the center of this new district. Millions of dollars, in fact, will be expended in the next two years to give Perrysville everything which makes the East End and Squirrel Hill so desirable.

The mile and a half of wooded vale running through the property and skirting the level highlands will be beautified and formed into the great pleasure park. Artificial lakes will be established. These will be fed by the inexhaustible water works system to be built. The reservoirs will be stationed between the Schwitter farm and Bellevue, and you will be able to see from different points in the park the giant steel bridges used to shorten distance and allow the great manifold-motor traction cars to make their remarkable speed.

Be one of the new 7,000 Bond holders- At Perrysville

Purchasers of Keating West-View property will not only be able to buy wonderfully-situated lots at

$50,	$75,	$100,
$125,	$150,	$175,
$200,	$250,	$300,
$350,	$400,	$450,

but they will be given

Free with each lot a provisional two-year premium bond that may earn them five to twenty-five per cent

These bonds are negotiable. You can sell or transfer them at once to any person. Under their provisions they become especially valuable to building-contractors, and will often earn within four months anywhere from $12.50 to $100 or more. One of these bonds is presented to you as an absolute free gift with each lot you buy, whether the lot is priced $50 or $500.

It will pay every frugal person to investigate this bond proposition. Without question it is the most liberal stroke of enterprise any real estate organization ever made. It is backed by virtually unlimited capital, and is proof positive that the capitalists who bought up this immense Perrysville acreage are determined to make it the finest residence place that modern ingenuity can possibly establish.

TERMS ON LOTS:

5 per cent down; 2½ per cent per month for balance;
10 per cent discount for cash when paid within sixty days.

Take Cars As Follows:

Cars on the NEW PERRYSVILLE SHORT-LINE start in town on Smithfield Street, at Fifth Avenue. Then run east on Smithfield Street to Seventh Avenue, then to Liberty Avenue, then to Ninth Street, then to Anderson Street in Allegheny, then to Lacock Street, then to Sandusky Street, then to North Avenue, then to Perrysville Avenue and Jake Borne's, where they connect with the Riverview Park cars, then cross Perrysville Avenue on private rights-of-way to Keating Inn, then cross the plank road to Keating West-View, opposite the new Ben Avon or County Boulevard, which is macadamized and within seven to ten minutes' drive from Bellevue.

By going out East Street and thus escaping the numerous curves, bends and heavy grades which the Riverview Park cars have to make in going up Federal Street and out Perrysville Avenue, the NEW PERRYSVILLE SHORT-LINE is enabled to make the run to Keating West-View in 25 minutes.

If you go in the Riverview Park cars it will take you 45 minutes to reach the property.

The new road, in fact, is a marvelous saver of time and distance. Go look at the trestle work and bridges that are being built. Go look at that part of the roadbed continuing on out from where the city of Allegheny stops. Look how it is constructed. You cannot find anything finer in America; T-rails all the way. Double tracks pinned to foundations which will permit a trolley car to run at almost any speed, and private rights-of-way to guard against any possible interference with the time schedule.

LIVELY TRIAL OF SUNDAY SELLERS

Former Burgess of Wilkinsburg Injects Spice Into the Legal Proceedings.

WITNESSES ARE UNWILLING

One Man Demands His Ice, but Does Not Get It—Prominent Citizen of the Borough Threatened With Imprisonment—Foreigner Fined $25 and Costs.

If the fight against the druggists of Wilkinsburg to compel them to stop selling ice cream sodas and summer drinks on Sunday is carried much further, the town will be resolved into a mighty committee which will include everybody in the directory except ex-Burgess Horner, 10 druggists and a handful of citizens, who will be reserved as witnesses. The Rev. T. Parry, pastor of he First Presbyterian church of that borough, said last night that the committee of 12 will be assisted by a new committee of 100, and that $1,000 will be raised to prosecute the evildoers.

The borough is fast lining itself up for a summer contest. There are the church and W. C. T. U. members on the one hand, and on the other the druggists themselves and those people who develop a thirst on the Sabbath. Citizens cannot now purchase ice cream for fear of being subpoenaed, so vigilant is the committee of 12 and its agents. Ministers are preaching against the violations of the blue laws, while in direct opposition to this petitions are being signed by the thirsty ones declaring that they must drink on Sunday.

Lively Talk Indulged In.

Burgess John A. Keys had before him for trial last night three druggists and a Roumanian tobacco seller. The cases terminated in an informal address by ex-Burgess Horner, who went tooth and toenail for the informant, who was the same in all four cases. This is W. A. Minteer, a contractor and a member of the committee of 12. One of the witnesses also spoke his mind quite freely after the trial, turning his wrath directly upon Mr. Minteer.

The cases called last night were against Berlin & Co., W. L. Smith, S. W. Covel and Harry Whitman. The first case was dismissed because it was not made out properly, the decision in the second was reserved, the third continued for lack of witnesses and the last defendant was fined $25 and costs.

Harry McIntosh represented the defendants and Homer L. Cassidy the commonwealth. The latter appeared in the absence of Attorney Duff, who, the druggists claim, has thrown up the sponge. The legal part of the controversy was lively.

Attorney Was Sympathetic.

Whitman is a foreigner who was arrested for selling a package of tobacco last Sunday, the day in which all of the offenses were committed. The proof was meager, and Attorney McIntosh with some feeling said that rather than see a poor man suffer at the hands of the committee that is obviously waging a fight against the druggists alone, he would pay the fine, if any were imposed. Attorney Cassidy was unrelenting and asked for sentence.

The first witness, like several succeeding ones, proceeded to give his views of justice. He was Joseph Biles.

"Before I do that," said Biles, "I want to know where my witness fee is coming from. I've been here three times and ain't got any."

This was a stunner for the court and a feather in the plume of the defendants. The witness tried to smooth matters over by alluding to the red tape, etc., and Attorney Cassidy chimed in with a few legal remarks. But Mr. Biles would not swallow this. He was there to testify at so much per word.

Threatened to Commit Him.

"We'll just have him committed," said Attorney Cassidy.

Mr. Biles protested, but finally yielded upon the assurance that his fee would be forthcoming. The testimony concluded, Mr. Biles held out his hand for coin.

"Where's my costs?" he demanded.

"Go get your costs," replied Attorney Cassidy.

Mr. Biles was equal to the emergency and looking in the direction of the spectators, among whom were several members of the committee of 12, he fired a parting shot: "That's the way with your church members."

Attorney Cassidy struck a knotty problem when E. C. Smith, a leading citizen of the borough, was called to testify against Druggist Smith. As he went to take the stand it was quite evident he did it reluctantly. He explained to the burgess that he had rather not be sworn. He was asked by the attorney if his objection applied to all cases or only this particular one. His reply was that he objected to testifying in this case only. Attorney Cassidy thought it would be setting a bad precedent to let the witness off after having been subpoenaed and accordingly insisted that he be sworn. He explained to the witness that if he refused he would be committed.

Ready to Be Committed.

"That is exactly what I am here for," said Mr. Smith.

For awhile it looked very much as though Mr. Smith would be dealt with heroically, but the matter was allowed to rest until after all of the cases had been heard. It was then decided to allow Mr. Smith to go until the resumption of the cases next Tuesday night.

It is expected that after next Sunday more informations will be made. It is even threatened by the committee that they will stop the sale of any article, no matter what its nature may be.

While the hearings were going on the Woman's Christian Temperance union met in the First Presbyterian church and passed resolutions indorsing the action of the committee of 12. Afterward Mrs. Rev. J. R. Wylie, president of the union, said: "In one of the Pittsburgh papers there appeared an article some time ago to the effect that the women of Wilkinsburg were not lending their support to the crusade against the violation of the Sunday laws. To refute this statement we thought it best to put ourselves on record and did so tonight. We have always been supporting the committee, but considered it our duty to come out publicly and say so."

Woman Insulted on a Bridge.

Policeman Thomas O'Brien arrested Albert Smith of No. 1005 Meyrau avenue on the Ellsworth avenue bridge last night and locked him up in the East End police station as a suspicious person. The arrest was made as the result of a telephone message stating that a man on the bridge was insulting women who attempted to pass. Smith denies being the man. Several women who were insulted called at the station, but could not identify him.

Allegheny Residence Robbed.

The residence of Moses V. Atwood, president and general manager of the Pittsburgh Valve, Foundry and Construction Company, of No. 946 Ridge avenue, was entered by thieves yesterday afternoon. The family is out of town and the extent of the pillage will not be known until they return. The work is supposed to be that of boys, and the plunder they got is thought to be light.

MUST SHOW NEED OF COMMISSION

William McConway Would Have Errors of the Filtration Report Shown.

THE SUBJECT IS EXHAUSTED

Engineers Say Talk of Additional Cost by the Advance of Materials Is Wrong and Labor Costs but 10 Per Cent More.

"Another investigation of water filtration for Pittsburgh will necessarily cost considerable money, and before councils appoint such a commission, as I see is suggested, it should be shown specifically what errors exist in the report of the first commission or what branch of the processes of filtration have not been exhaustively treated," said William McConway, the well-known manufacturer and vice-chairman of the Pittsburgh filtration commission.

Mr. McConway has just returned from a stay of several weeks in London and Berlin and is greatly interested in the active work which is now being done by the friends of filtration to secure for the city a pure water supply.

"The theory of that report was that everything that is known regarding filtration should be there and in proper form," he said. "There are 389 pages in the report, with an appendix and index of 33 pages, making it a valuable publication, so arranged as to make any subject of easy reference.

"I see that there has been some comment by councilmen on the necessity for filter bed covers, which it is alleged will cost a large amount of money. This subject is already treated thoroughly in the report. Allen Hazen, the consulting engineer, takes up the matter carefully. The covers are for the purpose of preventing freezing. Pittsburgh is just on the line between the north and the south where the water may or may not be frozen over so much as to hurt the efficiency of the filter plant. The question was tested while the other tests were being made, and Mr. Hazen gives as his opinion of covering the beds, 'I do not regard this as necessary, and do not recommend it.'"

"I saw Mr. Hazen while in New York on my return. I asked him about the increased cost of materials and labor, of which so much has been said. He said that the labor would undoubtedly cost more, but that the materials would be practically the same."

Frank Wilcox, the well known filtration engineer with T. A. Gillespie Company, to which was awarded the contract to erect part of the sand filtration plant, was asked about the same matter. Mr. Wilcox said that labor would cost about 10 per cent more, but materials would be no higher. The talk of the cost of the plant being doubled by the increases of the past few years is not taken seriously by those who are in a position to know the facts.

"The installation of the meter system at once is favored by Mr. McConway.

"There is no connection necessarily between filters and meters," he said. "Meters should be put in at all places at once. The waste of water is something enormous. An illustration of this is given in the experience of Albany, N. Y. The installation of meters in saloons alone reduced the daily consumption of water from 18,000,000 gallons to 15,000,000 gallons. I have seen at the court house a stream of water that had flowed from the corner of Wylie avenue and Fulton street, where some one was playing with a hose and wasting the water the city had paid to have pumped there. Carriages were splattered by the running water, and as much more was needed to clean them off. Almost anywhere one looks water can be seen being wasted.

"I am glad the Gazette has taken this matter up again so vigorously. I hope that action will be obtained soon in this matter."

TREATY IS RATIFIED.

Cuban Senate Assents to Coaling Stations for the United States.

HAVANA, July 16.—The senate ratified the treaty signed February 16 granting the United States site at Guantanamo and Bahia Honda for naval and coaling stations, the agreement for leasing the areas of the said stations, which was signed July 2, and also the treaty conceding to Cuba sovereignty over the Isle of Pines. The only treaty remaining unratified is the so-called permanent treaty covering all the provisions of the Platt amendment.

The foreign relations committee has not yet prepared its report on the permanent treaty, but doubtless will do so before the adjournment of congress next Saturday. The fact of securing the naval stations completes all that the United States has been desirous of obtaining. The Isle of Pines treaty and the permanent treaty were both carried out on the initiative of Cuba.

Maj. McDowell of Sharon Has No Opposition for Clerkship.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(Special.)—Maj. Alexander McDowell of Sharon, Pa., clerk of the house of representatives, is in the city conducting the hearing in the contested election case from the Ninth Massachusetts district.

There is no opposition to Major McDowell for clerk of the next house. During last session two or three candidates came out for the place, but the major soon had the necessary votes corralled and they withdrew from the contest.

SAHNER WILL NOT CALL MEETING

President Pro Tem of Common Council Says No Notices Will Be Sent Out.

BOLE SIGNS ORDINANCE

Opponents of the Pennsylvania Measure Much Dismayed by Action of Chamber of Commerce—Select Council May Meet Next Week.

President Pro Tem Gebhardt Sahner stated yesterday after the chamber of commerce meeting that he would not ask Clerk H. B. Davis to call a meeting of common council for next Monday night. He said his announcement last Monday night that council had been adjourned for a week was sufficient notice to the clerk. Mr. Sahner said an effort would be made, however, to get as many members to attend the meeting next week as possible, and if a quorum was not present another adjournment would be taken.

The Duquesne way ordinance was signed yesterday by D. J. Bole, who presided at the meeting Monday night. This takes the ordinance out of the hands of common council and the clerk must message it to select council at the first meeting of the upper branch.

Mr. Bole said yesterday: "I believe I am right in signing the ordinance. It was passed in common council by a majority of the members. Twenty-nine voted for it and but 26 votes were required to pass it. I was regularly elected president pro tem. I think my election and the entire proceedings upon the ordinance were legal."

The opponents of the Pennsylvania ordinance were much dismayed yesterday by the action of the chamber of commerce. They were counting upon the chamber to uphold them, and hoped thus to strengthen their position before the public. They are now deprived of support from this quarter and are depending upon select council and the mayor as their last hope, but profess little confidence of relief from either. Some of the leaders of the Stevenson faction conferred with Mayor Hays last night, but arrived at no conclusion. A caucus will be held some night this week to discuss the situation further.

At the meeting of common council Monday night, when the ordinance was passed finally, there were 30 members present. Twenty-one members were absent. One of the leaders of the Stevenson faction was asked yesterday how many of the 21 absent members they could get. He replied: "We do not count upon more than 14." Fourteen are 12 short of a quorum and this shows that there is little chance of a meeting next Monday night.

A meeting of select council to take up the Duquesne way ordinance is expected to be held late next week or the Monday following. A petition for a call will probably be issueds today or tomorrow.

NEW YORK, July 16.—(Special.)—G. P. Osborne of this city today shot and killed himself in the Hotel Rockingham at Portsmouth, N. H. Osborne was employed in the local office of the Commercial Assurance Company of London. Officials of the company say he was $5,000 short in his accounts.

POLICEMAN IS ROBBED OF $190

Officer Randolph Is Touched While Resting on a Doorstep in Center Avenue.

KNOCKOUT DROPS SUGGESTED

Police Officials Consider It a Reflection on the Department That a Man in Uniform Should Be Robbed While Sleeping on Duty.

Another robbery has occurred in police circles. This time it did not take place in the public safety building, but Officer Milton Randolph was robbed of $190 while sleeping on some steps in Center avenue, only a short distance away from No. 2 police station, early yesterday morning. The police and detectives are now busy looking for the robbers. Up to a late hour last night no person had been apprehended.

Randolph had been detailed to special duty in Center avenue. When he finally reached the home of his sister-in-law, Bertha Johnston, at No. 40 Berthold street, with whom he boarded, yesterday morning, the story he told her was that two strangers had came up to him while he was on his beat and engaged in an agreeable conversation, and that finally they had several drinks together. They went to a saloon to get the drinks, and Randolph reported to the detectives, to whom he told his tale of woe, that he was under the impression that he got a dose of "knock-out drops" in the whiskey he drank in the saloon.

Randolph's story is that he left the saloon in company of the strangers. Then he got drowsy and sat down on a doorstep near No. 2 police station to rest. When he woke up the $190 he had in his clothes was missing and so were his companions. Randolph has no knowledge as to who his companions are. He hurried to the detective bureau when he discovered his loss and reported the matter.

The front office men started to look for the thieves but were unable to get any trace of them. The detectives and police are indignant and say that "for a police officer to be robbed while sleeping on duty is an awful reflection on the department."

When a Gazette reporter called at Randolph's home last night he was again asleep and his sister-in-law refused to disturb him. "Milton came home early in the morning and said that he had been robbed," she said. "He was considerably annoyed about it and thought it was an awful reflection on him. He told me he had been drinking and was of the opinion he had been given 'knockout drops.'

"Wednesday night I gave him $190, which I had saved for him. I think that it is gone for good, but still the other police may catch the robbers."

EXAMINATIONS FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(Special.)—Secretary Root has approved the recommendations of the general staff to ask the militia of the various states to participate in the maneuvers of the regular army this fall. Many of the states have, however, held their own encampments or expressed a preference for them rather than for the interstate encampments.

WEDDING SERENADERS WERE GIVEN THE SLIP

Newly-Married Couple Outwitted Plans of Their Many Friends.

A more disappointed crowd of serenaders were never seen than appeared at the Union station last night. A prominent couple, residing in the East End, were married early in the evening and planned to spend their honeymoon at Atlantic City. A number of their friends contributed their last pennies to purchasing fireworks, including red light and cane torpedoes.

When the couple entered the carriage the serenaders boarded a street car and went to the Union station. They had engaged a brass band to assist in the "send off." This added to the expense. The "tooters" boarded the car with the exception of the bass drum player. He was refused admission to the car. Not to be daunted in their efforts, the party secured a wagon, put the drummer on the seat and hurried after the rest of the band boys. Cow bells, tin horns and pans of various kinds were ready for the couple when they arrived at the station.

The serenaders, numbering over 100, augmented by spectators to nearly 500, waited patiently for the happy couple to arrive. When the train was about to leave word reached the station that the bride and groom were at East Liberty station.

PERSONALS

Robert de Rothschild, a son of Baron Rothschild, member of the family of French capitalists, accompanied by Jean Siegle and Conrad Schlunberger, students of the School of Mines, Paris, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday. Each year the faculty of the school selects three students who are given their own routes. The students this year selected America. Mr. Rothschild said: "We are pleased we came to this country. We visited the Carnegie Steel Company works at Homestead today, and intend visiting the Westinghouse Airbrake works tomorrow. We will also inspect some of the coal mines before leaving." The trio came to Pittsburgh from Cleveland. They have already toured a large portion of the west, inspecting ore, copper, gold, silver and lead mines.

John Penton, secretary of the National Founders' association, has been commissioned to Cincinnati, where he will appear before the executive board of the Iron Molders' association of America in an effort to induce the members to refuse to issue a strike order affecting the local molders. Mr. Penton spent yesterday in Pittsburgh in conference with the local manufacturers and left last evening for Cincinnati. The board meets today, when Mr. Penton will discuss the present condition of the steel business, showing them the impossibility of granting the demands of the men. The local molders will be represented by a committee of three to state their grievances.

John Wick, Jr., president of the Ford City China Company, at Ford City, spent yesterday in Pittsburgh on his return from a trip to St. Louis. He was there to make arrangements for a glass exhibit at the fair next year. He said: "It is the intention to place an exhibit which will be a credit to Pennsylvania. A large building has been secured and will be filled with the latest patterns of glassware. The buildings on the fair grounds are about all completed, although several small structures are still in course of erection. Everything indicates that the fair will be the greatest the world has ever had."

Attorneys W. S. McDowell and J. M. Ralston left last evening for Detroit and Mackinac, where they will represent the Allegheny county bar at a convention of attorneys from all the middle states.

Robert C. Hall, the broker, left for Atlantic City last night. He has not been enjoying robust health of late and his trip to the seashore is for the purpose of recuperation.

THE OPPOSITION IS DEFEATED

reliable." This sally caused a general laugh. The veteran riverman also paid his respects to Mr. Willock by referring to him as a "recent convert" and said that "converts are always over-zealous."

Mr. Willock read a letter from a Pennsylvania railroad official which he said fully explained the ordinance. The letter was signed by Edward B. Taylor. It gave the contents of a letter written by the board of commissioners of Allegheny county to the directors of the Pennsylvania railroad on June 4, 1848, relating to the subscription by the county of 20,000 shares of the company's stock upon the condition that the terminus of the road should be located in Pittsburgh and in pursuance of this agreement the company was given the right to lay its tracks in Liberty avenue.

Right Is Established.

Mr. Taylor argued that the right of the company to Liberty avenue having been established by the court of the highest resort of the county, that the expenditure of several millions of dollars which the change would necessitate, was more than sufficient compensation for the privileges desired along Duquesne way; furthermore, that the right to erect an elevated structure along Duquesne way would not prevent the city from granting to some other company the right to build outside of this structure or in Duquesne way itself.

Mr. Willock added that the company was spending $5,000,000 at the Point and that it ought to be treated fairly. Mr. Willock then offered the set of resolutions, later adopted by both the directors and the chamber, which he presented as a substitute for the Marsh resolutions. These resolutions were as follows:

Whereas, The present requirements of the city of Pittsburgh are such as to make it desirable that the railroad tracks along Liberty avenue should be removed elsewhere, so that this main thoroughfare of the lower portion of the city may be fully used for ordinary purposes of travel and may be crossed by public travel without interference by moving trains; and,

Whereas, The question of the relocation of said tracks has been repeatedly discussed and the Duquesne Way route has been considered as the most feasible method as a substitution for the Liberty avenue tracks; and,

Whereas, In substituting the Duquesne way route for the present route on Liberty avenue, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is not acquiring a new or additional franchise in the city, but is exchanging one route for another, a more convenient and more desirable one to the public, it is also in this connection expending very large sums of money in additional terminal facilities in an elevated structure which will increase the facilities of shippers and the convenience of the public using the streets of the city.

Now, be it resolved, That it is the sense of this chamber of commerce that the proposed change of route from Liberty avenue to Duquesne way is desirable, and that the same should be effected, subject to such proper conditions and regulations of travel thereon as to the proper elevations of the tracks, the freedom of the wharf, and other matters which shall protect as far as possible the safety of persons and property, and the convenience of the persons using the streets and wharves of the city.

Resolved, That while we earnestly adhere to the proposition that the grant of franchise by the city of Pittsburgh should always be accompanied with a compensation to the city for the franchise so granted, having due regard for its value, yet in the present case the improvements contemplated on Duquesne way by the railroad company, having been long suggested and urged by the citizens of Pittsburgh, and the said change of route being further accompanied by an expenditure on the part of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company of several million dollars, we consider the present case one in which such demand for further compensation if made should be a nominal sum, or an annual rental not exceeding $5,000.

Resolved, That in granting the franchise and the rights thereby conceded to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company along Duquesne way same should not be exclusive of other railroads and transportation companies upon Duquesne way or the Allegheny wharf, nor should other companies of the nature mentioned be prohibited from crossing either overhead or beneath the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. But same should not be coupled with such conditions as would permit the use of any part of the tracks constructed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in such manner as would interfere with the safe and convenient operation of the tracks by the railroad company using the same.

Resolved, That the ordinance now pending in the city councils appears to us to cover in its general purpose and scope the essential features to be embraced in such change.

Close Vote in Directorate.

The vote cast by the directors of the chamber on Mr. Willock's resolutions was a close one, seven directors casting their ballots for the substitute and six against, as follows:

Ayes—Kennedy, Pitcairn, Anderson, Aldrich, Willock, Taylor and Renshaw.

Noes—Dravo, Monroe, Rodgers, Marsh, English and Stevenson.

The directors then adjourned their meeting and the general meeting of the chamber opened. The Willock resolutions were reported by the directors to the chamber and Capt. Rodgers immediately offered the Marsh resolutions as a substitute.

John Bradley made a speech in favor of limiting the franchise to 25 years or at least. If granted in perpetuity, to have it re-valued every 25 years.

Joseph W. Marsh made a lengthy speech, basing his remarks on the provisions of the resolutions which he had introduced in the board of directors and which were now under consideration as a substitute for the Willock resolutions.

A. M. Imbrie read a statement from Controller John B. Larkin showing the cost of the improvements made in the vicinity of the Union station by the Pennsylvania company which the city has assumed and the amount paid to Contractor Evan Jones for work done in regrading the streets at that point, the total claim amounting to $306,000.

Dimling's Red-Hot Speech.

John Dimling made a red-hot speech. "What we want and demand," he said, "is an expression from this chamber, and what it says ought to have more weight than that of councilmen, for the reason that we are a more representative body than either council."

"How's that?" was asked.

"Councilmen are easier bought than we are?" Mr. Dimling replied. "As a man said to me this morning, the average councilman has all to gain and nothing to lose."

A standing vote was taken on the substitute offered by Mr. Rodgers. It resulted in 29 ayes and 40 nays, and the motion was declared lost.

Captain Rodgers moved to lay the Willock report from the directors on the table until next September, but his motion was lost, and the report was finally adopted by a vote of 46 to 33, several members having left the chamber. The meeting then adjourned.

THE DEATH ROLL

Funeral of Hudson Samson.

The funeral services over the remains of the late Hudson Samson, the well-known undertaker, were held last night at the deceased's beautiful home in Darrah street, Oakland. The interment will be at the Allegheny cemetery this morning. The house was crowded with Mr. Samson's many friends, the room in which the services were held and the porch almost surrounding the house being filled with people. Besides the officers of the Methodist congregation to which Mr. Samson belonged, 11 ministers were present, most of them Methodists, but some of other denominations. Mr. Samson's financial assistance to religion was not confined to his own church, and every clergyman present knew of some benevolent deed he had done either for that minister's congregation or some other congregation of his denomination. According to the wish of the family, no funeral sermon was preached, and the services began with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Thomas F. Lee, who also recited a poem. The Rev. Dr. C. W. Smith also prayed and read a poem. Then nine ministers in unison read the twenty-third Psalm. They were the Rev. Dr. William H. Crawford of Allegheny college, Meadville, an institution in which Mr. Samson was deeply interested; the Rev. G. W. Terbuan, the Rev. Dr. W. F. Conner, the Rev. Dr. W. H. Thompson, the Rev. Dr. J. H. Prugh, the Rev. Dr. W. Pitt Turner, the Rev. Dr. J. M. Thoburn and the Rev. Dr. Arthur Stanley of Beaver. The burial this morning will be strictly private, as none but the immediate relatives will attend. The casket will be borne by six of Mr. Samson's oldest employes, and the honorary pallbearers will be Albert A. Horne, A. M. Schoyer, Lee S. Smith, J. S. Fisher, John Kelly, P. Kell, Jr., Frederick M. Mechling, W. J. Crawford, William Hamilton and J. B. Yohe.

William Garrett.

William Garrett died at Mt. Clemens, Mich., Wednesday morning, aged 60 years. He was the inventor of the Garrett roller for rod mills and the builder of nearly all the modern rod mills of the United States Steel Corporation. He was known to thousands of mill officials and workers throughout the country, and particularly in and about Pittsburgh. Mr. Garrett was born in Swansea, Monmouthshire, England, Dec. 26, 1843. At 11 years of age, in Gateshridge, Lanarkshire, Scotland, he began his first work as a boy laborer in the rolling mills. On arriving in Cleveland, O., in 1885, he accepted a position with the Cleveland Rolling Mill Company, and successively filled important positions with the Harrison Steel Company at Beaver Falls, Oliver & Roberts of Pittsburgh, and the American Steel & Wire Company. In 1888 he went to work for the Illinois Steel Company at the Joliet works, where he installed his new rolls and revolutionized the manufacture of rods. Four years ago Mr. Garrett formed a partnership with J. C. Cromwell of Cleveland, O., as consulting engineers in the building and operation of wire and steel mills. Mr. Garrett was an intense Republican in politics, and a prolific writer on economic themes. A widow and three children, who are now traveling in Scotland, survive him.

Mrs. Grace Kane Cassidy.

Mrs. Grace Kane Cassidy, widow of Henry Cassidy, died at her home, No. 94 Third avenue, yesterday afternoon of general debility. She was born in County Derry, Ireland, on June 18, 1812, and would have been 91 years old had she lived till Saturday. She came to Pittsburgh when young, having lived the last 60 years in the same house. Mrs. Cassidy was in possession of her faculties up to her death. She was one of three widows living in Western Pennsylvania whose husbands served in the Mexican war. She received and signed for the last payment of her widow's pension on July 6. She was the mother of Alderman M. F. Cassidy, who was well known in the First ward 15 years ago. Two brothers survive her, Patrick Kane, with whom she lived, and James Kane of California. She was a member of St. Paul's cathedral and was connected with charitable institutions of the church.

Mrs. Mary Boyle Brennan.

Mrs. Mary Boyle, wife of Patrick J. Brennan of Braddock, died at Salem, O., yesterday morning, after a long illness. An operation was performed two weeks ago, but her condition failed to improve. Mrs. Brennan had been at Salem, where her husband owns the Salem race track, for several weeks. Mrs. Brennan was the daughter of the late John and Alice Boyle, pioneer settlers of Wilkins township, where the deceased was born and resided until she married Mr. Brennan in 1888. She is survived by her husband and one child, Mamie, aged eight years, and the following sisters: Mrs. John A. Lowe of Braddock, Mrs. John Powers of East Pittsburgh, Mrs. Daniel Dougherty of Homestead, and Miss Sadie Boyle of Braddock; one brother, John Boyle, of Braddock, also survives.

Mrs. Charlotte Leighton Clemenson.

Mrs. Charlotte Leighton Clemenson died of lung trouble last night at the home of her husband, Dr. William A. Clemenson, No. 202 West Swissvale avenue, Edgewood. She was born in Confluence 58 years ago. She was married seven years ago. She is survived by her father, Fletcher K. Leighton, by her husband and by these brothers and sisters: Mrs. A. M. Stevenson of Pittsburgh, Henry S. Leighton of Braddock, Scott K. Leighton, Esq., and Miss Leone Leighton of Edgewood. She was a charter member of Calvary Presbyterian church of Braddock.

Thomas B. Reardon.

Thomas B. Reardon, 34 years old, died at the residence of Mrs. Anna L. Ridgeway, McKees Rocks, early yesterday morning. He was the son of W. H. and Amanda Reardon of Shippensville, Pa., and there the body was taken for burial yesterday. He came to Pittsburgh when 15 years old, and was employed by the Southwest Pennsylvania Pipe Line Company. PITTSBURG CONSOLIDATED CO. HOT DAMN FOR GIVING MINE

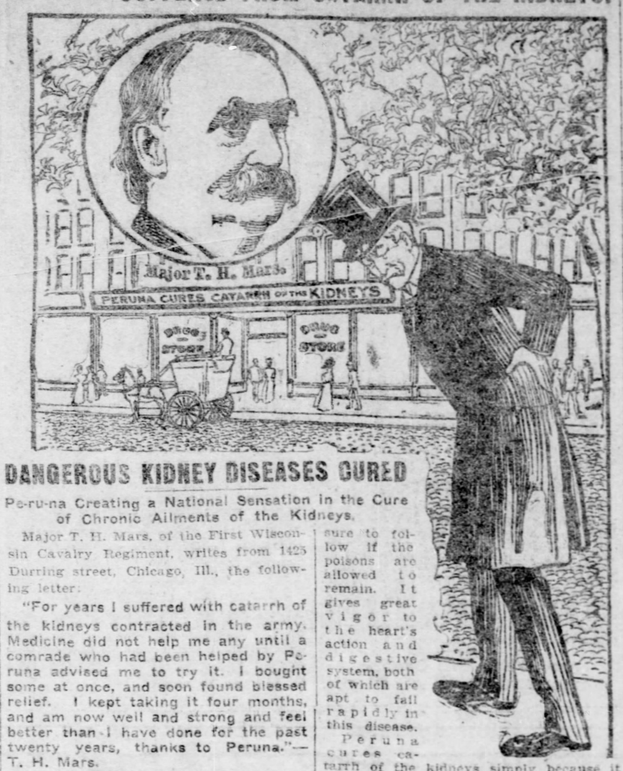
FOR TWENTY YEARS MAJOR MARS SUFFERED FROM CATARRH OF THE KIDNEYS.



DANGEROUS KIDNEY DISEASES CURED

Pe-ru-na Creating a National Sensation in the Cure of Chronic Ailments of the Kidneys.

Major T. H. Mars, of the First Wisconsin Cavalry Regiment, writes from 1423 Durring street, Chicago, Ill., the following letter:

"For years I suffered with catarrh of the kidneys contracted in the army. Medicine did not help me any until a comrade who had been helped by Peruna advised me to try it. I bought some at once, and soon found blessed relief. I kept taking it four months, and am now well and strong and feel better than I have done for the past twenty years, thanks to Peruna."—T. H. Mars.

At the appearance of the first symptom of kidney trouble, Peruna should be taken. This remedy strikes at once the very root of the disease. It at once relieves the catarrhal kidneys of the stagnant blood, preventing the escape of serum from the blood. Peruna stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulating poison, and thus prevents the convulsions which are sure to follow if the poisons are allowed to remain. It gives great vigor to the heart's action and digestive system, both of which are apt to fail rapidly in this disease. Peruna cures catarrh of the kidneys simply because it cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

SUES FOR SHARE IN HIS FATHER'S ESTATE

James McCormick of Pittsburgh Brings Charges of Fraud Against His Brother.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., July 16.—James McCormick of Pittsburgh has begun proceedings in the local courts to compel a settlement of the estate of his father, the late James McCormick of Peters township, Washington county. Mr. McCormick, Sr., was the owner of a 75-acre farm in Peters township at the time of his death, in 1894. His heirs were Margaret Swagler and Leander, William, James and John McCormick. Letters of administration were issued to John McCormick on January 4, 1895. James McCormick at the time was not a resident of Washington county and gave his brother John, the administrator, the power of attorney to dispose of his interest in the estate, which was a large one.

John McCormick, according to the bill of complaint, failed to negotiate a sale, but on the contrary, in violation of his trust, led James McCormick to believe that his father's estate was deeply in debt, and that by misrepresentation persuaded the plaintiff to sell his interest in the estate to the defendant for $320. This sum, the plaintiff claims, was far below the value of the interest sold at that time.

In December, 1900, all the heirs except the plaintiff joined in the sale of the coal underlying the farm, and one-fifth of the purchase money is being claimed by the plaintiff. He avers that the defendant, John McCormick, obtained his share by fraudulent transaction.

TROLLEY LINES PROJECTED.

Murry A. Verner Interested in Road Between Pittsburgh and New Castle.

NEW CASTLE, July 16.—(Special.)—An electric line between Beaver Falls and this city is almost assured. Negotiations for the rights of way are pending. The route has been surveyed recently. Murry A. Verner of Pittsburgh and capitalists connected with the Youngstown and New Castle lines are backing the enterprise. This line will close a gap of 21 miles between New Castle and Pittsburgh, which will leave but a short distance to complete a trolley line from here to Pittsburgh.

A deal is pending by which another electric line will be built between New Castle and Sharon, along the east bank of the Shenango river, by the owners of the former line, who will dispose of their right of way to the Lake Shore railroad so that the latter can come into this city.

Prayer of Suicide Granted.

ERIE, PA., July 16.—Herbert Lutgen of Dunkirk went to the home of his mother in West Seventeenth street this morning and, after a word of greeting, started to ascend the stairs, saying as he did so: "May God give me the power to carry out a wish I have cherished for several days." Mrs. Lutgen thought the remark referred to the writing of a letter. Three minutes later she heard the report of a revolver, and, rushing upstairs, found her son lying dead on the floor with a bullet through his brain. No cause is assigned for the suicide.

May Lose Rural Mail Delivery.

WASHINGTON, PA., July 16.—(Special.)—As a result of the failure of the farmers of Washington county to improve the roads there is a probability that the rural free mail delivery service will be discontinued in many sections. Supt. Charles Murphy of Washington, in charge of the rural delivery service in this section, today said that he had received word from the postoffice department to discontinue all routes where the roads had not been improved.

Aged Whisky Sold Cheaply.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., July 16.—(Special.)—Eight-year-old Gray whisky was sold on the auction block at Masontown yesterday to pay the government revenue tax imposed upon it. For the first time in the history of Pennsylvania distilling, aged whisky brought only 42 cents a gallon, and 160 gallons of it were purchased at this price. The bidding was not spirited. Buyers were afraid the process of selling was illegal and that litigation might follow.

DUEL MAY BE FATAL TO BOTH PARTICIPANTS

WHARN CLIFFE, W. VA., July 16.—(Special.)—On East Fork, ten miles from here, a pistol duel occurred this afternoon which will bring death to both participants. Harvard Knowlton and Frank C. Dwees, the latter a timber man and the former a farmer, who have been enemies for years, met in the highway and each resorted to firearms. The men were on horseback and each emptied his revolvers, both falling from their horses during the fusiliade. Dwees was shot three times and is dying. Knowlton was shot in the right side. He cannot recover.

PITTSBURGH CONCERN TO BUILD COURT HOUSE

Westmoreland County Commissioners Award Contract to Miller & Sons.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., July 16.—After a conference of over three hours with Judge Lucien W. Doty and Alexander D. McConnell, the county commissioners this evening awarded the contract for the new court house to William Miller & Sons of Pittsburg. There is every likelihood of the award being approved by the court and Miller & Sons have already made arrangements to enter into an article of agreement with the commissioners.

The Miller bids were as follows: Maine and New Hampshire granite, $878,000; Concord granite, $900,000; Webb granite, $900,000; Cleveland sandstone, $750,000; Winsborough granite, $846,000; Indiana limestone, $715,000. The commissioners did not select the material for the superstructure, but it is believed that granite will be chosen. The Miller bids were generally the lowest.

Bids for the structure were opened four times and the contract has been awarded three times. At the first letting the award was given to the Lindsay Construction Company of Pittsburgh, but the contract was not approved by the court for the reason, as stated from the bench, that an act of assembly had not been complied with in that the award was not given to the lowest bidder. At the second opening of bids Caldwell & Drake of Columbus, Ind., were the lowest bidders and were given the contract, but the action of the commissioners was not approved by the court, charges of wholesale jobbery having been made.

When bids were advertised for the third time the terms were amended with the intention of reducing the cost of the building fully $150,000, but the lowest bidders were far in excess of the Caldwell & Drake bid at the second letting and the commissioners refused to make the award. Miller & Sons have taken part in all of the bidding.

LEAGUE GAMES TODAY.

New York at Exposition park.
Brooklyn at St. Louis.
Boston at Chicago.
Philadelphia at Cincinnati.

It's either a feast or a famine with those champs of ours. They were up against the famine end of it on Wednesday, when they did not get enough base hits to make a decent showing in the Punxsutawney league, but the feast came yesterday and gracious alive, how they did murder that ball. The final showing in the score books was 16 to 4 in the champions' favor.

"If we could only have had a few of those Beaumont bingles in yesterday's game," remarked a fat man as he made his way out of the grandstand, "we would have the two games to our credit instead of one. However, we can't win them all," and the fat man was absolutely correct. A few of those superfluous bingles that the Pirates slammed out yesterday would have come in mighty handy on Wednesday, but that's baseball. There was a gathering of 4,420 lovers of the sport at yesterday's matinee and the batting feast they were treated to was the finest for many a day.

Having taken "Rusty" McGraw of the Giants thought it would be proper to keep a good thing goin'g, so that he might go back to the metropolis within easy touch of first place and get one of those "see the conquering hero comes" welcomes. Acting on this line of thought he decided to use as his pitcher Joe McGinnity, the "Iron man," who has been a terror to all league clubs save the Pirates this season. McGinnity was more than willing to take the chance, as he had a few old scores to even up with the champions, and he selected yesterday as the day to get even.

Joe Christy Matthewson may be able to fool the Pirate batters, because he has done so on half a dozen occasions this season, but not so with McGinnity. The great pitcher has won all his games against the champions, but it is just the reverse with the "Iron man," whose every effort so far has been a defeat. Joseph may be able, with that raise ball of his, to fool the batters on the other clubs, but he was proved pretty conclusively yesterday that he cannot fool Clarke's crew, and he had better quit trying.

The bumping that Mr. McGinnity was given yesterday afternoon will live in that young man's memory until his dying day. It has been years since such a terrific cannonading was seen in Exposition park, and the merry swat of the bat was a delight to the ears of the delighted fans, while the merry-go-round on the bases was a treat indeed. It was indeed a joyful afternoon for the local lovers of the game.

The one player who stood out most prominent in the doings was Clarence Beaumont, the Pirates' redheaded hustler in middle field. Clarence tore off a single and a three-bagger from McGinnity, but the "Iron man's" successor who was pie for Clarence. On his first turn against Cronin, Beaumont swatted a home run to right center, as pretty and as clean a hit as has been seen at the park this season. This was in the seventh inning, and in the eighth he repeated the dose, this time driving the ball to right center. It was a lively afternoon for Mr. Beaumont, who in six times at bat drew one base on balls, made a single, a three-bagger and two home runs, a total of 12 bases and four hits, which is the league record for the season; besides this he scored five of the Pirates' runs.

From the manner in which the Pirates took to his curves in the opening inning it should have been plain to McGinnity that he was booted to get his brains, but the "Iron man" is a hard fellow to convince and he got convinced all right. His eyes were opened in the fifth inning and it was something awful. Wagner started the doings with a double to left, after which Bransfield filed out. Then Leach drew a base on balls. Ritchey drove a three-bagger to right, scoring Wagner and Leach. Kruger drove the ball to right for three bases, Smith went out at first but hits by Leever, Beaumont, Sebring and Bransfield, and an error by Browne, brought the tallies for the inning to eight.

After Wagner had drove one at Browne which was too hot for him to hold in the fifth, McGinnity for the first time this season threw out the distress signal and he was lifted from the game, big Cronin, who at one time was a Pirate, taking his place. Darling McGinnity's incumbency he was touched up for 12 hits and 11 runs, while Cronin suffered to the extent of six hits and five runs.

Sam Leever was on the rubber for the Pirates and Samuel was very much all right. In the early innings the schoolmaster was touched up a bit lively, but after the fourth he rounded to and finished strong. The Giants' four runs were scored two in the second on a fumble by Wagner, a base on balls to Browne and singles by Van Haltren and Mertes. In the third they got a run on a single by Gilbert, who stole second, and Browne's single to right. In the eighth McGann singled, stole second and scored on Babb's single to center. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

In the first inning Beaumont was on second and Wagner at bat. Hans drove a hot one down the line and Bresnehan got the ball back of third, and took a chance on catching Beau, but there is where he got fooled. Beaumont, as he well knows, is a swift runner, and when Bresnehan went to touch him he found that the foxy Pirate was like the Irishman's flea, he wasn't there when he put his hand on him.

"Sandow" Mertes was guilty of a bad case of misjudgment in the third inning, and Bransfield got a three-bagger as a result. Mertes was playing deep enough, but he came in on the ball and it sailed gracefully over his head and against the left field bleachers. In circling the bases "Kitty" forgot all about that sore ankle of his and pulled up on third base with a smile on his face.

Tommy Leach's steal of second was a very slick bit of base running. McGinnity and Warner were laying for Tommy, and the pitch was a wide one which the pitcher uses to allow the catcher a free chance for the throw. Leach was off with the first motion of McGinnity's arm and he made a fine head-first slide and beat the ball only by a second, as the throw was a perfect one.

Beaumont not only batted like a champion yesterday but his fielding was not a whit less sensational than his remarkable slugging. In the sixth inning Babb of the Giants sent up a fly that was just back of the diamond, and Beau started in for it. The other players kept hands off, although Ritchey could easily have fielded the ball. Beaumont kept going like the limited express trying to make up lost time, and he got the ball just back of second base.

The pounding the Pirates gave McGinnity yesterday was probably the hardest that player has received in all of his baseball career. The champions started after his curves from the first inning and the batters gained confidence as the game progressed. It was in the fifth that the "Iron man" met his Waterloo and the smash of the bat was joyful music to the ears of the local rooters who were still sore at heart over that fourteen inning throw down of the previous day. In that inning there were all kinds of hits made and towards the end McGinnity grew weary and called for help, which was sent out in the shape of Cronin, who was also given a lively drubbing. The Pirates had their batting clothes on and simply would not be denied.

The New York team carries with it two boys who are dressed in the Giants' uniform, and who present a neat appearance. One of the little fellows is the team's mascot, and has that word in large letters across the front of his shirt. The boys can do some neat fielding as the players give them a chance during the preliminary practice, and their actions amuse the early spectators. The little fellows are sons of wealthy New Yorkers, and are traveling with the team for pleasure.

Cronin, who was sent to the relief of McGinnity in the fifth inning, was a Pirate for a short time back in the days when Watkins managed the team. Cronin is a strapping big fellow who has a pitching motion that is very peculiar, and when he pulls his arm back to drive the ball there is a bend to the elbow that looks as though the elbow is on a hinge. He has lots of speed, but could not fool the Pirates yesterday as Clarke's men were out to make up for lost time, and they certainly did slam that ball about.

Sam Leever not only pitched a pretty game but he helped along with his bat in fine style. In the fourth inning Kruger and Smith were on second and first when Leever came to bat, and Sammy laid down as pretty a bunt as one would care to see, and what was better still he beat it out and the crowd cheered. In the fifth Sammy was also there with his little base hit. Leever usually hits to right field, and the Giants were playing him that way, but he fooled them by pulling the ball around to left and two runs scored on the hit. That was a case of a pitcher helping to win his own game sure enough.

Manager Clarke disobeyed his physician's advice and went into Wednesday's game, and will have to pay dearly for it. The exertion was too much for the lame shoulder and Clarke was so sore yesterday that he was forced to call on the doctor, who informed him that it may be some weeks before he can play ball again. Kruger was in left field for the Pirates yesterday and besides batting like a whitehead, he contributed one of the pretty fielding feats of the game. In the second inning Babb, who was on second base, tried to score on Warner's single to left, but Kruger fielded the ball in fine style and shot it to Smith in plenty of time to nail Babb at the plate. The spectators gave Kruger a hearty cheer for his clever play.

Reached Clarence Beaumont was the hero of yesterday's game and he deserved to be because the display of batting put up by the clever Pirate was a treat well worth seeing. In six times up Beaumont got a base on balls, was out on a fly once, and on the other four occasions he made a single, a three-bagger and two home runs. Every one of Beaumont's hits was as clean as a whistle, and there never was a chance for any of the fielders to get at any of them. His home runs in the seventh and eighth innings were beauties and as clean cut as it was possible for hits to be. Even the New York players on the bench joined in the applause when Beau crossed the plate after his second homer. Beaumont's batting yesterday gives him the honor of the greatest batting feat of the season.

Four of Boston's runs resulted from the umpire's disallowance of a third out in the first inning, because he had turned to the bench to demand new balls. A somersault catch by Flick was the feature. DIPLOMACY WILL SMOOTH THE WAY

Miss Muriel White Wins Heart of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's Son.

FATHER OBJECTS TO MATCH

Secretary White of American Embassy Will Endeavor to Obtain Withdrawal of Objections to Marriage of His Daughter to Austin E. Chamberlain.

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.)

LONDON, July 16.—No event has caused such a stir in London society as the report that Austin E. Chamberlain, son of the colonial secretary, had become engaged to Miss Muriel White, daughter of the secretary of the United States embassy. Many are the English girls who have sighed for young Mr. Chamberlain, as he is still called, though he is now 40 years old, and rumor has had him engaged several times. This time, however, he doesn't deny it, while Joseph Chamberlain is said to be very much opposed to the match.

Austin Chamberlain claims that he can not see why he should not follow his father's example in marrying an American girl, and Mrs. Chamberlain, who was Miss Endicott of Massachusetts, is said to be inclined to take her son's part. If this is so, then the chances of Austin Chamberlain are quite promising, for while his father is known to be exceedingly stubborn, it is also well known that he invariably follows his wife's advice in domestic affairs, though it has always been his wish that his son should marry into one of the great and wealthy English families. This would not be difficult for Austin Chamberlain, who does not look to be over 30. His reputation, social and political, is unblemished. He has accumulated wealth and his prospects are most promising because he enjoys a wide popularity.

If Joseph Chamberlain should not make up his mind to give in, however, Austin would probably still find means to have his own way. He is a man past middle age and severely austere at that, and it would appear ridiculous for his father to oppose him, if he intends to do so. Mr. Chamberlain's attitude in the matter, however, is said to be more than mere conjecture and is regarded with some amusement. Mr. White is very fond of Austin Chamberlain and is said to be willing to use his diplomatic training in reconciling the elder Chamberlain to the engagement.

Miss White, the reported fiancee, is one of the favorites of London society. She is a charming young girl of genuine American type and since her coming out two seasons ago has been greatly admired. Mr. Chamberlain, it is claimed, lost his heart, hitherto considered invulnerable, to the American belle at their very first meeting.

HAS MERCY FOR REBELS.

President Castro Defers Bombardment of a City Through American's Intervention.

SOLEDAD, VENEZUELA, July 16.—The attack on Ciudad Bolivar by the Venezuelan government troops, which appeared imminent yesterday, has been deferred at the request of United States Consul Henderson. Herr Brokmen, the German consul, and the bishop, who transmitted to President Castro a long telegram asking him to be magnanimous and to show mercy to all if the revolutionists surrender. It is known that the president answered as follows:

"Yes, for every one except the traitor Ferrera, the author of so many tears and the cause of making so many orphans."

The final period of delay given by Gen. Gomez for a definite answer to his request for the surrender of Gen. Rolando and his followers expires today, but at the last minute President Castro, wishing to save the lives of the inhabitants of Ciudad Bolivar and to avoid the horrors which must follow the storming of the city, ordered Gen. Gomez not to open fire unless he is attacked, but to simply besiege the city. The revolutionists, having no provisions, cannot resist more than 10 days.

The United States gunboat Bancroft and the French cruiser Jouffroy arrived off this port during the afternoon. They reported all well on board.

LITTLE HOPE FOR RATIO.

Germans Believe No International Monetary Conference Will Be Called.

BERLIN, July 16.—The American and Mexican international silver exchange commissions met the representatives of the German government for their first conference at the Reichsbank building today. Germany's representatives recognize the desirability of fixing the ratio of exchange between silver and gold countries, but regard a scheme in that direction merely as a pious wish.

From a trustworthy German source the correspondent is informed that the British and French governments flatly refused to obligate themselves to the purchase of a fixed amount of silver yearly for Indian and colonial coinage. This is one of the commissions' proposals, which is intended to stabilize the ratio between silver and gold. Germany's delegates recognize that absolutely nothing is possible without the co-operation of Great Britain and France, and it is not believed here that the commissions' work will lead to the calling of an international conference.

SOCIETY

THE home of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Rinehart in Center avenue, Shadyside, was the scene of an exceedingly pretty wedding last evening at 8:30 o'clock. The bride was their daughter, Miss Laura Broadhead Rinehart, and the bridegroom was Dr. James K. M. Perrine. The Rev. Thomas J. Leak, pastor of the Oakland Methodist Episcopal church, performed the ceremony in the presence of about 125 guests. The bride, attired in an exquisite princess gown with a full court train and bertha and panels of duchess lace, was given away by her father. Her long veil was fastened with prince of Wales plumes. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. The maid of honor, Miss Anna Rinehart Lazear, a cousin of the bride, was gowned in white peau de soie and carried American Beauty roses. Embroidered mousseline was worn by Miss Edith Bailey, the bridesmaid. Her flowers were pink sweet peas. The small niece and nephew of Dr. Perrine, Miss Sara and Samuel Nease, children of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Nease, were the ribbon bearers. The little ones, both in white, preceded the bride, each holding in one hand a white satin ribbon and in the other a basket of dainty blossoms.

Dr. Perrine's best man was Dr. Alexander C. Blair and the two ushers, Dr. John C. Calhoun and Dr. Edward R. Gregg. Dr. Perrine and his bride left at 11 o'clock last night for a wedding journey of three weeks. Upon their return they will make their home with the parents of the bride, Dr. and Mrs. Rinehart. The Rinehart home presented a beautiful appearance last evening. In the parlor, where the ceremony took place, the chandeliers were decked with small pink roses and asparagus. The mantel was banked with white gladiolias and ferns, while at either side of the fireplace stood two immense palms, between which the wedding party was grouped. Asparagus ferns hung gracefully in the large doorways. Palms, ferns and tropical plants were used in decorating the library. The bookcases were massed with green and on the chandeliers were tiny roses. On the bride's dining table, in the dining room, was a centerpiece of white roses and tulle. Scattered over the board were bows and streamers of the tulle, giving a most artistic effect. Ferns were also used in the dining room. Through the green-shaded globes the lights glowed softly upon ropes of sweet peas extended from above. These same blooms were placed on the silver candelabra. At the bride's table the wedding party was seated with the immediate relatives of the bridal couple. The guests were served at smaller tables placed on the verandas which had been enclosed for the occasion, and on which were many palms.

FLUMMERY.

There is a class of dishes prepared from fresh summer fruits that are variously known as flummeries, firmity, starch jellies and fruit mushes. The latter is perhaps the most appropriate name for these preparations. The original flummery was an oatmeal or coarse wheat meal jelly made acid by allowing the cereal to ferment by steeping it in water; it was then strained and boiled to the proper thickness. It was a light, rather insipid kind of pap.

Firmity was similar in its composition, but made into a firm jelly, turned out and eaten with wine, cider, milk or a compound sauce. The fruit mush which is supposed to have developed from the original cereal production is quite as simple, but a far more palatable dish. Like the two primitive varieties, it is made in two ways, either of the consistency of ordinary cereal mush, to be eaten hot with cream or frest fruit, or stiff enough to be formed into a mold to be turned out and served with a suitable sauce, a fruit compote or whipped cream. When made in the form it makes a nice substitute for the breakfast cereals, or it may be served with these in place of cream and sugar. It is not strictly a dessert when made into a mush, but may form a part of the dinner dessert. The molded flummeries or mushes, on the other hand, are intended only for desserts.

The Germans are fond of this form of dessert, known to them as flammerie. Their method is to employ gelatine, egg yolks and flavorings.

The old French frumenti was a preparation similar to the English flummery. The Spanish make theirs with cream, rice flour, sugar and cinnamon and serve them with sweet preserves.

The fruit composition seems to please the sweet-toothed American, and the American housekeeper, particularly the farmer's wife, who has an abundance of fresh fruit, had become skilled in making these delightful midsummer dishes.

The flummery or fruit mush which is best liked is made from blackberries, and served cold with rich cream from the farm dairy and is a dish not to be lightly tasted, especially on a hot summer morning, when one does not have an over-keen relish for the early meal.

When this mush is cooked thick enough to mold, turn it into individual molds or small cups and let stand over night. In the morning turn out and serve with ice cold cream, plain or whipped. With good home-made bread, white or entire wheat, sweet, fresh grass butter, a cup of coffee or fresh buttermilk you have a very satisfying as well as delightful breakfast for a morning when the extreme heat creates an aversion for strong foods like meat and potatoes.

Blackberry Mush.

This is perhaps the nearest approach to the ancient English flummery or firmity, and is often made with oatmeal or entire wheat meal of some sort. Steep a quart of blackberries in one and one-half cups of water until they come to boiling point, then stir in gradually enough of the meal or flour to thicken without lumping. Half a cup of meal will be quite sufficient. Then stir in half a cup of white flour or two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch first moistened to a smooth paste with cold water. This is best made in a double boiler in order that it may cook slowly, covered, for sufficient length of time to thoroughly cook the meal or flour. When done pour into molds and set in a cold place until morning. Serve with sugar and cream unless you sweeten the mush, then use cream only.

Raspberry Flummery.

Soak half a pint of pearl tapioca in two cups of cold water for several hours and then turn into a double boiler, cover and set where it will cook rather slowly until clear. Add half a cup of sugar or sweeten to taste; when cold turn in a quart of fresh raspberries. If they require washing do this in time for them to drain thoroughly before using them. Turn the mixture into a mold and set in a very cold place. Serve with sugar and cream.

Currant Flummery.

This is just tart enough to tone up the appetite for more substantial food on a hot morning. To two quarts of juice strained from mashed ripe currants add two cups of granulated sugar and stir until dissolved. Pour a pint of this juice into a pint of ground rice and blend until perfectly smooth. Heat the remainder of the juice in a double boiler and then stir in carefully the thickened juice. Cook until thick and then pour into molds, large or small, and set on the ice to harden.

Cherry Flummery.

Use tart red cherries. Stone them and place in a double boiler with cold water in the under part of the vessel. Allow them to heat up gradually until the juice is well drawn out. For a quart of cherries moisten two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch in half a cup of cold water. Add a pint of boiling water and a cup of sugar; then stir in the cornstarch and stir rapidly until it cooks clear and thick. Turn into a mold or molds and set in a very cold place to form. Serve with cream.

Blackberry Flummery.

Put a pint of blackberries in a double-boiler with a quart of water and let them scald slowly. When the juice is well drawn out, thicken to a stiff jelly with cornstarch moistened with cold water. This can be served warm or turned into molds and chilled.

Apricot Flummery.

Pare enough ripe apricots to make a pint when sliced. Put in a double-boiler with a cup of water, a cup of orange juice and a cup of sugar and cook slowly until tender. Mix three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with cold water to moisten and stir into the fruit; stir constantly and cook five minutes, then turn out into molds large or small and set away to cool. Eat with whipped cream.

INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

Mrs. A. P. G. writes: Will you give a recipe for green apple pie with raisins. Pare the fresh green apples and slice very thin. Fill a crisp under crust two-thirds full with the apples and over this place a layer of raisins. Dot with butter and spread a cup of sugar over the top; cover with thin top crust and bake in a moderate oven, half an hour.

Blanching Rice.

Mrs. H. writes: What is meant by blanching rice and fresh vegetables?

After boiling rice for five minutes, it is washed and drained on a sieve. Fresh vegetables are blanched sometimes to improve their appearance, this is done by par-boiling them in plenty of water for five, ten or more minutes; they are then drained and cold water poured over to rinse them, after this the cooking proper is done.

The State of Washington
The average man is more likely to succeed in the State of Washington than anywhere else in America.

There is a reason for it, of course. In the first place Washington is alive with new and prosperous industries, and she needs and wants intelligent men who are willing to work for success, that they may go and help in the wonderful development that is there in progress.

Any man who is really in earnest can succeed in Washington and with but little capital.

If you are a farmer, there is no better country in the world than Washington.

If you are a mechanic, there is plenty of work for you to do there at good prices, and plenty of opportunities for you to establish yourself in one of the many lines of mechanical industry.

If you wish to engage in commerce, there is without any question a more varied and promising field in Washington than elsewhere in America.

Only the most luxuriant kernels of the finest wheat are used in the making of Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit. The wheat is first thoroughly cleaned and all the light kernels are removed, then it is washed in sterilized water and thoroughly cooked, after which it is spun into thousands of little shreds, each shred containing thousands of little pores which make it light and porous without the use of yeast, baking powder or chemicals of any kind, and naturally short without the use of fats. The shreds are then cut into biscuit and twice cooked, making them deliciously crisp, which compels thorough mastication and insures perfect digestion and a sweet, clean stomach.

Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit is the natural food because it IS THE MOST POROUS OF ALL FOODS and presents greatest surface for the action of digestive fluids. These fluids are drawn by absorption into every part of the shreds, rendering the food immediately assimilable.

Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit contains a food property to upbuild each and every element of the depleted body. Foods made of part of the wheat, such as white flour bread, cannot do this and the ferment contained in them results in a sour mass upon the stomach.

Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit purifies the digestive tract. Constipation is unknown to those who use it properly and regularly. It can be prepared in so many tempting ways that the fickle appetite is always tempted by its goodness and the body quickly responds to its all-nourishing force.

CUT OUT THIS RECIPE.
1 quart of washed and picked berries; crush ¾ of them; add ¾ of a cup of sugar and ½ cup of ice-water; chill for half an hour. With sharp pointed knife cut centers from 6 Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit, making oblong baskets. Fill with the crushed berries and let the syrup saturate biscuit. Cover top with remaining whole berries and sprinkle with sugar. Serve with sweet cream. Any fresh fruit may be used in same way.

Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit is made in the only hygienic and scientific food laboratory in the world. Sun-flooded through 30,000 lights of glass, finished in white enamel, marble and mosaic, and ventilated with filtered and tempered air, this laboratory is the veritable home of purity—a place where contamination cannot occur.

The above facts make Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit the most perfect food known to man.

RUSSIA FULFILLS TREATY PLEDGES

China Announces That Two Manchurian Ports Will Be Opened to the World.

GREAT DIPLOMATIC VICTORY

After Negotiations Extending Over Two Years the United States Wrings Desired Concession from Reluctant Muscovite—All Disputes at an End.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 16.

"When the whole truth is known it will be found that Russia has kept her pledges regarding Manchuria to the letter."

This statement was made by Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, early in May. So far as treaty ports are concerned, that pledge has been kept. Manchuria is to be thrown open to the commerce of the world. China has informed the state department that she will order the opening of the two ports of Moukden and Ta-Tung-Keo. This is the result of negotiations which have been going on for several years. It is regarded as a great diplomatic achievement.

Secretary Hay has also been officially informed by the Russian government that Russia has not the slightest purpose of opposing the incorporation in the commerce treaty now being negotiated between China and the United States of a clause providing for the opening of certain Manchurian ports to the world's commerce. There are still a few details to be settled, but the state department considers the question of the open door in Manchuria as substantially settled. Although the particular ports to be opened have not been officially announced at the state department it is believed that they will be Moukden and Ta-Tung-Keo, on the Yalu river. The United States has agreed to substitute the latter port for Taku-Shan, which, Japan has pointed out, is closed part of the year owing to the ice.

It may be stated that the officials of the state department are highly gratified with the position assumed by Russia in this matter, and it is now stated that practically all of the matters which have been in dispute between the United States and St. Petersburg governments have been settled to the satisfaction of both countries.

It is learned today that the question of the opening of the two ports of Manchuria was practically decided on June 28, at the conference which took place that day between Secretary Hay and Count Cassini. The two ports which it is probable will be opened to all commerce are two of the most important trade ports in Manchuria. Ta-Tung-Keo is on the right bank of the Yalu river near the mouth, and at present but a small place, but it will now develop into an important trade center.

LAME AND HALT PILE CRUTCHES ON THE ALTAR

Festivities of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Celebrated by Faithful in New York.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 16.—This is the festival day of one of the greatest of patron saints of Roman Catholicism and particularly of Catholic Italy. "Our Lady of Mount Carmel."

A general celebration of the day began early. Walking with bare feet and with their heads bowed in prayer, the devout marched from their homes to the churches. Many of these processions were headed by bands and all those marching were gayly dressed and the men carried long wands garlanded with flowers. The celebration centered at the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, No. 473 East One Hundred and Fifth street.

An aged woman, Mrs. Tilletti of Hoboken, who has been a cripple for 15 years, laid her crutches on the altar amid the acclaim of the crowd. To Father Joseph she said that six months ago she began to pray to the Carmelite Madonna and last night she began to walk. She went away from the church without the crutches. Others came, crippled and worn, or bringing small children for help, and declared they had found it. The altar soon was buried under the discarded surgical appliances and buried with gifts of the faithful. FRANK A. PARKER.

Husband Kills Wife in Duel.

NEW YORK, July 16.—In the presence of their 12-year-old daughter, Enrico Canapa and his wife fought and slashed each other with a chisel in their apartments today, the duel ending in the death of the woman, who was stabbed in the right temple by her husband. The man received several stab wounds before he gained possession of the instrument and was found staggering in the street, his clothes covered with blood. He admitted to the police to having killed his wife, but said he had to do it to save his own life.

IN MEMORIAM.

Hudson Samson.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Young Men's Christian association of Pittsburgh, held today, the following minute was adopted:

"In the death of Mr. Hudson Samson on Tuesday, July 14, the Young Men's Christian association of Pittsburgh deeply mourns the loss of a true friend and lifelong member.

"From the early beginning of this association, and through 36 years, Mr. Samson has been an active member and for the past 10 years a member of the board of trustees. His devoted interest in the welfare of young men continued throughout his entire connection and was manifested by prompt and regular attendance at the meetings of this board, wise counsel, frequent visits, many inquiries and a voluntary readiness to present to others the opportunities provided by the association.

"Mr. Samson's strong Christian character and his devotion to the service of Christ, were valued by all who knew him, and especially by his associates on this board of trustees in his earnest interest and original thought for the safeguarding of young men from temptation and helping them to useful Christian lives, he has, by his services and gifts, contributed much to the efforts of this association.

"His absence will be greatly felt in this entire community by the many families to whom in the dark hour of bereavement, his quiet presence, thoughtful attention and assuring words, have brought great comfort and Christian consolation.

"In this tribute to his memory we bear our testimony to his Christian character, and commend to young men the example of his daily life and conduct, in following Him in whose service we have been so long united, and we extend to his bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and commend them in Christian affection and faith to 'the God of all comfort, who comforteth us in all our tribulation.'

"Chairman."

JOKERS LAUGHED BEFORE THE TIME

Pittsburghers Neatly Turn the Trick on Atlantic City Merrymakers.

Bath House Proprietors Will Erect Lookout Platforms for Lifeguards Along the Beach to Facilitate Rescue of Venturesome Bathers Who Need It.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Young's Ocean Pier,
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Means of Pittsburgh, who left this city yesterday, after spending a very enjoyable two weeks here, will long remember their stay, and the joke which came out of it.

Mr. Means and his wife are a very youthful looking couple. Mr. Means, who is the manager of the Wayne iron works of Pittsburgh, doesn't look to be over 26 or 27. When they prepared for their departure yesterday a number of the guests who believed Mrs. Means was a bride of only a few weeks, hurried about, secured a quantity of white ribbon and attached a card upon which was printed in very large letters, "just married." The coach which was to convey them to the depot was also gaily decorated. They followed Mr. and Mrs. Means to the depot. When the latter had seated themselves in the car the crowd from the hotel rushed in and showered them with rice and old shoes, and shouted their congratulations. Everybody in the car supposed they were looking at a newly married couple starting out on their wedding trip. Mr. and Mrs. Means were dumfounded. As soon as he could recover from his astonishment, Mr. Means arose and turning upon the conspirators, demanded: "Say, what in the world does this mean?"

"Oh, you can't play innocent, my friend," said one of the party. "We know you have just been married." And a handful of rice accompanied the reply.

When Mr. Means recovered sufficiently to speak, he said, so that everybody in the car could hear:

"Oh, my; this is too rich. You poor deluded creatures, we have been married for 17 years," and then went off into another fit of laughter.

The people in the car shouted their delight and the rice and old shoe throwers made their way out of the car as quickly as possible and slipped away.

Will Build Safety Platforms.

Disgusted with the city's slowness, William A. Stephany, proprietor of the United States avenue baths, and Charles Dentzel, proprietor of the United States avenue merry-go-round, have decided that they will begin the erection of a platform for the guards at that part of the beach at their own expense. Mr. Stephany said that in view of the recent drownings they decided to do what they could to prevent similar occurrences. The platform will be raised eight feet from the beach and will be about 10 or 12 feet square. The guard will sit there and oversee the beach and direct the work of rescue.

Friend to the Firemen.

John J. White of the Marlborough House, was last evening presented with a handsome pin by local branch No. 8 Firemen's Mutual Benevolent association, making him an honorary member. A committee composed of William A. Aiken, Bert Albertson and John J. Babcock went to the Marlborough and made the presentation to Mr. White, who was greatly surprised. Mr. White has been a good friend to the fire laddies. Only two other persons not firemen wear the badge, they being Miss Helen Gould of New York, and Albert McDermott of Jersey City.

CAVE-IN DAMAGES CHURCH.

New Catholic Edifice and Other Property Damaged—Four Miners Hurt.

SCRANTON, July 16.—The beautiful new Catholic church of St. Lawrence O'Toole at Rendham, near here, was badly damaged by a cave-in of the top vein at Jermyn No. 2 mine today. There is a big crack in the masonry reaching from the foundation diagonally across the end nearly to the roof. The church was dedicated about one year ago. Much private property has been damaged in the neighborhood also.

The residents of Rendham were awakened between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning by the creaking timbers of their homes that were rapidly settling to the new level made by the cave. In one place a deep crevasse extends for half a mile and a long section of one of the principal streets is rendered unsafe for travel by great breaks running lengthwise and extending down to a depth of 12 or 15 feet.

Four miners were caught in the cave-in at the No. 2 mine. One of them is seriously injured and the others only slightly.

Four Persons Burned to Death.

BONNER SPRINGS, KAN., July 16.—Four persons lost their lives in a fire, early this morning, which destroyed the Bonner Springs sanitarium. Among the dead is Dr. Rogers, who lost his life in trying to save a woman patient. There were 30 inmates in the building, but all escaped except four.

AMALGAMATED COPPER BROKE THE MARKET

Heavy Selling of This Rockefeller Specialty Checked the Rally in the General List—The Local Market Better.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The action of Amalgamated Copper yesterday furnished circumstantial evidence in support of the theory that the Rockefeller interest is conducting a "bear" campaign in Wall street. If this theory could be established as a fact, it would relieve much anxiety from the mind of the general investor, who, if he could feel assured that the enormous shrinkage in values was due mainly to a quarrel between large financial interests, and was not in the nature of discounting future business conditions, could watch the fight with equanimity, and incidentally pick up some of the good things that are being temporarily cast aside. Amalgamated Copper directors yesterday declared the usual quarterly dividend of one-half of 1 per cent, and the statistics bearing upon the general copper trade were favorable, showing a decrease in the visible supply during the past two weeks. Amalgamated Copper stock had opened a point higher at 60 and advanced to 50¾, when a rumor was circulated that the dividend might be passed and the stock reacted a point. When the rumor was proved unfounded by the action of the directors the stock recovered the loss and the general market displayed a fairly strong tone. Suddenly Amalgamated was attacked and the price crumbled away at an alarming rate. The stock was vigorously hammered down to 46½, a decline of 1½ per cent below the previous low point, and it closed at the lowest. American Smelting and Refining also broke about this time, selling down to 41, the lowest of the year. This movement unsettled the whole market and reactions of 1@2 per cent from the high point of the day occurred, the market closing weak and unsettled.

Prior to this attack upon the Standard Oil specialties the general market had displayed a better tone. At the opening gains were general, following the advance of ⅛@1½ per cent in London's quotations, and foreigners were again fair buyers, taking about 25,000 shares during the first hour and selling nothing. The initial advances were not held, however, and for about an hour the market looked like resuming the liquidation that had been such a conspicuous feature of Wednesday. St. Paul declined a point to 140¼, Pennsylvania to 119¾, New York Central to 114⅝, Illinois Central to 126⅝ and Canadian Pacific to 119¾. At the decline there was good buying, and a little later a mild squeeze of the shorts in Canadian Pacific, which commanded a premium for use, and which carried the price up 5 points to 124¾, caused some covering in the remainder of the list. Shortly after noon the highest prices of the day were current. St. Paul reached 142, Illinois Central 129, Pennsylvania 120½, Baltimore & Ohio 83½, Union Pacific 77½, and so on through the railroad list. Improvement in the industrials was also quite general. United States Steel common opened at 26½ and advanced to 26¾. The preferred opened at 77 and advanced to 77½. General Electric opened at 165, dropped to 162 and recovered to 167, a net rise of 10 per cent over the lowest of the day before. Consolidated Gas, Sugar and Brooklyn Rapid Transit were all firmer. Then came the Amalgamated Copper incident, and the whole market sold off, in many instances to the lowest prices of the day. United States Steel common sold down to 25¾, or to within ¼ of the low record. The preferred broke to 75½, and the new bonds were lower, at one time selling at 77¼. St. Paul, which all along has been looked upon as a pivotal stock, was one of the weakest in the final dealings, declining to 140¾, or within about a point of Wednesday's low record. Canadian Pacific broke 3 per cent and Rock Island preferred sold down to 67, its previous low record. The market closed active and feverish. The total sales were 787,000 shares, or about 400,000 shares less than the day before.

The principal feature of the money market was the sharp break of a half cent in sterling exchange. This was due partly to the high rates for time loans and to purchases of securities by foreigners. Its effect is to put further gold exports out of the question, and to this extent remove some apprehension regarding the money market. Call loan rates ruled at about 8 per cent, closing at 2¾ per cent. Time money was firm at 6 per cent. It was reported that the $10,000,000 Union Pacific loan would not affect the bank statement, as fully that amount of the Pennsylvania loan would be liquidated and the funds thus released would be available for Union Pacific. The revival of the report that the New York Central had borrowed $18,000,000, or had made arrangements to do so, was again officially denied, and the further statement made that the company would not be in the market for funds until later in the year. It is said that the pool in Canadian Pacific had made arrangement to carry their loan in London, where better rates could be obtained, and it is not improbable that other borrowers were again resorting to the foreign money market, which would account for the break in sterling rates.

There was a better feeling in the local stock market yesterday, and while the volume of transactions was not so large as on the previous day, it was better distributed, and prices closed higher. Crucible Steel common made a strong rally to 12¼ and closed at a net gain of 1 per cent. The street takes a favorable view of the Clairton deal, and the opinion is expressed that the stock will more than recover its recent loss when general financial conditions are more favorable. The preferred stock declined from 76¾ to 76, but subsequently rallied to 76½. United States Steel common was moderately active within a range of 25⅝ and 26½, closing at 26. The preferred was a dull but firmer, selling at 76½ to 77¼, closing at a net advance of ¼. National Fire Proofing common made a strong rally to 23, closing at 23¾, a net gain of 1¼. Westinghouse Electric rallied to 87¾, but later reacted to 86½, and at the close was offered at 86¾, with 86 the final bid. Westinghouse Airbrake declined a dollar a share to 154, closing at 153 bid. Pittsburgh Coal common broke to 23, but recovered to 24½. The preferred stock was firmer, closing at 83¼ bid. Manufacturers Light and Heat was weak, declining to 35¾, but rallying to 36 bid at the close. Ohio Fuel Supply was also lower, selling at 40½. Pittsburgh Brewing common rallied a dollar a share to 32.

Bank and trust company stocks were dull and weak. German American, Savings and Trust declined 5 per cent to 160, Iron City Trust declined 5 per cent to 145, Real Estate Trust 5 per cent to 280, receiving to 281 bid, and Guarantee Title and Trust declined 4 per cent to 204. Colonial Trust sold at 550, unchanged from the last previous sale, and Federal National at 163 was also unchanged. River Coal 6s were ¼ lower at 113¾.

PITTSBURGH STOCKS.

Transactions on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday were 11,528 shares stock and $7,900 bonds. Sales:

Pittsburgh Is All Right.

A local house received a private dispatch from New York yesterday stating that a rumor was current there of some financial trouble in Pittsburgh, and inquiring what foundation there was for the report. After an investigation an assurance was sent that Pittsburgh is all right, so far as its financial institutions are concerned. Individual operators in the stock market have no doubt liquidated a portion of their holdings, and their paper profits have disappeared, but as a rule this liquidation will not curtail any of the necessaries of life and few, if any, of the luxuries.

Local Market Situation.

The head of a local brokerage house, speaking of the comparative steadiness of the newer bank and trust company stocks, said: "The market for this class of shares is very narrow, and any considerable pressure would result in sharp declines; but holders are protecting themselves by the sale of other stocks which have a broader market. To illustrate: The forced sale of any one of a half score of the high priced bank and trust company stocks would cause a break of $25 to $50 a share, while the forced sale of any of the active industrials would not cause a decline of more than a dollar or so. It is therefore a less expensive matter to sacrifice a dollar or two on the industrials and apply the proceeds to additional margins on the high bank and trust company stocks than to sacrifice the latter. This plan is being pursued here just as a similar policy is being pursued in the east. Stocks that have a market are being sacrificed to take care of stocks that could only be sold at a still greater sacrifice."

Wall Street Borrowing Abroad.

Attention throughout the stock market world was still concentrated yesterday on the developments in the money market and the brighter sentiment which was felt during the midday session was due to the replenishment of money supplies through the medium of the foreign exchange market. This was reflected in a violent break of nearly ¾c in the pound for demand bills on London. That this was largely due to selling of loan bills was made manifest by the large offerings of foreign exchange houses in the money market. The placing abroad of a large portion of the $10,000,000 of Union Pacific notes would also make a supply of exchange. Added to these causes was a very active demand for stocks here for foreign account. Foreign brokerage houses estimated the number of shares bought for foreign account yesterday at 50,000 to 60,000. The effect was perceptible in the money market even for six months' loans, which have been rigidly held at 6 per cent in view of the payment of that rate by the large railroad corporations. Commissions have been reduced in many cases in addition to the 6 per cent rate, but exactions by lenders were apparently relaxed.

The Pennsylvania Syndicate.

It was officially announced yesterday that the syndicate which underwrote the Pennsylvania railroad stock issue was required to take only 32,500 shares of the stock. This is about 2 per cent of the total amount offered, the remainder having been taken by shareholders.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

An initial transaction in American Stogie preferred occurred on the local board yesterday, Lawrence & Co. buying 100 shares at 102. Barbour and Robinson Bros. were the sellers.

On the exchange 1,450 was bid for Farmers Deposit National bank. No quotations were made on American Trust, and Colonial Trust was unchanged at 550.

Pipe line prices for high-grade petroleum were marked up 3 cents yesterday, Pennsylvania oil now quoting at $1.53.

It required purchases of only 250 shares National Fire Proofing common to rally the price 1½ points to 23, and the stock closed at a net gain of 1¼. There were no transactions in the preferred.

Liquidation in Manufacturers Light and Heat carried the price down to 35¾ on sales of less than 1,000 shares, but Fuel Supply declined to 40½. Philadelphia Company was quoted at 40 bid.

"Pittsburgh Coal common was under some pressure early in the day and declined to 23, but rallied to 24¼ at the close. The preferred was a little firmer at 83¾. River Coal common declined to 10¾ and the preferred to 38½. River Coal bonds were also a fraction lower at 113¾.

Accompanying the break in Amalgamated Copper was a report that the metal would be reduced the coming week. The visible supply of refined decreased 852 tons during the last mail, and now amounts to 15,261 tons.

The Boston and Montana Copper Company declared a quarterly dividend of $2 a share.

One of the Wall street rumors current yesterday was that the junior partner in one of the prominent houses had been compelled to liquidate his speculative lines which had been accumulated during the absence of the head of the house.

The presence in the Wall street district of the secretary of the treasury gave rise to rumors of contemplated measures of relief for the money market by the government, and this had its part in the lifting of prices of stocks. Opinion over the future of the market at the end of the day was completely in doubt again.

Some rallies in the eastern bond market in sympathy with stocks made that market somewhat irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,920,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

Gross earnings of Allegheny Valley for May increased $58,760, and net earnings increased $11,285.

The Peoples Natural Gas and Pipeage Company announces a stock dividend of 20 per cent to stock of record July 15.

There has been listed on the Philadelphia stock exchange $62,144,700 additional stock of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, of which $51,000 has been issued in exchange for 708 shares of the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston Railway Company. Sixty-two million thirty-three thousand one hundred dollars, to be issued on and after this date upon surrender of treasurer's full paid receipts for payments under the allotment of March, 1902, making the total amount of stock listed to date $288,034,750.

The directors of the Northern Securities Company have declared a dividend of 1¾ per cent on the capital stock of the company, payable August 3 to stockholders of record on the books of the company on that date. The first dividend paid on Northern Securities was 1 per cent on February 1, 1902. This amount was paid each quarter until February, 1903, when 1¼ per cent was paid. The dividend just declared will therefore be the seventh quarterly dividend to be paid on the stock and the third one at the rate of 1¾ per cent.

The directors of the Allis-Chalmers Company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, payable August 1.

Cambria Steel directors have declared a regular semi-annual dividend of 1½ per cent, payable August 15 to stock of record July 31.

The Coal Trade Journal of this date reviews the condition of the trade as follows: "At the eastward there is a very strong market, and the demand is such that only a small amount is in yard, with the extra demand likely to increase in a few weeks, and it can be easily seen, therefore, that that market can take care of all the coal it can get for the next three or four months to come. The anthracite business is now on a very comfortable basis to all concerned and it probably will continue in this way for the future. Pittsburgners are all as active as they have ever been; the large tonnage sent to the lakes during the past weeks has all been absorbed without any break in prices at the lower river cities and towns. Rail business is active, and lake shipments considerably behind, but some ahead of the tentative of the 15th of July. Boats in the Ma'e are slow in arriving, and the tonnage of ore is far below the requirements for the year, and the coal shipments are also slower than was expected. It would appear that the Lake Erie Railroad service is delayed by the illatory way in which the boats have been running, cargoes laden with coal standing at dock until boats are available to be loaded with them. Nevertheless all lines are handling an enormous tonnage as compared with any preceding year. Pennsylvania tide shippers report all rail business better than ever, with buyers disposed to get forward some already contracted for before taking on new obligations. In New England the market is about normal for this time of year, and demand is not heavy; a few cargoes of coal in Dana ships are on contracts, and the better qualities of coal are quietly absorbed at the ruling figures. Clearfield coal is cheap and not in very active demand, buyers calling for better qualities of coal. In the west the general tone is better; there is not much tangible fact to which it can be traced, but the almost universal report among railroad officials and commercial men is that the market looks a little stronger. Prices can scarcely be said to be higher, but less coal is offered. Demurrage coal especially is not coming into values so much as it did a few weeks ago."

The directors of Standard Rope and Twine Company have passed resolutions to pay the interest on the first mortgage bond on August 1 as usual.

More than 82,000 shares Amalgamated Copper and 58,000 shares United States Steel common changed hands yesterday, these stocks being the leaders of the market.

DECLINE IN RAILROAD STOCKS

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 16.—In the slump in railroad stocks yesterday the prices of shares dropped to figures nearly as low as those of the great Northern Pacific panic day, May 9, 1901. In the table printed in The Gazette today by a transposition of figures the prices given were incorrect on railroad shares. Following are the correct prices of railroad shares on September 10, when the high price of the boom was reached, compared with those of yesterday. In the first column are the prices on September 10, 1902, in the second those of yesterday, in the third those of May 9, 1901, and in the fourth the change from September 10, 1902, to yesterday.

AVALON SCHOOL HOUSE ASSURED

New Building to Cost $30,000 Will Be Erected at California and Union Avenues.

EAST END SALE OF $40,000

Nos. 1510-1512 Fifth Avenue Sold to Thornton Bros. for $24,500—Two Big Lot Sales Tomorrow—Auction Sale of Good Allegheny Residence.

Avalon is to have a new school house, or rather, a big addition to the present building, to be built in record time and to cost $30,000. At a meeting of the board of education a few days ago Architect W. J. Shaw was selected to prepare the building and work will be started by August 1. The addition will be in the rear of the present building at California and Union avenues. It will contain eight school rooms, an auditorium, a manual training department and rooms for domestic science and sewing. In general it will conform to the architecture of the other building. The decision to build a new school house was reached by a vote of the borough citizens, to whom these propositions were submitted by the board of education—to buy a lot and build a school house in some other part of the borough, to bond the town for $40,000 for a school house on the present site, to get a bond issue of $30,000 for an addition to the present building and $5,000 to provide manual training quarters in the new building. The last proposition carried. Architect Shaw is now preparing plans for the building and bids will be asked shortly. The members of the board of education are headed by M. J. Hamilton, president; C. M. Johnston, secretary; A. B. Hall, W. J. Parker, Dr. W. J. K. Snyder and F. M. Heinman. It is hoped to have the building completed by January 1.

East End Stands Alone This Week.

Still another good sale, reported from the East End, helps to swell the realty business of that district this week. The property is that at No. 101 Frankstown avenue, at the northwest corner of that thoroughfare and Hastings street, and generally known as the Misc. M. P. Semple property. It measures 36x110 feet and is improved with a two-story frame building, the lower floor of which has seven storerooms. The buyer, whose name is withheld, is an East End merchant who paid $40,000 for the property. This is at the rate of $1,333 a front foot. This is the fifth sale of business property reported from the East End this week, the total of the five deals being $191,000. In the face of the dullness which is manifest in all other parts of the city in realty deals, this showing in the East End is the more conspicuous and is evidence of a substantial demand for good properties near the East Liberty station.

Mr. Semple's 36x110-foot Fifth avenue, the late owner, R. H. Hay, nets $62,500 on an investment of about three months. He bought the property for $18,000, and yesterday sold it to Thornton Bros. for $24,500 through the agency of A. H. Hay, Jr. The lot measures 20x120 feet on the south side of the avenue between Pride and Marion streets, and extends back to Ann street. It is improved with a two-story brick building well rented. The property stands at the owner at a little less than $1,000 a front foot.

Looking for Higher Values.

Tomorrow occurs the initial sale of lots in Keating West View, the new allotment of the Allegheny-Bellevue Land Company, which is one of the largest of the suburban tracts the Pittsburgh Railways Company. If the weather is at all propitious the sale promises to be the most largely attended of any ever held in a Pittsburgh suburb. Aside from the fact that the Parnville district is noted for its fine residences and advantages and that the new street car line to be built through Keating West View to Bellevue, making a belt line, will open up one of the most beautiful residence districts to be found near any city, the fact that the project is backed by men of unlimited capital who depend largely for their returns upon the business that will come to them from fitting up the new town as fast as possible, is assurance of higher values soon. This means that the improvements promised will be pushed ahead with all possible speed. The new boulevard that will run from the plan down to Sewickley Heights will also add considerably to its attractiveness as a residence center. By the short East street car line the town is made to be within a city limit down in 25 minutes, and the officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company guarantee that this time will be reduced to 25 minutes when the new schedule goes into effect in the fall.

Another lot plan on the East street line which will be formally opened tomorrow is the Lighthill plan plan, which is being handled by the Real Estate Savings and Trust Company of Allegheny. The property was purchased a short time ago and is being provided with all the usual lot improvements. The lots range in value from $100 to $300 each and are well located for residence purposes.

Auction Sale in Allegheny.

The Rebecca Sterrett property at the northwest corner of Arch street and Park way, Allegheny, will be sold at public auction August 6. The lot is 19x75 feet and the house is a three-story modern brick dwelling with 12 rooms, and one of the best residences on the street. The administrators are James F. Hall and Theodore W. Wettach.

Allegheny: W. L. Scott & Co. sold for M. C. Smith to H. & F. Hannah No. 300 East Robinson street, a brick house, lot 20x70 feet, for $4,000.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at unchanged prices and ruled very quiet, but in spite of the continued heavy movement was somewhat firmer later under better European cables and further bidding by bull interests. PENNSYLVANIA CRUDE ADVANCED THREE CENTS

It was the oil market rather than field developments that attracted the attention of operators and producers yesterday. When the purchasing agencies opened in the morning new quotations were posted. Pennsylvania credit balances were advanced to $1 83; North Lima $1 18 and South Lima and Indiana $1 11. For 60 days the credit balance market remained stationary. On May 16 it was reduced from its present figure to $1 80 for Pennsylvania crude. It was at the time a matter of some surprise for the reason that the conditions seemed to warrant an advance. During the past two months developments in the fields and the increased consumption of the production have demonstrated that in the face of the greatest activity on the part of high-grade crude, increased and each month the stocks in the iron storage tanks have had to be drawn on to make good the deficiency that should have been supplied by the very general increase in operations in all fields.

There was very little difference in the class of wells completed yesterday from those earlier in the week. Nothing better than small producers in all fields. In several instances shooting was resorted to and with good results. In the Polsock district, Venango county, West Virginia, the South Penn Oil Company gave its test on the C. E. Robinson farm, completed last week, a dose of the high explosive fluid, and the well produced 150 barrels the first 24 hours. The test on the Hall & Smith Penn has drilled its test on the Omer E. Hall farm into the stray 22 feet and developed some oil.

In the fifth sand district, near Fairview, Marion county, the South Penn Company has drilled its No. 5 on the David Jones farm, into the fifth sand and has a show for a good producer.

On the same farm the same company has drilled No. 10 into the Big Injun and has a show of oil.

Near Middlebourne, Tyler county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its test on the J. King farm into the Keener sand and has a show for a producer.

In Meade district the Carter Oil Company has shot its No. 3 on the John Ankrom farm and has increased its production to 120 barrels a day.

Southwest of the Salem district, in Harrison county, the South Penn has completed its test on the M. L. Sadler farm and has a very small pumper in the Gordon sand. On the west end of the Pruntytown field, in Wetzel county, the South Penn has drilled its No. 48 on the Blackshere-Wells farm into the Big Injun and has a show of oil.

Near Petroleum, Ritchie county, the Buffalo Oil Company has completed No. 7 on the Volcano oil and coal tract and has a very small pumper in the Berea grit.

In the Ellsworth field and in a part of the same tract, J. W. Graw has drilled his test well through the Berea formation and has a duster.

On the West Virginia petroleum tract R. B. Cuthbert has drilled his No. 26 through the salt sand and has a 5-barrel pumper.

The Lima Oil Company has drilled its No. 26 on the West Virginia petroleum tract through the Big Injun and has a 5-barrel pumper.

In the St. Mary's district, Pleasants county, the United States Oil and Coal Company has completed No. 23 on the Isaac Pethtel farm and has a 20-barrel producer in the Cow Run sand.

The same company has completed a test on the Oliver farm and has a show for a 20 or 25-barrel producer in the same formation.

In the same district the Capitol Oil and Development Company has drilled its test on the A. P. Gale farm through the Maxon sand and has a 65-barrel producer.

North of Marietta, Washington county, O., the Stone Oil and Gas Company has completed No. 10 on the Daniel Robinson farm and has a 15-barrel pumper.

The Lilly Oil Company has completed No. 9 on the George Amazon farm and has a duster.

In the Lewisville district, Monroe county, the Unity Oil Company has drilled its test on the Margaret Cooper farm through all sands and has a duster.

GRAIN PITS AGAIN CLOSE DAY AT A LOWER FIGURE

Wheat Was Erratic but Corn and Oats Ruled Steady on the Chicago Market.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, July 16.—The early sentiment in the wheat pit was bearish, due to the unsatisfactory condition of the money market, the weak feeling of stocks and the labor troubles, and prices opened 1@1¼c lower, with commission houses selling on a scale that depressed crop advices had little bulls, however, afforded sufficient support to prevent any severe break. Local receipts, 180 cars.

There was little demand for provisions and the market was easy, closing about the lowest. A reaction from yesterday's upturn. To-day's hog market was very strong apparently had no effect and the close was at a low for September, which sold at $14 40, with lard down 67½c at $8 62, and ribs 22½c at $8 42½.

Estimates for tomorrow—Wheat, 60 cars; corn, 215 cars; oats, 200 cars; hogs, 41,000 head.

The leading futures reported by John D. Armstrong & Co., members of the Chicago board of trade, Farmers Bank building, are as follows:

NEW TIMOTHY HAY IS NOW ARRIVING

Potato Quotations Seek Lower Range—Currants Scarce and High.

New timothy hay has commenced to make its appearance in the market, although there is scarcely enough arriving regularly to make a quotation possible. Sales yesterday were on a basis of $17 50 to $18 00 for No. 1 grade, about $1 below the price ruling for old. Only about one or two cars a day are coming to Pittsburgh as yet, but receipts will probably show steady increase. All grains held firm yesterday at former prices. New oats are expected to arrive some time next month, and present indications are that there will be no scarcity.

The grocery market was without feature of any special kind. Dealers report active business, with heavy flour demand. Speculative wheat has fluctuated considerably in the last few days, but there has not been much change in cash prices, and the flour market is thus held firm. Raw sugar is just about steady, and refined is held at last advance. Coffee is in moderately good demand, with prices unchanged. Canned corn continues to rule strong, with stocks very light, and tomatoes are weak.

While there is not a great amount of activity in the local grain market, firmer conditions prevail in the east, and the butter market generally is somewhat steadier than it was at the opening of the week. Cheese is doing fairly well, but no change has been made in prices. Eggs are firmly quoted at unchanged.

Chickens are still high in price, owing to lightness of receipts. Farmers invariably ship stock to market freely just prior to July 4, after which date there is always a lessening of receipts for a week or two. Dealers are expecting to see more chickens arrive in a few days, when easier prices will likely prevail. Other poultry remains unchanged.

Louisville potatoes are coming in freely, and quotations have gone down, while home grown stock remains at about the same figure as last quoted. Dealers are of the opinion that the future of high prices has gone by for this season, and that potatoes will rule lower. Crops throughout the country are in good condition, and promise large yields. Old apples are done and new are coming in more plentifully. There will likely be a fair crop of apples. Cantaloupes are abundant and quotations are lower. Fresh tomatoes are arriving from Indiana and New Jersey, the quality is good and prices are moderate. Currants continue to rule high, with the supply light. Berries of all kinds are unchanged.

OLD PORTAGE ROAD BEING PUT INTO SHAPE

The work of laying rails on the old Portage road has been begun on all parts of the line, with the exception of a gap of about four miles, which has not yet been graded. Supt. Long of the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania railroad has returned from an inspection of the Portage road.

"It is impossible to tell when the road will be completed," he said yesterday. "The work is not being particularly hurried and it will be some time after snow flies before the first train is run.

"It is said that the line will be suitable for both freight and passenger traffic, although passenger trains will not use the Portage road except in cases of necessity. The heaviest rail is being used in the construction.

"The rebuilding of the culvert at Jeanette, said Supt. Long, will be done at a cost of about $25,000 and the work will be finished within about two weeks. The Pennsylvania is still using at Jeanette a pile driver belonging to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

An official of the Pennsylvania railroad is authority for the statement that none of the work now projected will be rushed except the Brilliant cutoff, and the Portage road. Contractors who had expected to do $100,000 worth of work per month will do only $25,000 so that payments may be made more gradually.

WAS A VACATION FULL OF DELIGHT

The One the Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Thurgood Enjoyed Was Out of the Ordinary.

INTERESTING OBSERVATIONS

Melbourne's Parks Furnished Ideas Which May Be Utilized for the Benefit of the Soho Children—Was Active Church Worker All the Time.

Vacations for ministers of the Gospel are common enough, but an 11-months' vacation, embracing a trip to Australia, with stops at the beautiful Islands in the Pacific ocean, and privileges to take his wife along with him, is something out of the ordinary in the way of vacations for preachers. Such was the vacation trip the Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Thurgood have just returned from. Their return early yesterday morning, and the enthusiastic welcome given them at Unica station by a large delegation from the congregation of the Central Christian church, of which Mr. Thurgood is the pastor, was reported in yesterday's issue of The Gazette. Mr. and Mrs. Thurgood have returned with renewed strength to carry on the work which they started here 11 years ago. It was their second visit to Mr. Thurgood's old home in Australia since their marriage in 1882, after he had completed a five-year course in the Kentucky university at Lexington.

Melbourne's Fine Attractions.

In speaking of Melbourne, Australia, where he spent most of his vacation, Mr. Thurgood said: "For sunshine, fruits, restfulness, flowers, pearly skies, emerald seashore and parks, Melbourne cannot be beat. There is a house for every family in the city, and the miles of cottages, with little gardens in front, are equalled in few places in the world. Its parks are fine and numerous. I have received many ideas for a children's playground and would be glad to see one such as they have there situated in the Soho district. The health of the city is excellent. A $15,000,000 sewerage system has just been completed. It is in advance of Pittsburgh in this respect.

"The Australian states are over-governed. Australia has a population less than that of Pennsylvania, and they have six houses of parliament, upper and lower; six governors; six federal assemblies and over all these is a governor general. Just think of the laws they make. Everything is being federalized. The railroads, telegraph and telephone, and parcel posts are gradually being controlled by the government.

"The continued drouth, which has lasted for the past seven years, has injured the country greatly. It is estimated that 30,000 young men have left the southern part of Australia to seek their fortunes elsewhere on account of the aridness. I was talking to an old friend of mine whose house in the country had been completely covered by successive sand storms, and he escaped with his life. Some day he can go back and recover his furniture by digging away the sand."

Preached While Away.

Mr. Thurgood preached every Sunday while away in the North Fitzroy Christian church. The congregation had no pastor and tried to prevail on Mr. Thurgood to remain in Australia, but he had given his pledge to return to Pittsburgh. During his short stay there 130 new members were added to the rolls of the church. He gave American ideas to the people, and has brought back some ideas from them in the way of children's playgrounds and church sites.

The jubilee convention of the Christian churches of Australia was celebrated in Melbourne during Easter week and Mr. Thurgood was the American representative. There were 17,000 people in attendance at the services. Mr. Thurgood addressed one of the meetings and Mrs. Thurgood made the principal address to the Sisters' conference, at which 2,000 women were present. Mrs. Thurgood is well known throughout the island, having organized the first women's societies in the Christian church there.

During their stay abroad they were the guests of Mrs. Thurgood's father, W. C. Thurgood, a pioneer business man of Melbourne. Mr. Thurgood's brothers there also, Jabez and William Thurgood. The Thurgoods left London for Australia about half a century ago. The Rev. C. L. Thurgood came to the United States to study for the ministry, and this is his second trip home since that time. For six years he was pastor of a church in Melbourne, when he returned there after finishing his seminary course.

Renewed Old Acquaintances.

Mr. Thurgood had many pleasant experiences renewing acquaintances with old friends and becoming acquainted with their children. A magistrate showed Mr. Thurgood a bible which he had given to him when a boy in his Bible school class, 25 years ago. The magistrate now uses it to swear people by. Little things like this spent by Mr. and Mrs. Thurgood in sightseeing. They went for a rest and look as though they had it. Mr. Thurgood spent a great deal of his time in studying philanthrophic work. Charities are better organized there than here, he says. The different charitable organizations have a clearance house, and no one can be receiving help from more than one society at a time. Thus frauds and impositions are avoided. He also spent considerable time in the Melbourne university, where he was a student before coming to America.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurgood left Melbourne on their return trip on June 15, and it took just one month to reach here. A farewell reception was given them by the Melbourne church, and each was presented with a fine gold watch by the congregation. They stopped at Sydney, where another reception was given them, and at Auckland, New Zealand, New Zealand, Mr. Thurgood avers, approaches the ideal. The government is the finest and the climatic and social conditions are equalled in few places. Stops were also made at Samoa, Fanning Island and Honolulu.

Wants Parks for Children.

Mr. Thurgood has been greatly impressed with the parks of Melbourne and San Francisco, and is anxious to start a movement which will ultimately provide a breathing space for the children of the Soho district. For eight and one-half years he and Mrs. Thurgood have labored with the children of this district, having them Saturday afternoon in the Central Christian church. Now he would like to see a park made out of the ground lying practically unused in Stobo street, between Fifth and Center avenues.

Mr. Thurgood was disappointed to learn yesterday that William Falconer was no longer superintendent of parks, as he had sent to him some of the plans he would like to see carried out. Mr. Thurgood says that Pittsburgh should have the best parks in the world and be called the "City of Philantrophy." The city parks are excellent, but what is needed is a breathing place for the children who are unable to go to the parks. In Australia parks are called "the lungs of the city."

CARNEGIE PRACTICES ECONOMY IN PREPARATION FOR POVERTY

(Special Correspondence of The Gazette.)

LONDON, July 8.—Although Andrew Carnegie announced some time ago that he proposed to give away his immense fortune, probably no one took him so seriously as to suppose that he actually meant to impoverish himself. Now, however, we have an assurance from the millionaire himself that he means to die a really poor man, and the Laird of Skibo is practicing a lot of little economies with the object of accustoming himself to count the pennies when it becomes necessary for him to do so.

For instance, since the corridor car has become a familiar equipment on the English railway trains, Mr. Carnegie always travels third class, except when he is accompanied by his wife and daughter, then he goes first. On a recent occasion when he was coming south, he was met accidentally on the platform at Carlisle by a former acquaintance who had accumulated some wealth through kindly tips given to him from time to time by Mr. Carnegie. This gentleman was on his way to London, too, and was delighted at the prospect of having his friend and benefactor as a companion for the remainder of the journey to town. As he was alone, he asked Mr. Carnegie if he would share his saloon, but before he had time to receive an answer the guard's flag indicated that they must take their seats, when Carnegie without ceremony disappeared into a third-class compartment. At the next stopping place Carnegie was again out on the platform and his friend approaching him, remarked in a tone of remonstrance:

"Why in the name of goodness do you ride in that dirty old cattle-box?"

"Cattle are not always to be despised, my friend," Mr. Carnegie replied sharply, "they are more of value to the human species than many of the men I have come across in my career. Besides," he added, "I cannot expect to give my money away without something approaching a corresponding value, and as I am as comfortable as I care to be in a third-class compartment, I do not see why I should give myself the habit of indulging in unnecessary luxury. I am going to die a poor man and I must try in the meantime to acclimatize myself to the new conditions."

KNAPP IS CONVICTED OF WIFE MURDER

The Confessed Slayer of Five Women Given First Degree Verdict in Ohio.

HORRIBLE CAREER OF CRIMES

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

HAMILTON, O., July 16.—Alfred A. Knapp was convicted here today of murder in the first degree for the murder of his wife, Hannah Knapp. The verdict was reached at 7:30 o'clock, the jury having been out since 5 o'clock last night. There was no recommendation of mercy and Knapp must go to the electric chair. The jury stood 10 for conviction without mercy and two for conviction with mercy, being unanimously for guilt.

Judge Belden was sent for and Knapp was brought into court. There were but few spectators present. Knapp took his seat quietly and when the verdict was read did not show any sign of emotion or make any comment. The result of the trial is accepted with great satisfaction by the public. Knapp's mother and sister were very much affected when they heard the verdict. The case will be carried higher on the usual appeals, but it is generally believed that Knapp will be electrocuted.

The five cases to which Knapp confessed February 26, to officials here, are as follows: Emma Littleman, killed in lumber yard at Cincinnati, June 21, 1894; May Eckert, murdered in room on Walnut street, Cincinnati, August 1, 1894; Jennie Knapp, thrown into canal at Liberty street, Cincinati, August 7, 1894; Ida Gebhard, strangled at Indianapolis, July, 1895; Hannah Knapp, murdered at Hamilton, December 22, 1902.

Regarding the killing of his wife, Hannah Knapp, for whose murder he has been convicted, Knapp said that when he awoke the morning of the crime he was seized with an impulse to strangle his wife. After accomplishing her death he got a box and nailed her up. He hauled the body two miles from here and threw the corpse into the Miami river at Lindenwald. The body was found March 2 in the river at New Alb ny.

Knapp has spent two-thirds of his life in prison, but for the five murders to which he confessed he has gone unsuspected until a few unguarded words he let drop, set the law upon him. For years he had been a strangler. He admitted pouncing upon innocent children and choking them to death. He was twice in state prison for assaults upon women. Insanity was the only defense made by his relatives and attorneys. All of his victims were strangled.

Knapp's first wife was Emma Stubbs, of Fort Wayne. She secured a divorce. Knapp's fourth and surviving wife lives at Indianapolis, where he was arrested last February.

Three hours after conviction Knapp said: "I suppose it is all off with me."

A motion for a new trial was filed this afternoon by Knapp's counsel. It will not be heard until next fall.

UNITED STATES ASKED FOR AN EXPLANATION

British Foreign Office Wants to Know Why Borneo Islands Were Annexed.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, July 17.—According to the Daily Chronicle the action of America in annexing the islands off Borneo raises an exceedingly delicate situation and the British foreign office has asked Washington for an explanation.

The islands concerned, says the paper, are a group of seven which originally belonged to the sultan of Sulu, from whom they passed by charter in 1881 to the control of the British North Borneo Company, whose officers confirm that they are undoubtedly British territory. They are insignificant in size, but of the highest strategic importance, dominating Sandakan harbor and Labukay. Their names are Taganac, Baguan, Bakkungsen, Liman, Sibaung, Reesa and Lankayan.

The American side of the question as given by the United States embassy, says the Daily Chronicle is that the islands are undoubtedly American by right of conquest, having belonged to the Philippines and the sultan of Sulu having confirmed and acknowledged American supremacy over them. The course taken was to demonstrate America's right and establish a more clearly defined line between the American possessions in the Philippines and the Sulu sea and the territories of the British Borneo Company.

The islands had never been occupied by any European nation and it is unknown whether Spain ever recognized the trading treaty which existed between the Borneo company and the inhabitants of the islands.

BIGGEST OYSTER BOAT.

One With a Capacity of 5,000 Bushels Being Remodeled for Next Fall's Trade.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN., July 16.—(Special.)—The magnitude of the oyster business in this section is shown by the rebuilding of the steamer Ruel Rowe, which, when completed, will be the largest oyster vessel in existence. The steamer is owned by H. C. Rowe & Co. and was launched several years ago. She is now being cut in two and 26 feet added in the middle, which will give her a length of 110 feet and beam of 22 feet.

H. C. Rowe & Co. expect to use the steamer during the spring catching young oysters in their beds in Long Island sound and transporting them to their grounds in Rhode Island waters; also, for catching matured and fattened oysters from their beds in Narragansett bay and bringing them to their opening and packing houses in New Haven in the fall and winter. The boat will have a capacity of 5,000 bushels of oysters.

The firm of H. C. Rowe & Co. owns in the state of Connecticut 11,152 acres, or about 18 square miles, of oyster lands, which is equivalent to four times the surface of New Haven harbor.

FOUGHT OVER A GIRL.

One Young Negro Is in the Hospital and the Other Under Arrest.

Damon Phinney and Lear Dickerson, 18-year-old negroes, fought over a girl in the Grant boulevard, near Thirty-third street, last night. Phinney is in the West Penn hospital with a serious and perhaps fatal knife wound in his side, and Dickerson is locked up.

Phinney, weak from loss of blood, was picked up on the battlefield by Lieut. Charles Bostock. Phinney told his story and Dickerson was arrested at his home in Webster avenue. The latter did not deny the cutting, but said Phinney first attacked him with a pair of knuckles. Phinney lives at No. 3824 Millwood avenue.

CORNER STONE IS LAID FOR SCIENTISTS' CHURCH

New Edifice Started at Concord Is the Gift of Mary Baker G. Eddy.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CONCORD, N. H., July 16.—The corner stone of the new edifice which Mrs. Eddy has contributed to the Scientists of Concord, N. H., took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The following is the order of service: Scriptural reading, First Corinthians, xi., 9-12, Ephesians, ii., 19-22. Silent prayer, followed by the Lord's prayer, repeated by all present. The following address from the Rev. Mary Baker Eddy was then read:

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, Concord, N. H.

Beloved Brethren:—This day drops down upon the glories of summer; it is a glad day, in autumn, with faith's food trust. We live in an age of love's divine adventure to be all in all. This day is the natal hour of my own earth life; and for all mankind today both its gloom and glory—it endureth all things—it points to the new birth, heaven here, the struggle over—it profits by the past, and joys in the present—today lends a new-born beauty to holiness, patience, charity, love.

Having all faith in Christian Science we must have faith in whatever manifests love for God and man. The burden of proof that Christian Science is false, rests on Christian Scientists. The latter, without the spirit is dead; it is the spirit that heals the sick, and the sinner—that makes the heart tender, faithful, true. Most men and women talk well, and some practice what they say.

God has blessed and will bless this dear band of brethren; He and lo! the chief corner stone of the temple which today you commemorate, tomorrow complete, and thereafter dedicate to truth and love. O may your temple and all who worship therein stand through all time God and humanity.

MARY BAKER G. EDDY.

The corner stone was then placed. The church is a gift of the Rev. Mary Baker G. Eddy to the Concord Scientists and includes a total outlay on her part of $120,000. This sum is also being supplemented by gifts from friends. Recently Boston Scientists presented Mrs. Eddy with the property adjoining the original estate, which is said to have cost in the neighborhood of $14,000.

The church includes, besides the auditorium, a reading room, retiring rooms for the readers, and a room set apart for Mrs. Eddy's use when she visits the church.

When Voter Wishes Good Government Then Good Government Will Come. Illiteracy Not to Blame for Official Corruption.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 16.—It is not often that Chautauqua hears from the platform such a rousing political speech as Dr. Charles Zeublin of Chicago university gave this afternoon. The subject of the address was "Politics," and by way of introduction the speaker said it seemed a threadbare topic but his excuse for choosing it was that we are so painfully ignorant of its meaning and he defined it as only one form of social organization.

Dr. Zeublin attacked all our forms of government from the federal down to the rural. He said there were few admirable things about them, but they all need revision. So much time was consumed in finding fault that the hour for the lecture was gone before the other side of the question could be presented.

Platt, Quay, and Hanna did not escape censure, and Tammany hall, gas and water companies and street railways did not escape their share.

Dr. Zeublin says we do not have representative government because we do not want it. Men are indifferent and it is the indifferent man that is a traitor to his country and he is the one whom we have to fight.

"Some men blame our corrupt government on the illiterate people who come to our shores from the old world. That is a cowardly way to look at the matter. Ten good honest thinking men could furnish us the best government we could desire and the responsibility of existing evils is not upon the shoulders of the illiterate. Our great hope for representative government is in the much criticised cities. It is strange because a man can pass an examination in arithmetic or geography that he should be fitted for a city office, but that is a better reason than appointing your brother, and the best recommendation for it is that the bosses thoroughly despise it. Many men are patriotic enough in conversation, but neglect their duty at the primaries. The only way to learn to be a good citizen is to be one."

W. S. AND W. R. BYERS AVER THE COURT ERRED

Defendants in Suit for $215,000 File Exceptions to Judge Rodgers' Decree.

The defendants in the equity case of Jacob Byers against William S. and W. R. Byers, the action by which the plaintiff obtained $175,000 worth of stock and $40,000 cash from the defendants, yesterday filed exceptions to the statement of facts and conclusions of law of the court. It is alleged that the court erred in failing to find that the burden of proof was upon the plaintiff to establish the averments in the bill; that it erred in failing to find that the preponderance of evidence established the fact that Jacob Byers made a valid gift of the stock and money to W. R. Byers, and that W. S. Byers holds the same as bailee. Exceptions are filed to nearly every paragraph of the court's opinion.

The petition in bankruptcy of William H. Pritchard, a traveling salesman of Pittsburgh, filed yesterday, presents the force of the Ohio law which makes stockholders individually liable to the extent of double the amount of capital stock held. Pritchard's liabilities aggregate $60,705 88 and his assets $1241. Of the former amount, claims against the Ohio Gum Company, a corporation of Ohio which had a Pittsburgh office, represent the bulk of Pritchard's liabilities. His statement shows that he holds 300 shares of the company's capital stock, at a par value of $50 each, which, under the Ohio law, would make him liable for $30,000. William H. Reid of New York appears as a creditor with claims aggregating $5,350 due on promissory notes. G. G. O'Brien also holds a claim of $1,100 against the bankrupt.

John H. Heckman, a saloon keeper of Allegheny, filed his petition in bankruptcy, giving his liabilities as $5,902 45 and his assets $4,100, in the absence of Judge Joseph Buffington an order was issued by Referee William Blair restraining the Pittsburgh Brewing Company from proceeding with a sale of the bankrupt's property.

VIOLENCE IN CHICAGO.

Mob of Strikers Attempts to Wreck Buildings of the Kellog Switchboard Company.

CHICAGO, July 16.—There was another riot today among the striking freight handlers, who again attempted to prohibit the movement of freight from the Kellog Switchboard Company's plant. More than 3,000 people gathered around the works and the blockade was so serious that an extra police guard had to be summoned. In the charge upon the crowd three policemen were hurt.

Tonight a mob gathered around the factory of the Kellogg company at Congress and Green streets and attempted to wreck the building. Many of the windows were smashed and damage amounting to $2,000 was done to the plant before the crowd was dispersed by the police.

CHANGED ITS NAME.

The Iron City Central Labor council held a meeting last night in the Arnfeld building, No. 1119 Penn avenue. The committee appointed to make recommendations for changes in the bylaws reported. Their suggestions, which were carried out, practically reorganized the association. Its name was changed to the Iron City Central Trades council. This was done so that the bricklayers would affiliate, as under the former name any organization could join, but by the change only trades councils can be admitted.

A committee was appointed, consisting of C. H. Carey, J. A. Keeler and C. H. Winslow to visit Superintendent of Police John P. McTighe regarding the purchasing of non-union made police uniforms. If he refuses to give a satisfactory answer regarding the new suits, the matter will be brought to the attention of the city council.

Signed.....

Schilling Bros. will give the above bond with every 50c box of Mi-o-na they sell. You run no risk in buying Mi-o-na.

For years there has been a demand for a natural means of increasing the flesh and Mi-o-na has come to supply this need. It is not a cod liver oil preparation, but a combination of flesh-forming elements with remedies that regulate and aid digestion and restore health.

Everyone who is troubled with dyspepsia, headache, distress after eating, dizzy feeling or loss of appetite or who is losing weight and in a run down condition, should take the guarantee bond to Schilling Bros. and commence the use of Mi-o-na at their risk, remembering that the treatment costs you nothing unless it does all that is claimed for it.

THIS COSTS YOU NOTHING.

Schilling Bros. Will Return Your Money If Mi-o-na Does Not Cure Dyspepsia and Increase Flesh.

There are hundreds of people in Pittsburgh who were not the least bit surprised when they read in The Gazette that Schilling Bros. were selling Mi-o-na under a guarantee to refund the money, in case it did not cure indigestion and increase weight.

This remarkable preparation is a true flesh-forming food, that builds up good, healthy, solid tissues, and makes fatiness and scrawniness a thing of the past.

It tones up the digestive organs, and will cure the worst case of indigestion, headache, dizziness or the depressed, weak condition that afflicts nearly everyone who suffers with stomach trouble. Mi-o-na does not simply relieve; it does lasting good.

In 98 out of every 100 cases where Mi-o-na is used, the result is a restoration of perfect harmony between height and weight and an absolute and permanent cure of all stomach troubles.

There are today hundreds in Pittsburgh who are recommending Mi-o-na because it cured them. A few months ago they were thin and dyspeptic, and could eat nothing without fear of stomach trouble. Since using Mi-o-na they have have made noticeable gain in flesh, can eat what they want, and when they want, without fear or suffering.

Remember, that you risk nothing in buying Mi-o-na. If it gives you the desired effect the cost is trifling, if it fails Schillings Bros. will pay for the remedy themselves.

LETTER FROM SCHILLING BROS. CO.

Will Sign Bond to Refund Money Unless Mi-o-na Restores Health.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Dear Sir:—Having heard that some people question the sincerity of our offer to refund the purchase money if Mi-o-na does not cure dyspepsia, increase the flesh and restore health, we are writing you this letter to say over our own signature that this offer is made in good faith and will be lived up to by us both in the spirit and the letter.

We will give the following bond with every box of Mi-o-na we sell. There is no risk in buying Mi-o-na.

GUARANTEE BOND.

We hereby agree to refund the price paid for Mi-o-na, if the purchaser tells us that it has not increased flesh and given freedom from stomach troubles.

Schilling Bros.

So many of our customers have told us of the great good Mi-o-na has done them, that we are more thoroughly convinced than ever that there is little risk to us in selling Mi-o-na under this guarantee.

The demand for Mi-o-na is increasing rapidly and it is the most popular of all remedies when used for the cure of stomach troubles. If it did not have unusual merit we could not afford to guarantee it.

Your readers can see that they run no risk whatever in buying Mi-o-na.

Respectfully yours,
Schilling Bros.

A FLESH. FORMING FOOD.

If Mi-o-na Does Not Build Up Good Healthy Flesh, Schilling Bros. Will Return Your Money.

Of all the remedies in Schilling Bros.' popular drug store there are very few they are willing to sell with a guarantee to refund the money if they do not give satisfaction.

Mi-o-na, the famous flesh-forming food and cure for stomach troubles has done such wonders among their customers that Schilling Bros. are now advertising. "If Mi-o-na does not give a noticeable gain in weight, if it fails to cure indigestion and all stomach troubles, come back to our store and get your money."

Anyone who has been losing flesh or who has always been too thin, should use Mi-o-na. Thinness and emaciation are signs that the food is not properly assimilated and that you do not get the nourishment you should.

Mi-o-na mingles with the food you eat, aids its assimilation, tones up and strengthens the digestive organs, and puts the whole system in proper physical condition; it saves the digestive organs from exhaustive work. By its use the elements needed to put flesh on your bones will be selected from the food, and each day will show a noticeable gain in weight.

Commence the use of Mi-o-na today at our risk. If it increases your weight and cures you of indigestion, it will cost you 50c, if it does not, Schilling Bros. will pay for the treatment themselves and return your money to you.
